CIRCUS DAY THRONG HERE

Hagenbeck-Wallace Shows Inaugurate 1914 Season in Fort Wayne.

Tented City Has Risen on Old Golf Grounds in East End.

It's here, kids—the first circus of the season.

It's here, and a gay, glad, enthusiastic crowd greeted it. The Hagenbeck-Wallace show, the grandest galaxy in all the world, according to the press agent, arrived in Fort Wayne early Tuesday morning and while the usual program was carried out in much of the same, old-style detail, the circus at the old golf grounds attracted one of the largest crowds to the city that has packed the streets this year.

More than 5,000 people gathered at the Pennsylvania railroad yards early in the morning to watch that ever interesting work of unloading the paraphernalia and later as the sun came over the eastern horizon the crowds started to reach the city. Some came in automobiles, some in carriages, some in buggies and not a few walked, jumped ditches and climbed fences. The small boy playing "hookey" from school was there with his books tucked under his coat.

As early as daylight crowds began to pour into the city. The farmer with his dust covered wagon bearing his family all neatly togged was an early comer.

Work at Grounds.

No time was lost by the circus men when once they had reached the city. The cook stove is the first thing that

Late Flashes from The Sentinel Wires

Rome.—Reports from the greater part of Italy today indicate a general resumption of work by railroad men who have been on strike for several days.

London.—James A. d'Rothschild's Broadwood, bred in the United States, today won the Ascot stakes, the principal race on the first day of the Royal Ascot meeting. Twenty-four ran.

HOPES TO BE REWARDED; GETS ARRESTED INSTEAD.

New York, June 16.—When Barney Jeasmuszkiewiesz, fireman on the steamship New York which was recently rammed by the Hamburg-American liner Pretoria, stepped forward today in the hope that he might be rewarded for his conduct at the time of the accident, he was promptly arrested.

The detective who made the arrest said he was wanted by the Chicago police on charges of assault and battery and robbery. The fireman assumed a new name when he signed the steamship's articles, but when it was rumored that the crew was to be rewarded for their courage he gave his right name.

SECRETARY BRYAN IS YET HOPEFUL

Believes Rebels Will Be Admitted to Mediation Proceedings.

Washington, June 16.—Secretary Bryan was still hopeful today of the ultimate success of mediation despite the developments at the Niagara conference. When he went to the cabinet meeting the secretary of state said he still believed the situation would so shape itself that the constitutionalists would participate in the mediation proceedings in some form.

Heads of the constitutionalists agency here said they had no new advices from Gen. Carranza but did not profess surprise at the action of the mediators insisting upon an armistice and the inclusion of the internal problems of Mexico in the scope of mediation before receiving the constitutionalist delegates.

The general opinion of official circles was that mediation was again confronted with a period of delay and uncertainty but that another step would be worked out soon.

Brig. Gen. Funston reported to the war department today that the food supply of Vera Cruz was not in great danger, although some prices were high and he recommended especially against sending food supplies from the United States, except for troops.

STILL CANVASSING NAMES.

American and Mexican Delegates Seek Successor to Huerta.

Niagara Falls, Ont., June 16.—While there was little expectation of agreement today between the Mexican and American delegates over the organization of a new provisional government in Mexico and the selection of a successor to Gen. Huerta, the delegates continued their consideration of available material in the hope that some person might eventually be suggested who would prove acceptable to all parties.

A number of names have been discussed, but the list is not entirely exhausted. The Americans, however, are being handicapped in their work by the failure of the constitutionalists to furnish the names of persons whom they would be willing to accept as provisional president.

Emilio Rabas, chairman of the Mexican delegation, received a telegram from Gen. Huerta today in which the latter denies that he is being represented in Washington by Charles A. Towne, former United States senator from Minnesota. Gen. Huerta declares that Mr. Towne is not acting as his agent in any capacity. The transfer of Louis Terraszas, wealthy Mexican land owner, from the palace at Chihuahua, where he had been under confinement for many months, to the penitentiary was responsible, it was learned today, for the request by Ambassador Da Gama of Brazil last night to Secretary Bryan through the American delegates to secure his release. The information as to the plight of Terraszas was communicated to the ambassador by Mr. Rabas, who asked that the United States use its influence in his behalf.

QUITS JAIL FREE WOMAN.

Grand Jury Refuses to Indict Slayer of Husband.

Charleston, W. Va., June 16.—Mrs. Dollie McSurley, who recently walked into the sheriff's office and announced that two days before she had killed her husband and hid his body in the cellar of their home walked out of the county jail here today, a free woman. The grand jury refused to return an indictment against her. Mrs. McSurely declared she struck her husband with a hatchet after he had tried to kill her.

HOPES TO INCREASE SPEED.

Designer to Take Four Tons of Lead from Shamrock's Keel.

Gosport, Eng., June 16.—It is understood that Charles E. Nicholson, designer of Sir Thomas Lipton's Shamrock IV, proposes to remove about four tons of lead from the keel of the new challenger for the America's cup. He thinks this will materially increase the speed of the yacht.

Police Unable to Get Trace of Patmont, Missing Again

Detroit, Mich., June 16.—The police department, after working on the case nearly all night, said this forenoon they were absolutely without a clew as to the whereabouts of Rev. Louis R. Patmont, the Westville, Ill., "dry" worker who disappeared last night from his temporary home here where he had been staying since his alleged kidnaping in Illinois in March. The minister's wife and friends also said they had heard nothing from him since he attended church services last evening and started for his rooming place a couple of miles distant.

Mr. Patmont and his wife have been living in Detroit most of the time since he was found in a cellar of a house near Columbia, Ill., where he insisted he had been held in captivity by kidnapers. His disappearance at that time resulted in a nation-wide search and when he was found he gave out a sensational account of his abduction and alleged harsh treatment.

Rev. C. F. Wiley, of this city, took an active part in the search for Patmont when the latter first disappeared and when he was found Mr. Wiley had him brought here and secreted in a house at 160 West Ferry avenue. Several days ago, it is said, Mr. Patmont declared he thought several men were following him. Believing his life was in danger, he made out his will, according to his friends, and the instrument was completed and signed yesterday. They now claim they do not know what became of the will.

Mr. Patmont's expenses during the "dry" campaign previous to his disappearance were being paid by the local church presided over by Rev. Wiley. The missing man was to have left early today for St. Louis to attempt to identify a man held there on suspicion of being one of his kidnapers.

Where Conservation Lost

News Note—The [illegible] "withdrawal" order of President [illegible], issued in 1909, involving more than two million acres of California oil lands, has recently been declared invalid by the federal courts, on the grounds that the president has no power to withdraw land of the public domain from entry unless he is expressly authorized by congress to do so.

DISASTER HAS OVERTAKEN MEN

Case of Crew of Missing Balloon Seems Almost Hopeless.

Portland, Ore., June 16.—That disaster in some form has overtaken the crew of the balloon Springfield, which left here Thursday with three other balloons in a race of the National Aero club seemed certain today. Yesterday and last night a search over the Sandy river district, where the balloon was reported seen at 4:30. Friday morning proved fruitless.

While the officials of the Portland rose festival, who are directing the search for Captain Roy Donaldson, of the Springfield, and Wilbur Henderson, his aide, still held to the hope that the balloon had safely descended, they believed it impossible the aeronauts could have survived the perils of the rough mountains without serious suffering. Additional searching parties left today for points to the south and west of here.

PARIS A SCENE OF DEVASTATION

Many Engulfed as Streets Collapse During Terrific Storm.

Paris, June 16.—Parts of Paris presented scenes of devastation today with gaping holes in some of the main thoroughfares as the result of yesterday's terrific storm. The population of the entire city was deprived of water, gas and electricity, cut off as a precautionary measure against floods, explosions and fires.

Several lives are known to have been lost through vehicles falling into cavities in the earth, but the exact number of dead was not known this morning as some bodies were believed to have disappeared into the sewers. Heavy rainstorms added to the difficulties of the firemen engageed in searching for the bodies of people believed to have been engulfed or buried beneath the debris.

Strict precautions were taken to prevent the public approaching spots where there was danger of further subsidence. Many streets were barred to wheeled traffic entirely while the police kept back pedestrians to a safe distance. A street collapsed early today in the northern district of Montmartre behind the great cemetery, far from the other caveins. People in the vicinity scurried away as the ground began to sink and all managed to escape.

When communication with the suburbs had been partially restored today it was learned that fruit and vegetable growers had suffered enormous damage from the storm. Rain ceased later in the day, but the weather continued [illegible]

WILSON VERY OPTIMISTIC

Confident His Trust Legislation Program Will Be Rushed.

ADJOURNMENT BY THE END OF JULY

Firm Stand by President Spurs Leaders to Speed Up Machinery.

Washington, June 16.—President Wilson was hopeful today that the administration trust legislation program will be passed so congress may adjourn by the end of July. He was optimistic as a result of a conference today with Senator James, of Kentucky, and the conference last night with other senators and the chairmen of working committees.

According to officials close to the president he believes there is no prospect of any organized opposition to the trust

DELVING INTO BANK RECORDS

Examiners Continue Investigation of Wrecked Lorimer Concern.

Chicago, June 16.—Officials of the state banking department today continued their examination of the records in the LaSalle Street Trust and Savings bank, which was closed last Friday. Particular attention was paid by D. V. Harkin, chief examiner, to a search for collateral which secured notes found in the bank.

No estimate of the value of the securities in the vault has been made by the examiners who expected to make a preliminary report to Attorney General Lucey today or tomorrow. The report it was declared would also show what securities, if any, had been transferred as collateral from the LaSalle street to the Broadway State bank, the Ashland-Twelfth Street State bank, the Illinois State bank and the State Bank of Calumet, smaller institutions of what was known as the Lorimer-Munday chain, which were taken in charge by the state officials after the LaSalle Street bank was closed.

William Lorimer, president of the LaSalle Street bank, refused to discuss the affairs of the institution today. C. B. Munday, vice president, added no details to his announcement that a large amount of money would be [illegible]

CENTER PROBE ON TWO MAIN POINTS

Inquiry Into Shipwreck and Death of 1,000 Begins at Quebec.

Quebec, June 16.—With practically all the witnesses and a host of counsel in attendance, the court of inquiry, under the presidency of Lord Mersey, the distinguished British jurist, begins today its investigation of the disaster in the St. Lawrence river, in which the Canadian Pacific's steamer Empress of Ireland sank and more than a thousand persons lost their lives.

The inquiry is expected to center about two main points, these being the question of the international rules preventing collisions and the action taken by the captain of the Storstad, the steamer which collided with the Empress of Ireland, subsequent to the disaster. It is expected that counsel for the owners and officers of the Storstad will contend that when the two vessels sighted each other, the Storstad was off the starboard bow of the Empress of Ireland and according to the rules of the sea the Canadian Pacific liner was bound to keep out of her way.

As to events following the collision

OLD ESCORT CLUB FOLLOWS REMAINS

Funeral Services for Adlai E. Stevenson Held in Bloomington.

Bloomington, Ill., June 16.—With business suspended and the city draped in mourning, Bloomington today paid final honors to former Vice President Adlai E. Stevenson. The body lay in state in the rotunda of the court house for two hours while thousands filed past.

The procession to the church was headed by a band, a troop of Illinois National Guard and surviving members of the Stevenson Escort club, a famous marching organization of the campaign of 1892, which accompanied the vice president-elect to the inauguration at Washington. There followed 300 miners from the McClelland county mine, of which Mr. Stevenson was for many years president, members of the bar association, the mayor and city officials and numerous local organizations.

The Second Presbyterian church held but a fraction of those assembled. The services were conducted by Rev. J. N. Elliott and Rev. Edgar Jones, of Bloomington, and Rev. Martin D. Hardin, of Chicago, the latter a son-in-law of Mrs. Stevenson. The interment at the Bloomington cemetery was private.

The list of honorary pall bearers included many men prominent in law, politics and business, headed by James S. Ewing, formerly ambassador to Belgium and long Mr. Stevenson's law partner; former Governor Joseph W. Fifer, Congressman Fitshenry and former Congressman Sterling. Among the notable persons present were former Vice President Fairbanks, former Governor Francis, of Missouri, and Governor and Mrs. Dunne.

STATE HOUSE IS BADLY CROWDED

Quarters Outside Will Be Rented for Several Departments.

Indianapolis, Ind., June 16.—Meeting in Governor Ralston's office today the state board of buildings and property practically decided to rent the fourth floor of a building at the southeast corner of Market street and Capitol avenue to be used as a housing place for five state departments.

The lease will be signed if terms can be arranged. Under the present plans of the state officials the food and drug laboratories and the pathological laboratories will be transferred to the building.

Besides these state departments those of the state entomologist, the state commissioner of fisheries and game, the state mine inspector and possibly other departments will be housed in the annex.

An appropriation to defray the expenses of renting rooms outside the state house for certain departments will more than take care of the expense.

SMOKING HEAVILY FROM A NEW VENT

Mount Lassen Believed to Be Preparing for Another Eruption.

Redding, Cal., June 16.—Two identical reports received here at noon from different stations of the Northern California Power company said that Mt. Lessen is smoking heavily today from a new vent on the south slope. Earlier reports from Manzanita lake and Macomber flats said the crater was simmering, as it did yesterday.

Yesterday evening slight spurts of steam from the crater led Supervisor Rushing of the United States fore-station at Mineral to predict another eruption which he confidently reiterated today. Lance Graham, the only victim of the eruptions to date, was brought last night from Viola to the hospital here. He withstood the fifty-mile trip well and physicians say today that his remarkable vitality will pull him through providing blood-poisoning does not develop from the wound in his side which was filled with volcanic ash during the six hours he was left for dead on the mountain side a quarter of a mile from the crater.

BURGLARS LOOT POSTOFFICE.

Get Away With $400 in Stamps and $100 in Cash at Gaston.

Gaston, Ind., June 16.—The postoffice at this place was robbed by burglars early today. About $400 worth of stamps and $100 in money and money order forms were taken. Three safes, each weighing 3,000 pounds, were shattered, the doors being blown across a fifteen-foot room and badly wrecking the furniture. A steel chest supposed to [illegible]

80 TRAPPED BY FLAMES

Seven Armenians Perish in Lodging House Blaze at Milford, Mass.

ESCAPE CUT OFF BY SWEEP OF FIRE

Wild Excitement as Crazed Foreigners Leap from Upper Windows.

Milford, Mass., June 16.—Seven men were burned to death and twenty seriously injured when eighty persons were trapped in a burning Armenian lodging house early today.

The bodies were taken from the upper floors of the four and a half story brick and wooden building. In addition to the twenty men taken to the hospital suffering from burns or from injuries received in jumping from windows, thirty sustained minor hurts.

Interior Burned Out.

The interior of the building was burned out. The fire, the cause of which has not been determined, started in the dining hall on the ground of the structure, which was at the corner of West and Cherry streets. When the firemen arrived flames were shooting through all four floors.

Escape by two narrow stairways was cut off and the only means of getting out of the building was by jumping from the windows.

Scene of Wild Excitement.

There was a scene of wild excitement as the crazed foreigners attempted to save their lives.

The building, erected more than fifty years ago, formerly was used as a shoe factory and its timbers were impregnated with oils. The heat was so intense that the firemen were unable to enter and the only way they could aid the occupants was by spreading nets and blankets to catch them as they leaped from the windows.

The victims were laborers and moulders employed at a manufacturing plant in Hopedale. None of them had families. The financial loss is small.

MUST BELIEVE IN REFORM.

Speaker Points Only Way of Settling Liquor Question.

Clinton, Mo., June 16.—The liquor question can be settled only by the three branches of government—legislative, judicial and executive—combining for its solution, declared James H. Wortendyke, of Los Angeles, in an address at the national conference of leaders and workers of the prohibition party here today. Mr. Wortendyke declared the liquor question demanded political party action.

"A law to be effective must be administered by an administration favorable to it," he said. "In like manner prohibition awaits an administration of government by a political party that believes in that reform."

legislation by republicans in the senate and that a filibuster is improbable.

The president expects the railroad securities and the omnibus anti-trust bill to be reported out of committee within the next two weeks.

Has Not Committed Himself.

It was made plain today that he has not finally committed himself to the details of the bills as they passed the house.

The president's attitude against any adjournment without enacting the trust bills had an immediate effect at the capitol. The leaders began hurrying work on the appropriation bills and tuning up the legislative machinery all along the line.

Most of the senators are eager for a mid-summer adjournment. Democratic Leader Kern said he thought the trust program could be disposed of and congress could adjourn before August 1 and he expected no opposition from the republicans.

President Is Firm.

The only measure on the program the enactment of which will be insisted upon are the anti-trust bills already passed by the house or similar measures. It was generally agreed at the conference that congress should be kept in session until the anti-trust program is put through despite the anxiety in congress for an early adjournment.

The president in outlining his position told the senators that while he also was anxious for an early adjournment, yet he strongly felt that the anti-trust program should be enacted during the present session. That rapid progress was being made on the anti-trust bills now under consideration by senate committees was the report made to the president and it was generally conceded that these measures would pass the senate.

Old Bill Again Goes In.

Senator Newlands, chairman of the inter-state commerce commission today reintroduced his bill for the federal incorporation of railroads. He first introduced it in 1912. "The recent decision of the supreme court in the Shreveport rate case and the proposed legislation for the regulation of the issuing of stocks and bonds show the trend is to place the entire jurisdiction of the railroads under the federal government," he said.

Smith Makes Charges.

Charges that the United States kept its marines in Nicaraugua to influence the presidential election and that the state department has been acting in the interest of American bankers, contained in a resolution introduced today by Senator Smith, of Michigan, were referred to the senate foreign relations committee.

The resolution charges that the Nicaraguan railway was sold much below its value to the bankers and that the last election in Nicaraugua was intentionally influenced by the presence of United States troops in violation of the treaty with Nicaraugua. Ernest H. Wands, financial agent for Nicaraugua, the resolution says, was designated by the state department in the interest of the bankers.

Jones May Be Governor.

Thomas D. Jones, of Chicago, nominated yesterday for the six year term on the federal reserve board, was said in officials circles today to be the president's choice for governor of the board. Charles S. Hamlin, of Boston, was expected to be made vice governor.

Reports continue that confirmation of some of the nominees will be opposed in the senate. Officials close to the president declared he considered the entire board so good that he will support the nominations to his utmost.

interests circus folks early in the morning. Napoleon said that an army moved on its stomach, and the same may be said of a great circus organization. And so this morning the first tent to nose its way into the air was the one in which 17 chefs preside. In the "cook house" there are 22 feet of steel cooking ranges, and half an hour after the arrival of the first wagon on the show grounds, savory fumes were issuing from a dozen little smokestacks. Jimmy Davis, who presides over the culinary department of the Hagenbeck-Wallace circus said that almost 1,090 people were on hand for breakfast. They wanted their "coffee and" as well as their griddle cakes, and more than 3,000 of the latter were served.

With breakfast over the work of erecting the tented city began in earnest. There were no halts or perplexing delays. The ponderous poles were raised into the air with a celerity that was amazing. Intricate tangles of rope and canvas appeared to fall into place. And in a remarkable short time the once barren lot was a bustling, hustling little city with a population of 1,100 souls which was increased many thousand more by spectators who thronged every available spot to watch the workingmen.

The Parade.

With bands trumpeting, horses prancing, clowns shouting and calliopes "tooting," the monster street pageant of the Hagenbeck-Wallace circus moved through the downtown street at noon without a hatch. Thousands lined the streets, curbing and crowded the windows in an effort to catch a glimpse of the circus finery.

And what they saw was not disappointing, hundreds of horses gaily capraisoned in silver trapping and brass elicited interest. And the funny clowns afforded merriment to the little tots, who clapped their hands in childish glee at the antics of the fun-makers, who made grimaces from their seats, perilously high on the top of wagons. "It was some pee-rade," said one small boy, and after all, everyone seems to be a kid when the circus comes to town.

With the parade over the show grounds became the objective point. Street cars were crowded to overflowing and many clung to the hand-guards and railing. Everything was in readiness to receive the great crowds. The side shows did a land office business. A tall, slim young man, depicted in glowing terms the merits of his attraction and the wonders to be seen on the "inside" for the price, "ten cents." The snake lady looked bored as she gazed down on the gaping crowd. The giant shuffled awkwardly in his massive chair and inquired the ball score. The side show bands played as only circus bands can play and the general verdict was to "see it all."

It was shortly before 2 o'clock when the doors to the big show were opened, and for almost an hour a constant stream of humanity poured into the "big top." Preceding the performance by thirty minutes a concert of classic and popular music was rendered by Prof. Al Massey's band of sixty-eight soloists. The big show performance began at the conclusion of the musical concert and cabaret.

The show reached the city in separate divisions fifteen minutes apart from Lima, Ohio, where it exhibited Monday. Wednesday morning, after the Fort Wayne crowds have been entertained, the tented city will be torn down, loaded on wagons and then on the train, and will leave the city for Huntington, where the same operation of erecting a miniature city will be gone through for the two performances there tomorrow.

WATCHFUL WAITING AT VERA CRUZ.

CHALLENGING AND SEARCHING SUPPOSED CONTRABANDS PASSING THROUGH AMERICAN LINES AT VERA CRUZ.

(By Fred L. Boalt.)

Vera Cruz, June 16.—When there is no war, though the stage is set for it, what, please, are soldiers and war correspondents to do?

One can but watch and wait, and be ready, and look the part, and pretend.

So Shepherd, of the United Press, and I rode out to the little outpost on the beach, five miles north of Vera Cruz, found the sergeant in command pretending to be worried.

"The spiggoties have been coming in since last night," he said, "and they are bringing their clothes and pots and pans with them. They won't say why they are in such a hurry to get inside the American lines, except that there is too much pom-pom outside."

Oh, fine! The game was getting good. We continued to the box car camp of Captain Hughes, of the marines, a lean and sinewy young warrior.

"I am not sure it means anything," said Captain Hughes, "and I hope it doesn't"—wherein he lied—"but the peons are frightened about something and are coming in. A few shots were fired an hour ago. I have notified headquarters."

A figure stood at the salute in the door of the tent. Night had fallen, and the light from the lantern revealed a grisled and mustached veteran.

The veteran had been scouting in the bush, alone. This is great fun. He had seen a bomb-proof entrenchment, new. He had found a new-worn trail. He had seen three federals in tattered uniforms skulking in the buah.

Far away fires—one, two, three—glowed against the sky. We denied vehemently that they were mere charcoal fires. We argued that they were too large, too bright. Somewhere out yonder there was war.

An orderly sprang at us out of the darkness.

"The telephone, sir! Headquarters!"

So headquarters, too, was playing the game. Captain Hughes dashed away and back again.

"We are to call up headquarters every half hour through the night," he told us, and added: "And, gentlemen, I am sorry, but I am instructed by the chief of staff to send you back to the city."

Our horses stepped gingerly along the twisting trail. Night birds called. And out of the silence came with a shock:

"Halt! Who's there?"

Oh, delicious fright! Oh, exquisite trepidation!

We found our voices, though we could not, I confess, master the quaver in them, for sentries nervous in the dark have been known to shoot.

"Newspaper correspondents with passes!"

"Dismount and advance—one!"

Six times we were challenged, and each time we were delightfully scared. We whistled "Swance River"—not too loudly—to let the sentries know of our approach.

A turn in the track, and we saw the lights of Vera Cruz.

The game was ended.

Her Royal Shyness Discovers Plot at Buckingham Palace

Princess Maud

While the Pankhurst militants stormed Buckinham palace from the park a suffrage plot failed, discovered (says report) by no less a lady than H. H. Princess Maud, daughter of Princess Royal—dowager duchess of Fife.

London society knows relatively little of the young princess. Her father, the late duke of Fife, shrank from attending court where those responsible for assigning precedence never knew where to place him.

But her "royal shyness" possesses a will of her own and a romantic yearning to marry and reform a certain prince in exile. King George's arguments proving non-efficacious, the recalcitrant princess was bidden to visit at Buckingham that Queen Mary might employ moral suasion.

HAS $20,000,000 TOTAL IN FORCE

Lincoln Life Company Has Completed Purchase of Michigan Life.

The business of the Michigan State Life Insurance company has just been re-insured by the Lincoln National Life company, of Fort Wayne, and the whole amounting to about $7,500,000 of insurance, gives the Lincoln company, of this city, $20,000,000 insurance in force and approximately $1,750,000 in assets.

This deal has been pending for more than one year, and for the past fifteen month A. F. Hall, general manager and secretary of the Lincoln Life company, has assumed the duties of president of the Michigan State Life, while Dan B. Ninde acted as vice president and Franklin Meade as secretary and actuary.

Mr. Hall stated Tuesday morning that the deal just closed will not result in a change in the officers of the local company. Three car loads of equipment from the Michigan offices at Detroit has been shipped to Fort Wayne, and as a result of the increased equipment, it will be necessary for the Lincoln Life to take up more than one floor in its building, on East Berry street.

CENTER PROBE ON TWO MAIN POINTS

the representatives for the Storstad will offer testimony to show that the collier heard the cries of the drowning and whistled repeatedly to the Empress, but received no reply and immediately lowered boats to engage in the work of rescue.

The government has subpoenaed between sixty and seventy witnesses and the inquest is expected to be in session a week or more.

Faces Court on His Feet.

Capt. Kendall, skipper of the Empress of Ireland, was the first witness called. Although Kendall still limped from the injuries he received, he refused a seat and faced the court on his feet.

The examination of witnesses was preceded by brief summaries by counsel representing the owners of the two vessels. Counsel for the Storstad declared that when she first sighted the Empress the latter was off the Storstad's port. Two minutes later the fog shut down, the Storstad signalled by whistle that she was under way and keeping her course, heading west by south. Their statement continues:

"When the whistles of the Empress were heard again the mate in charge of the Storstad put his wheel to port while he slowed up. The wheel was put hard to port and when she did not answer it, assistance was given by steaming up sufficiently. Two long blasts were given to indicate that the vessel had lost steerage way. About the same time the engineroom was ordered to go slow ahead so that the vessel would not become unmanageable. The captain, who had gone below, was called up by the mate. He asked, 'Can you see Father Point?' and the mate said that it had just been shut out by the fog. He made no mention of the Empress and called the captain because he had asked to be called if it got foggy.

"When the captain got on deck he saw the mastlights of the Empress three points to port. He immediately ordered full steam astern. The vessels were then about 800 feet apart. The green light of the Empress appeared. Three minutes later the vessels came together. The master of the Storstad heard a hail from the Empress telling him to keep going ahead. He had ordered this, but found he couldn't keep the collier's nose in the Empress' wound. The Storstad was swung around until she was parallel with the liner and the collier's master was afraid his ship would be struck on the port side by the starboard quarter of the Empress. He had to swing around in a complete circle and in the meantime the Empress disappeared. The Storstad blew signals to the liner, but it did not answer. About ten minutes afterward the master of the Storstad heard a chorus of cries and proceeded toward them with care, his four boats ready to launch. The Storstad's boats saved several hundred of the Empress' survivors and manned entirely an Empress boat on its trip back to the scene of the wreck and another boat partially."

TELLS STORY OF THE DEVIL BABY

Jane Addams, of Hull House, Recounts Gossip to Club Federation.

Chicago, June 16.—The story of the "devil baby" of Hull house was told by the head of the social center, Jane Addams, to the convention of the general federation of women's clubs here today. The story was told in connection with a plea that club women extend the hand of fellowship to immigrant women, especially the older women.

Miss Addams said the origin of fairy stories seems to have been with primitive women who invented them to influence to gentler ways their brutal lords and masters.

"There was of course no devil baby, but such currency did the story have that for six weeks the ordinary activities of Hull house were almost suspended while we explained to hundreds of ignorant inquirers that it was all a fairy story," said Miss Addams. "Finally we placed detectives at work and we found two versions. The Italian version was that a Christian girl married an atheist who, at the culmination of an assault on his wife, tore down a sacred picture and declared that he would rather have a devil in the house than his wife, 'and when a child was born,' ran the story, 'Lo, it was a devil with horns and hoofs and tail.'

"The Jewish version differed but little," continued Miss Addams. "It concerned a father whose wife had borne him seven daughters and upon the approach of the eighth he swore he would rather have a devil in the house than another daughter. And the story, like that of the Italians, concluded with the birth of the 'devil baby.'

"In both cases, went the gossip, the frightened parents had brought the imp to the Hull house." Miss Addams explained that detectives found that immigrant mothers were trying to persuade their daughters against unorthodoxy, or doubtful conduct by threatening them with impish progeny.

Miss Margaret Woodrow Wilson, daughter of the president, arrived here today. She is on the program to lead in singing "Brotherhood" at the convention this afternoon and speak briefly tomorrow night on "The greatest service the general federation can render the young women of America."

"Gifts of ill gotten wealth should be cast back into the teeth of the giver until he gave evidence of repentance and restitution," declared Edward A. Ross, professor of sociology in the University of Wisconsin, here today in his address to the general federation of women's clubs.

"Such gifts cost society more than they are worth," he said. "The real fight to uplift humanity centers around the conditions and the pay of labor. This is a terrible shock to the whole system of reliance on private philanthropy."

Private benevolence should be restricted to experimental work, was Prof. Ross' conclusion. The state's dependents, he said, should be cared for by the state.

Problems of immigrant women, industrial and social conditions of women and children, civic and school problems were the subjects of addresses on the program for today. The list of officers, headed by Mrs. Percy V. Pennybacker, the presidential incumbent, which was placed in nomination yesterday without opposition, was balloted for today.

Applewood is the favorite material for ordinary saw handles, and some goes into so-called briar pipes.

CONSTIPATION

Is Not Really Cured by Violent Cathartic and Purgative Drugs.

The World's Greatest Doctors Now Prescribe USOLINE, Nature's Own Marvelous Lubricator.

If you have constipation a "dose of pills" will generally relieve your bowels. You'll have colic, gripe and cramps, but then, of course, those who persist in using astringent drugs must expect to have pains, because such violent preparations always cause griping, and larger and still larger doses are necessary. After a while you'll have to change to some more powerful purgative to get any relief whatever. Every sufferer from constipation knows this to be a fact.

But purgatives and cathartics do not CURE constipation — they simply AGGRAVATE it, make it chronic, and then comfort, health and happiness are gone from your life.

Eating, digesting and assimilation of food are purely natural, easy, unnoticeable functions, and so should be the movements of the bowels, and so they will be if you will stop drug-poisoning your system, and take a little USOLINE, which is an absolutely pure mineral product, pumped from the interior of the earth, in Russia.

USOLINE is tasteless, odorless and colorless, and has a wonderfully gentle, soothing and lubricating effect on the bowels, making the movements smooth, easy and regular.

You know the discomforts and dangers of constipation; most of you know the unsatisfactory effects of drugs, and we believe you will appreciate an opportunity to try a real remedy — USOLINE. Imported only by the OIL PRODUCTS COMPANY, New York, and sold by druggists generally, 25c., 50c. a bottle, and $1 a three pint tin. Also in capsules, 2 dozen in a box, 50c. Enquire or write for printed matter.

WOUND WILL CAUSE DEATH.

Man Who Drove Nail in Skull Takes Turn for Worse.

Portland, Ind., June 1.—Charles L. Bisset, who since Friday has been hovering between life and death in the hospital ward at the county jail as the result of an attempt to commit suicide June 8, by driving a rusty nail into his skull, was removed Monday about noon to the City hospital. The aged mother, Mrs. Frank Bisset, who had been expected here since middle of last week, arrived a few minutes before her son was taken from the jail to the hospital She resides at Merricksville, Ontario, Canada, having removed to that city from Cornwall, Canada, where the family lived when the son left home several years ago.

A letter from the father was received Sunday by Charles Alexander, master of the local Masonic lodge. The letter bore the tidings that the father of the sick man was a former master of the lodge in his home city and asked that care be given the son, saying also that the expenses would be taken care of.

Bisset is a former pharmacist and worked for a time at his chosen profession in a Cleveland, Ohio, drug store. He was addicted to the use of intoxicants and it was while under the influence of liquor that he attempted to kill himself by driving a nail into his skull.

FARMER SEVENTY INJURED.

Bluffton, Ind., June 16.—Reuben Miller, a well known farmer, who lives northwest of Bluffton, suffered a compound fracture of the right ankle in a runaway accident. It is thought that he sustained the hurt when he jumped or was thrown from the runaway rig and alighted with one foot twisted under him. The fracture is serious because of the fact that the broken end of one of the bones lacerated the flesh severely. Mr. Miller had been in Bluffton on business and was driving home. The accident happened at the Peter Faylor corner, when he was only a quarter of a mile from home.

COMMON LAW MARRIAGE FAILS.

Portland, Ind., June 16.—John Van Horn, on Monday forenoon, drew a fine of $100 and a jail sentence of 30 days, when he appeared before Judge Moran on a charge of specific immorality. Van Horn's co-defendant, Miss Katie Watt, of Newcastle, has not been tried on the charge pending against her and since she was victimized by Van Horn it is expected that she will be excused by the state and not prosecuted. The court held that the old common law marriage could not be effective in this case, despite the fact that Miss Watt contended that she believed she was the lawfully wedded wife of Van Horn.

IS BOUND TO END HIS LIFE.

C. H. Fluke, Farmer Near Markle, Is Twice Rescued.

Markle, Ind., June 16.—C. H. Fluke, a farmer residing near here, has been declared insane after having been thwarted in two attempts to commit suicide. First he jumped into a cistern half filled with water and tried to drown himself. He had escaped the vigilance of watchers who had set out to prevent his repeated threats to kill himself and got into the cistern. He was taken from the cistern little harmed by his experience and was again placed in his bed. Somehow he had obtained a piece of wire and this he fastened around his neck and then hitched the wire to his bedpost in an effort to strangle himself. Again the timely discovery of effort to die resulted in the saving of his life. Fluke has several brothers and sisters who have gone insane and it is said that constant brooding that such a fate was in store for him has finally dethroned his own reason. He was taken to Bluffton, where a lunacy commission declared him insane.

JAIL-BREAKER CAPTURED.

Albion, Ind., June 16.—Harry Lounsbury, who with three others broke jail here more than a week ago, is again behind the bars here. He was captured at Goshen, Sunday evening, when he applied at the Elkhart county jail for lodging. The turnkey at once recognized him as one of the fugitives from the Noble county bastile, placed him under arrest and notified Sheriff John C. Cleland here that he had one of his escaped prisoners. Sheriff Cleland thought the men who accomplished the jail delivery here had help from the outside, but this Lounsbury strongly denies. He says they made a saw out of a jackknife and had no trouble cutting the steel bars of the window through which they escaped. Since breaking jail Lounsbury had been to Utica, N. Y., and back. He denies any knowledge of the whereabouts of John Byron, Fred Cravens and Frank Storey, who escaped with him, saying he left them at Kendallville.

WILL DENY ROADS GENERAL ADVANCE

Freight Rate Decision is Forecasted by Washington Writer.

Chicago, June 16.—The Herald today prints the following from its Washington correspondent, John Callan O'Laughlin:

The Chicago Herald is in a position to announce the salient points of the decision of the interstate commerce commission on the petition of the railroads of the eastern division of the country for a 5 per cent. increase in rates.

They are:

1. The commission will deny the application for a flat increase of 5 per cent.

2. However, it will grant increases ranging from 1 to 5 per cent. and perhaps higher on commodities now transported below cost.

3. It will decline to make advances on certain other commodities.

4. The public will be emphatically warned that the increases ordered do not justify any advance in the prices of food or other necessities.

5. The railrads will be denounced for engaging in a gigantic conspiracy to create a public sentiment in favor of the 5 per cent. increase and against the commission.

The task of making equitable rates upon the thousand upon thousand commodities is a tremendous one, and is responsible for the delay of the commission in filing its decision. Frequently a a change in the rate for the transportation of one commodity affects the rates upon hundreds of others.

Report Ready in Month.

The commission has completed part of the work. But a vast amount remains to be done. It is not believed the commission will be able to report much before a month.

The questions which the commission was forced to consider in connection with the rate matter were the following:

Do the railroads need more money in order to perform the duties of common carriers?

Should it be found that they need more money, is it because of inadequate rates or inefficient management or because of discrimination in the interest of big shippers and favored localities?

The first question the commission will answer partially in the affirmative.

The second question will be answered in this fashion:

Some rates are too low. There is no doubt of inefficient and extravagant management.

The third question will be a subject of continued investigation by the commission.

The commission rejected some time ago the proposal for a general increase in rates of 5 per cent. It was considered that this would be unfair, because some of the railroads in the district affected do not need the advance.

$18,000,000 Saved to Roads.

For example, as a result of an investigation and an order issued as a result thereof by the commission, something like $18,000,000 was saved annually to the coal-carrying railroads of West Virginia. Obviously these roads do not need any advance in rates.

Then, again, if the average of 5 per cent were granted, the increase would be less than 5 per cent in many cases and more than that in others, running as high as 50 and 60 per cent.

Moreover, the commission realized that if a flat increase in rates were given to the eastern roads, the carriers of the North, West and South would demand the same concession. The effect would be to impose upon the country a heavy burden and to cause a general advance in prices on necessities of life. The commission would feel derelict in its duty if it were to authorize anything of the kind, especially in view of the fact that some of the railroads do not need an increase upon certain kinds of freight which they now transport at a big profit.

Remove Monkey Wrench.

So after careful deliberation with the interests of the whole country considered, the commission decided to make an increase upon rates for given commodities. By its action it is satisfied it will remove from the machinery of business the monkey wrench which it holds was thrown into the wheels by "big business."

The advances to be made on the commodities will be such as to remove all cause for complaint on the part of the railroads that they are being driven to the wall by the harsh attitude of the commission. They will not have as the excuse for a policy of retrenchment the claim that they are being ground down by the commission.

On the other hand, the public will not be defrauded. The commission, in its decision, will make absolutely clear the fact that the increase in rates does not justify any raise in prices. If the grocer, the butcher and the candlestick-maker seek to boost prices on the ground that they have to pay more for the transportation of the goods they sell, the public will know that their action is absolutely without justification.

THE SENTINEL'S DAILY SCRIPTURE READING.

Acts 10:17-28.

17 Now while Peter doubted in himself what this vision which he had seen should mean, behold the men which were sent from Cornelius had made inquiry for Simon's house, and stood before the gate,

18 And called, and asked whether Simon, which was surnamed Peter, were lodged there.

19 While Peter thought on the vision, the Spirit said unto him, Behold three men seek thee.

20 Arise therefore, and get thee down, and go with them, doubting nothing; for I have sent them.

21 Then Peter went down to the men which were sent unto him from Cornelius; and said, Behold, I am he whom ye seek, what is the cause wherefore ye are come?

22 And they said, Cornelius the centurion, a just man, and one that feareth God, and of good report among all the nation of the Jews, was warned from God by an holy angel to send for thee into his house, and to hear words of thee.

23 Then called he them in, and lodged them, And on the morrow Peter went away with them, and certain brethren from Joppa accompanied him.

24 And the morrow after they entered into Caesarea. And Cornelius waited for them, and had called together his kinsmen and near friends.

25 And as Peter was coming in, Cornelius met him, and fell down at his feet, and worshipped him.

26 But Peter took him up, saying, Stand up; I myself also am a man.

27 And as he talked with him, he went in, and found many that were come together.

28 And he said unto them, Ye know how that it is an unlawful thing for a man that is a Jew to keep company, or come unto one of another nation; but God hath shewed me that I should not call any man common or unclean.

Victory for Illinois Women

Feminine voters in Illinois have just achieved a notable victory in the supreme court of that state, where the Illinois woman suffrage act of 1913, has been declared constitutional in its entirety. The court was divided in its opinion by a vote of 4 to 3, to be sure, and the fact that the dissenting judges were all democrats may or may not be either significant or important. The court's division in no wise minimizes the importance of the victory or the validity of the law.

With state and congressional elections approaching the case attracted unusual attention, and not in Illinois alone. The fact that in elections held this spring in which women were allowed to vote resulted in the ousting of saloons from many Illinois towns also lent a good deal of keen interest to the case in the supreme court.

Summarized, the decision means in effect: That Illinois women have the unquestioned right to vote for presidential electors and for all statutory officers, as specifically provided in the 1913 act. They have the undisputed right to vote at all local option elections and upon all public policy questions which are not constitutional questions. That the election officials in Chicago were within their powers in designating women judges and clerks of election. That women are now full-fledged members of political parties and as such entitled to vote for committeemen and to serve as such. That the election officials in Chicago must proceed to redistrict the voting precincts to care for the 300,000 women voters who have been added to the list of qualified voters. That women have the right to be candidates for those offices for which they have the right to vote under the 1913 act.

Such a triumph is complete enough to satisfy the most exacting advocate of the right of suffrage for women, and it may be remarked in passing that something very simlar is going to happen in many other states before many years have elapsed. Mere man might just as well get ready for it and be complacent about it.

There was a time not so long ago when many of the dairymen were inclined to be resentful of the regulations imposed by the city and state health departments to insure the delivery of pure and clean milk to Fort Wayne consumers. It is gratifying to learn that all this is changed. Inspector Schott and his assistants declare that for the most part instead of rebellion and defiance on the part of the dairymen there is now a marked willingness to comply with all the requirements and pronounced improvement as a result.

---

But little less sensational than his fullisade against the lobbyists a year ago is President Wilson's new charge that the apparent sentiment for postponement of the anti-trust legislative program is purely a manufactured affair, the result of organized campaign to that end by certain special interests. Mr. Wilson does not under-estimate the potency of presidential pronunciamento as a remedial agent, and he does not hesitate to utilize it when he believes the occasion warrants.

---

Three Fort Wayne boys of tender years, taken on a burglary charge, confessed that they had also planned a more or less pretentious hold-up campaign which was nipped in the buy by their arrest. It is unfortunate that such ambitious genius did not seek an outlet along lines that would have avoided the stigma of arrest for the lads and distress most poignant for members of their families.

---

Perhaps the identity of the men who removed the ninety-seven planks from Colonel Foster's water front near the junction of the St. Mary's and the St. Joe is destined to solemnly take its place beside that other historic local mystery which has for so many years enshrouded the burning of the late Mr. Strope's more or less celebrated barn.

PRESS COMMENT ON CROP PROSPECTS.

Wealth in Land.

Buffalo Courier: "The wealth of a nation is in its land, and the land of this nation promises to yield this year its wealth most bountifully—to the discomfiture of croakers and of narrow politicians."

Boon to Country.

Philadelphia Inquirer: "The good crops will come as a boon to the country. They will help a portion of the population, but it is manifest that they can not restore business confidence."

Having Effect.

Birmingham Age-Herald: "The splendid crop situation is having a direct effect on business. The railroads are beginning to buy equipment and plan for betterments on a large scale."

Blow to Pessimists.

New York Times: "An increase of 114,000,000 bushels [of wheat] above the previous maximum is a sad blow to the pessimists. Their indignation grows as they contemplate the excellence of the foreign demand."

Democratic Turmoil.

Baltimore American: "The country has been peculiarly favored by farming conditions since the beginning of the democratic turmoil. Natural conditions, the country over, are all right; nobody has ever suggested that they were otherwise."

Congress.

Wilmington Every Evening: "Nature is splendidly doing her part to make the country prosperous. Congress seems to be doing its best to discount the good work of nature and inflict evil upon the land."

The Farmers.

Indianapolis Star: "With prices anywhere near normal the farmers will have plenty of money, and their financial condition should be reflected in all lines of business."

TAKING THE NEXT BEST.

"There are as good fish in the sea as were ever caught," runs a proverb. So, when the man she was to marry kept her waiting at the church, Bertha Aigon, of Scranton, kept faith with her assembled friends by proposing to and marrying the best man.

Will she be happy?

That, of course, depends.

Whichever man a woman marries there are probably times—more than hubby would like to realize—when she fancies she might have done better had she taken some one else.

In your own case, dear madam, honest, now, isn't that true.

Yet, having made a choice, unless it's uncommonly bad, the sensible woman proceeds to draw rein on these errant fancies and make the best of it.

Life is mostly a series of accommodations. What we get is never quite equal to what we want or what we think we ought to have. It's lucky this is so, for it keeps us striving. But strive as we may, we never reach the goal of our hopes and are fortunate if, in the inevitable compromises, we make enough headway to keep our hopes sweet.

So we shouldn't be at all surprised if Bertha's swift swap might turn out to be quite as satisfactory as the original plan.

Clearly a man who can't remember his wedding day isn't ripe for matrimony.

CONCERNING HEALTH NEWS.

A doctor, talking before a group of doctors in an eastern state, said they ought to loosen up more and let folks know what is going on in their profession.

He suggested, for example, that if each newspaper had a trained physician on its staff to pass on medical pieces before they get into print it would help a lot.

Undoubtedly, if the trained physician were also a trained newspaper man. Very few activities of life are richer in human interest than the battles of the doctors with disease; but as the usual doctor would describe them it would take a classical dictionary, an encyclopedia and a course in college to make the average layman understand.

But is it so certain that a trained doctor would be the best man to report results in medical progress? Isn't his professional knowledge liable to be offset by professional prejudices?

The best source of simplified information about real achievements in this field that we know is a properly trained public health officer, who has been seasoned in the right use of publicity.

The city which has one is to be congratulated.

PICKS BEST FOR SUMMER FESTIVAL

Committee Secured Carnival Shows That Stand the Acid Test.

In developing its plans for the Summer Festival and Children's Playgrounds benefit for the week of June 22, the local committee in charge kept uppermost in its purpose the determination to provide the people of Fort Wayne a week of clean, wholesome amusement that should prove enjoyable to all who might participate in the six days of fete pleasures and that should leave no bad taste in the mouth of anybody. To this end the committee sought for the best carnival company that could be procured and was very fortunate in being able to close a contract with the Con T. Kennedy shows, which come to Fort Wayne with the undisputed distinction of being the largest and best amusement enterprise of its kind in the world.

In the series of shows and attractions that the Kennedy institution is offering for the season of 1914 the skill and experience of years, backed by unlimited means, have been exerted to make a great amusement enterprise that presents novelty with moral cleanliness and combines the spectacular with educational usefulness. The Kennedy shows will in this city as in scores of other places stand the test of a critical public opinion and establish here as elsewhere a high repute and command the unqualified approval of the amusement-loving public.

Con T. Kennedy is always in personal charge of his great amusement enterprise and he will directly superintend the exhibition in Fort Wayne from the opening day until the last front is closed on the final performance. The high repute of the Kennedy shows has been built upon the expenditure of too much money and upon the pains of too much hard and devoted labor to be sacrificed even to a day of ill-considered management. While the Kennedy shows are a financial enterprise, as all amusement undertakings necessarily are if they are to succeed, Mr. Kennedy takes the same pride in having his big institution prosper on approved merit that any honorable business man takes in the manner by which his affairs prosper. It is his ambition and his pleasure to make his shows the greatest of their kind and to maintain their repute as the best and cleanest in the field where they must compete on their merits and excellencies for the approbation of the public.

Wheat King Patten Wins 'Varsity "N" in "Athletic" Feat

Evanston, Ill., June 16.—"Jim" Patten, the man who made the whole world pay more for bread by his wheat corner of a few years ago, has discovered that he is an athlete.

Patten spent a good bundle of profits of his grain speculations in building a gymnasium for Northwestern university here. When the alumni gathered all wanted to fittingly reward "Jim" and decided to give him the greatest of all college athletic honors, the right to wear the letter "N" on his sweater—if "Jim" Patten, with his $20,000,000, ever wears a sweater.

But an obstacle was encountered. The "N" is purely an athletic reward. No one seemed to remember what Patten ever did in athletics.

But—happy thought:

"He lifted a whole cotton crop without taking off his coat or mopping his forehead, suggested one alumnus.

And "Jim" got the honor.

AUTOMATIC GUN THAT FAIRLY MOWED DOWN ITS FOES, GOING INTO ACTION.

McArthur's Command in Fierce Fighting

(Editor's Note.—General Funston has related how the march to Malolos, the rebel capital, was begun, and how Major General MacArthur's division, of which Funston's regiment was a part, encountered a large force of the enemy prepared to make a stand along the line of march. MacArthur deployed his division for the conflict.)

CHAPTER XVI.

By GEN. FREDERICK FUNSTON, Brigadier General, United States Army.

According to the plans of battle, Wheaton's brigade, which was on the extreme left of the line, occupying the old Caloocan trenches, was to wait until the brigades of Otis and Hale had pierced the center of the line and then moved out straight to the front, the supposition being that Hale's brigade by making a rapid left turn would cut off the retreat of the enemy. We heard toward our left rear a crackle of rifle fire, which in a moment swelled into a most appalling amount of sound, and we knew that the fiery Wheaton was going after them hammer and tongs.

Gen. Funston

If any one thinks that more than 4,000 men using breech-loaders as rapidly as they can load and fire can not awaken the echoes, I wish he could have heard the astonishing roar that smote our ears on this occasion. There was no rattle, just a roar that drowned individual shots, and through which the carshes of the field pieces could barely be distinguished.

This brigade soon reached the south bank of the river. The country on the front of Hale's brigade was to us a veritable unknown land. It was out of the question for troops in extended order to make any rapid progress through it, and the day had turned out to be very hot. The situation made it necessary for us to remain where we were until the next morning.

During the night we were aroused by about a dozen shots from one of our outposts, and a man came in to report that a small band of the enemy trying to sneak up on it had been driven off. The officer of the day went out to investigate, and after some searching found a very old and innocent-looking carabao bull in the last stages of dissolution, with half a dozen bullet holes in him. The men of this outpost had to stand considerable chaffing. But they were at least entitled to credit for good shooting.

The next morning an adjustment of the line made it necessary for us to move half a mile up the river, and a little before noon the march was resumed along a wagon road. The Third artillery had the advance, and we followed. We could hear heavy firing toward Malinta, and knew that Wheaton's brigade was shoving the enemy out of the trenches near there. It was evident from the amount of firing that the fighting was severe.

I put my regiment to double time, moved to the right of the road, and crowded the men for all they were worth. It was rather a poor piece of business, for by the time they began to deploy they were so "winded" as to be almost useless. Finally we got a few companies in line and began firing, at the same time going forward by rushes. But the distance, nearly fifteen hundred yards, was too great for our Springfields, and I doubt if we hit a man. The men fell out by dozens, completely exhausted. I rode among them and I am afraid did not exactly bless them, but it was no use. Soon the fleeing Filipinos were out of range of even the Krags of the Third artillery, and the affair was over. The Twentieth Kansas had had only one man hit. Private Fairchild, killed.

We again formed column and resumed the march to Malinta, which place we found occupied by Wheaton's brigade after severe fighting. I saw General Wheaton and was informed by him that Colonel Egbert, of the Twenty-second infantry, had been killed a short time before.

Hale's brigade had pushed through the woods toward the town of Meycauayan, where the insurgents made a strong stand in trenches previously constructed. At a distance we watched the beautiful fight taking place in the open country, and with our field glasses could make out quite well what was going on. In this combat General Hale was slightly wounded, and Captain Krayenbuhl, of his staff, was killed. Enough high bullets from the fight dropped among us to give us something of a personal interest in the matter, and a man of the Third artillery near us was wounded by this long-range, dropping fire.

After the fight was over, and Hale's brigade had occupied the town with the fearful and wonderful name, or rather the place where it had been before the Filipinos in their retreat burned it, our brigade resumed its march for a couple of miles, and bivouacked in line in the open fields.

We arose refreshed from our beds of straw, had our bacon, hardtack and coffee, and began a rather strenuous and noisy day.

As we pushed slowly north, the advance of my regiment five hundred yards in the rear of the Third artillery, a lively popping broke out a mile up the road, and we knew that the advance guard of the brigade was again getting into touch with the enemy. For a time two or three of the companies of the Third artillery had been in column on the road in the heart of the town. We noticed that most of the men seemed to be in little groups along the side of the road. As the firing on the front increased Major Kobbe ordered all his men to reinforce the advance guard.

My regiment marched up to this point, and we at once saw the cause of the tender solicitude on the part of the artillerymen. All along the road were little fires, and over each one was broiling a chicken. The men had had less than an hour in which to catch and dress them and get them started to broiling, so that they were not yet done, and as a half-cooked chicken is a little worse than none, they were compelled to leave them to the mercies of the Jayhawkers.

One artilleryman had lingered and was carefully watching one bird. I asked him why he did not join, suggesting that his company commander might call him to account for straggling.

"No, sir: he won't. It's his chicken. I'm his striker. But I'll have to let it go. It won't be done in time."

I replied that it would be a shame to waste so fine a bird, and that I would see that it was well appreciated. So I took the chicken, after it had cooked, and the man departed in sadness. So I still owe Lieutenant (now Major) Abernethy, one fine young chicken, which I hope to pay him for some day.

It was evident that a stiff fight was on. In compliance with may orders to keep five hundred yards behind the Third artillery, we now fell into column and pushed up the road through the ruined town. We had just halted, seeing some troops the required distance ahead of us, when, much to our surprise, we were briskly fired on from our left front.

The men had raised the usual yell, and we thought that in a few seconds we would be among them, when we were brought up with a start, and the men instinctively threw themselves on the ground.

We had rushed to the very brink of a river about eighty feet wide and ten feet deep.

No wonder the Filipinos had stood their ground and had continued to salt us. It was a rather bad situation, as the enemy was sheltered in good trenches and our men had no cover other than rice dikes not more than a foot high. I determined to withdraw the two companies from their position until a way could be found to ascertain if the river could be crossed. Copyright, Charles Scribner's Sons.)

Pion—Pappert.

St. Patrick's church was the scene of a pretty wedding this morning when Miss Myrtle Margaret Pappert, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William F. Pappert, and Mr. Clarence B. Pion, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Pion, were married. The bridal party entered the church at 9 o'clock and the nuptial mass was celebrated by Rev. J. F. Delaney. The many friends and relatives assembled for the wedding were seated by Messrs. Clarence and Ralph Pappert. The bride, a pretty and interesting young woman, was attended by two bridesmaids, Misses Ruth Lilly and Bertha Joly. Messrs. Edward Pion and Frank Pappert were groomsmen. The bride wore a beautiful costume of white crepe de meteor with trimming of oriental lace, without a train, but of graceful length. The bridal veil fell the length of the gown and was held to the bride's hair with a small wreath of swansonia and rose buds. A beautiful finishing touch to the gown was a belt of real roses about the waist line that ended in a graceful loop on one side. The bride carried her prayer book and also a shower bouquet of bride roses. She made a beautiful appearance and the two attendants, also crowned in white and wearing wreaths of white carnations in their hair, made as charming appearing bridal party as could be found in many a day. Both bridesmaids carried bouquets of white carnations, made in shower effect. The wedding breakfast was served at the home of the groom's parents at 2303 Spy Run avenue. There were between eighty and ninety guests present. The house was decorated with flowers and palms. The bride's table was in pink and white with festoons of ribbons from the chandelier to the corners of the table, pink roses and white carnations and a handsomely frosted cake in front of the bride. The wedding of Miss Anna Glass, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Emery Glass, who live near New Haven, took place in Colton, Cal., to Mr. Lloyd Hulbert on June 6 at the home of the bride's sister and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. William Cunnison. The bride and groom went to San Diego on a trip and after the first of July will be at home in a pretty bungalow at 1200 North Ninth street, Colton. The bride at one time taught in the Fort Wayne schools and will be remembered by many friends of this vicinity. The Colton Times says: "Quietly appointed but with everything in artistic harmony was the pretty celebration of the nuptials of Miss Anna Glass and Lloyd Hulbert which occurred June 6 at 1 o'clock at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Cunnison on East F street, Mrs. Cunnison being a sister of the bride. Snow white carnations, Shasta daisies and greenery were employed to give a bridal bower effect to the rooms used for the wedding ceremony and the setting was charming in its atmosphere of simplicity. At the appointed hour Miss Gladys Cunnison, a niece of the bride, began the wedding march and the happy couple quietly took their places in front of Rev. R. M. Davis, of the First Presbyterian church, who used the always beautiful ring service for the plighting of the solemn vows. A dainty and girlish frock of white embroidered crepe had been chosen for the occasion by the bride and was later changed for a natty little suit of Alice blue silk with coat and other accessories in harmony for traveling and at 1:50 the bride and groom left over the Santa Fe to San Diego for a ten days' stay. Only immediate relatives of the bride and groom were witnesses to the ceremony. Mr. Hulbert is a sterling young man with a host of warm friends who will not only heartily congratulate him but will give a genuine welcome to his bonny bride."

AT THE TEMPLE

"Capital and Labor" is the offering of the Temple Stock company for the last half of the week starting Thursday night. It shows the machine shop in operation, the strike, the reasons for it, the acute suffering which follows, the charity and friendship which grows out of all the misunderstandings, all are pictured in so homely, truthful a manner one begins to see that no matter what one's position in the world may be, whether rich or poor, well dressed or ragged, the same kind of a heart beats steadily along, the same feelings, the same joys, the same sorrows, the same sufferings are common to all classes of humanity, and we awake to the fact that it is only a small world after all, that we are all neighbors.

The company presented a big scenic production of "A Convict's Sweetheart" last night. The production and the cast was well received by a big house. This play will be the offering tonight, tomorrow matinee and night.

The Home Beauty Parlor
By Betty Dean

B. A.: The quickest way to remove dust and oil from hair is by shampooing occasionally with a teaspoonful of canthrox (which, like all the simple things I recommend, can be bought at any good drug store), dissolved in a cup of hot water. This makes a thick, white lather that instantly stops irritation and dissolves every particle of dust; dandruff and excess oil. Rinsing leaves scalp and hair wonderfully sweet and clean, the hair will dry quickly and evenly. I find canthrox shampoo is splendid for correcting the dull, "stringy," brittle condition of the hair and inducing a luxuriant growth, which is brilliant and fluffy.

A. P.: Your weak, languid feeling is undoubtedly caused by impure blood, or a sluggish condition of the organs of elimination. In either case, a tonic and bodybuilder will prove effective in restoring full health and energy. A rare tonic is made by dissolving 1 ounce kardene in ½ pint alcohol (not whisky), then adding ½ cupful sugar and hot water to make a full quart. Take of this 1 tablespoonful 3 times each day. The kardene tonic purifies the blood and restores health and strength. It is also splendid for ridding the skin of pimples, discolorations and sallowness.

Ada: I would remove those wrinkles and bring back the youth-tint to my complexion by using the following greaseless cream-jelly: Into ½ pint cold water put 1 ounce almozoin and 2 tablespoonfuls glycerine. Let stand over night. Apply this cream-jelly plentifully after cleansing and drying the skin. For wrinkles, put the cream thickly upon the creases. This stimulates in a way the stunted tissues of the creases and aftr a few treatments the furrows will have entirely vanished. For renewing the complexion a light, rotary movement should be employed, using plenty of the almozoin cream-jelly. This will banish pimples, blackheads, oiliness and other complexion upsets, and leave the skin soft, clear and velvety.

Josie: You will always have a poor complexion as long as you use face powder. Make up this formula at home and your complexion troubles will be at an end. Into ½ pint witch hazel or hot watr put 4 ounces spurmax and 2 teaspoonfuls glycerine. Apply sparingly and rub lightly until dry. This imparts a dainty tint and exquisite loveliness to the skin and is actually invisible when on and seems part of the skin. Neither wind nor perspiration will affect the spurmax lotion and one application in the morning will last throughout the day.

Worried: You need not suffer with over-fatness if this simple, harmless treatment is used: Into 1½ pints hot water put 4 ounces parnotis. When it cools strain, and take a tablespoonful before each meal. This treatment gradually dissolves fatty tissues and restores the symmetrical lines to the figure without leaving the flesh flabby or the skin wrinkled. When the weight is sufficiently reduced, the treatment can be discontinued.

Belle: I think singeing the hair is working at the wrong end because the trouble is at the roots. Make up at home and use this hair tonic: In ½ pint alcohol put 1 ounce quinzoin (get from druggist), then add ½ pint water. Use this 2 or 3 times each week, massaging well into the scalp and you will not be further troubled with brittle, falling hair. The quinzoin hair tonic is excellent for overcoming dandruff and excess oiliness and soon puts the scalp and hair-roots in a healthy condition.

Mrs. P. C.: You may not require glasses. Try this harmless eye tonic: In one pint clear water dissolve an ounce crystos, then put 2 or 3 drops in the offending eye a few times each day and keep up until soreness has entirely vanished. The crystos eye-tonic is valuable for tired, sore eyes or to relieve eye-strain and is excellent for inflame or granulated lids. It also gives to dull, listless eyes a delightful sparkle and lustre.

M. L.: Here is an inexpensive home-treatment for removing hair from chin, lip or cheek: With water and powdered delatone mix enough paste to cover the objectionable hairs. Apply and in about two minutes remove, wash the skin and it will be free from hair or blemish. Be sure you get delatone.

Do You Know How to Borrow and Lend? These School Children Are Taught How.

MISS HOOKER'S CLASS IN BORROWING.

Minneapolis, June 16.—Miss Edith Hooker, school teacher, who recently aroused interest by taking her pupils on street car rides and teaching them how to behave, has introduced a new game to her pupils.

She is teaching them how to borrow and lend in the proper and decorous manner.

"Borrowing," says Miss Hooker, "has become a national habit. It is a necessity of life to know how to borrow and lend gracefully. Yet many people forget their manners when borrowing, and still more when lending. But my pupils never will."

Two little girls are designated "neighbors." They set up housekeeping establishments on opposite sides of the classroom. One is baking a cake; the other cleaning house. There is a knock at the front door.

"May I borrow an egg, Mrs. Jones?" asks Mrs. Smith.

"Certainly, I will lend you an egg, Mrs. Smith," replies the neighbor and hands her an honest-to-goodness egg, for real articles are used in the lessons.

"Thank you very much," says Mrs. Smith.

"You are very welcome," says Mrs. Jones.

And the transition is almost complete. Later, however, Mrs. Smith, with elaborate ceremony returns the egg and is duly thanked by Mrs. Jones and asked to call again.

The boys are taught the same game with workmen's tools and the like.

Shiloh chapter, No. 141, Order of Eastern Star, will hold a past officers' meeting Saturday evening, June 27. A program has been prepared and a large crowd of members is expected.

Several members of the Spanish War Veterans, including Capt. W. F. Ranke, left for Muncie in automobiles to attend the state convention which will be held there the first of this week.

DAM IN MAUMEE AS PREVENTION

Mayor Hosey Would Impound Water in Summer to Clear Streams.

As a partial means of flood prevention Mayor Hosey would place a movable dam in the Maumee river below the city and after the spring freshets had run off would raise the water in the local streams to a twelve-foot level and maintain it at that stage until near the advent of cold weather in the fall.

"By putting in a dam that could be raised when necessity exists and keeping it down during the warmer months we could do a great deal to prevent flood damage here," said Mayor Hosey in discussing the matter with The Sentinel. "We could readily maintain a twelve-foot stage in that way. This would prevent the tremendous vegetable growths that are becoming worse from year to year and go far to choke the streams and cause great floods in the spring when to the torrential rains of the season are added the flows from melting snow, ice and ground frost.

"These vegetable growths cause the streams to be constantly narrowed and islands to be formed in midstream. By keeping the river margins, the islands and parts of the stream beds that go dry in the summer submerged during the period of vegetable growth, as may easily be done, these growths will be prevented and ultimately the current will do much to clear the channels of accumulations of soil and silt that have been formed where these growths have flourished.

"Besides this, we will be able by raising the stage of the water for several months of the year to prevent encroachments upon the river banks such as now form a part of our flood problem in Fort Wayne and there will be created a condition that will afford the pleasure of improved scenic views in and around Fort Wayne and give the people the enjoyment of fine boating.

"The cost of such measures would not be great and the benefit would be distinct. It is not improbable that something along this line will be considered at an early date," said the mayor.

INTAKE PIPES INSTALLED.

Workman Overcome Spring Flows at Power Station.

The city employes who have been having a hard fight with spring water that poured in a flood from the gravel through which excavations have been made to install the intake pipes for the condensing system at the electric light and power station of the municipal plant have about completed the job and will be ready to make way by Wednesday for Contractor Max Irmscher, who will build the addition to the plant. The icy water that poured from veins in the gravel made it both difficult and unpleasant for a time to work in the excavations. Finally the water in the pool nearby was lowered and the water from the excavations was drained into it, which afforded the needed relief. Contractor Irmsher expects to make rapid progress with the big addition to the building that is to accommodate the new equipment purchased by the board of works to the city light and power plant.

A FREE-FOR-ALL FIGHT AT CIRCUS

Drunken and Discharged Employes Start Trouble at Show Lot.

Employes of the Wallace-Hagenbeck circus showing in Fort Wayne today, were given their weekly salaries Monday at Lima, O. Some of the hangerson and laborers celebrated the "walking of the ghost," and it is said they consumed about one car load of beer.

With that much wet goods under their hides they were in no condition to work Tuesday morning, and as a result of the spree, about a dozen of them, some colored employes, were fired. They refused to get off the grounds, and started a free-for-all fight. Mounted guards at the circus grounds started to use blacksnake lashes on the discharged employes, and one man was so badly lashed that it was necessary for Dr. Kruse to dress his wounds.

The men were finally driven from the grounds, but late this afternoon are camping along the edge of the property occupied by the circus, and it is feared they mean to start trouble after the coming of darkness. Chief of Police Lentz stated that he will detail an extra squad of men to the place in an effort to get them to leave the premises.

Society

Mr. and Mrs. Kilian Vorndran and Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Hostetter have returned from a trip to Berne, where they visited relatives and friends.

Ryan—Dietrich.

A pretty wedding of Tuesday morning was that of Miss Clara Dietrich, daughter of Mrs. Catherine Dietrich, and Mr. William F. Ryan, which took place at 9 o'clock in St. Mary's Catholic church. The nuptial mass was celebrated by Mgr. J. H. Oechtering with many friends of the bridal couple attending. The bridal music from "Lohengrin" announced the entrance of the bridal party, which consisted of Miss Katherine Ryan, a sister of the groom, as maid of honor; Miss Solina Dietrich, sister of the bride, as bridesmaid, and Mr. Charles Herr, who was best man. Two young men who were ushers were Messrs. Carl Bohne and John Sulzer. The sanctuary and altar were decorated beautifully, the sanctuary with ferns and palms and out door roses and garden flowers on the altar. The bride looked extremely well in a beautiful gown of crepe de meteor, with trimmings of shadow lace and pearl bands. The gown was made with a train and the long folds of the bridal veil fell to its hem. The bride carried her prayer book with flower and ribbon bookmark in shower effect. The two bridesmaids wore gowns and hats much alike except in coloring. Miss Ryan was in pale green crepe de chine and Miss Detrich in pale pink. Each of the maids carried a shower bouquet of pink roses. The general effect was exceedingly pretty. The wedding breakfast was served to immediate relatives and friends to the number of twenty-five, after the bridal party returned to the bride's home at 1108 Summit street and felicitations were exchanged. The house was decorated with flowers and ferns. Later in the day the bride and groom left for Washington, D. C., and other points. When Mr. and Mrs. Ryan return they will go to housekeeping in their own home in South Hoagland avenue, which is already for them. Mr. Ryan is a clerk in the Pennsylvania offices. Mr. Schust, of Chicago, was an out of town guest. The bride is very popular and has received many social favors honoring her marriage.

WAS PEDDLING FURS.

Goldberger, who was trying to sell some valuable furs for ladies' wear, and a man's fur overcoat in the city Tuesday, was arrested by Detective Charles Spillner and locked up on a loitering charge. Goldberger says he brought the furs from Canada, but John White, of Montgomery street, says they were taken from a trunkful of furs belonging to him.

PERJURY CHARGE BY DIVORCED WIFE

Joseph Stults Arrested on Warrant Sworn Out by Louise Stults.

Joseph Stults, an employe of the Bowser Oil Tank works, was arrested by Deputy Sheriff Herman Witte Tuesday on a warrant sworn to by his former wife, Louise Stults, who charges that Stults procured his divorce in the superior court, May 28, by fraud. The affidavit says that when Stults filed his divorce complaint March 14, last, he made oath that his wife was a non-resident of Indiana and her whereabouts unknown to him, whereas he then knew that for years she had been a resident of South Bend, living at 1021 South Franklin street, that city. She charges that he made this false and fraudulent affidavit to keep her from being notified by service that a suit was pending against her in the Allen superior court. Stults has been remarried since his divorce.

Wants Receiver Appointed.

William Bagent has filed suit in the superior court against Nelson R. Davidson asking for the appointment of a receiver for live stock and growing crops on Davidson's farm in Monroe township of which the plaintiff was recently a tenant working the place on shares. The complaint recites that last December the plaintiff entered into contract with Davidson to work the farm for one-third of the net profits of crops and increase of stock and that on June 5 Davidson illegally terminated the contract and ejected him from the farm. He says that he has an interest in some seventy-five or eighty head of horses, cattle, sheep and hogs and in the growing crops on seventy-five or eighty acres of land and that unless he be protected by a receivership he will suffer. The suit is a sequel to the prosecution of Bagent in the circuit court last week on a charge of petit larceny brought by Davidson, who accused Bagent of selling grain that did not belong to him and keeping the money. Judge Yaple appointed John W. Long receiver.

HORSE DID NOT LIKE THE PARADE

William Goette Injured in Lively Runaway That Follows.

Frightened at a van of polar bears in the circus parade, a horse attached to a Noll plumbing supply wagon in front of the Clay school staged a dashing runaway at noon today. William Goette, the driver, was hurled from the wagon and sustained painful injuries, while three children had sensational escapes from injury.

The children, whose parents are Mr. and Mrs. Tannehill, 1701 Bayer avenue, were knocked to the pavement by the frightened animal in its mad dash down Clay street, but were only slightly hurt. One of the children, an infant in a cart, was trampled by the horse, but in some manner managed to escape serious injury.

When the runaway started William Mettler, who also occupied the wagon, grabbed for the reins, but succeeded in clutching only one of them, with which he swerved the horse from the crowd and was then thrown out in the street. He fell in front of a wheel of an animal van and only the prompt action of the driver saved his life.

Goette was hurled from the wagon as it rounded the first corner and sustained injuries that will confine him to his home, Siemon and Pontiac streets, for at least a week. One of his eyes was lacerated, his side was hurt, and for a time it was feared by the attending physician, Dr. Schilling, that the man had sustained internal injuries.

When the runaway horse was finally located in a remote section of Lakeside it was in an exhausted condition with only a portion of the harness and the badly wrecked wagon still attached to it.

SLOCUM SURVIVORS MEET.

Memorial Services Held for 1,000 Who Perished in Disaster.

New York, June 16.—Survivors and relatives of those who were lost on June 15, 1904, when the General Slocum, an excursion steamer burned in East river here, met yesterday for annual memorial services at the Middle Village Reformed church. Memorial services were also held at Lutheran cemetery, Middle Village, L. I., where many of the 1,000 victims of the disaster are buried. At both services were old men and women in black who had lost those who were dear to them in the disaster and little children born since it happened. At the end of the church services, Charles Deersch, president of the General Slocum survivors, read the death roll of the past year.

BREAK IN NEGOTIATIONS.

Coal Miners and Operators Unable to Agree at Terre Haute.

Terre Haute, Ind., June 16.—After a conference lasting throughout the morning and part of the afternoon, strip miners and operators of the eleventh district shortly after 2 o'clock this afternoon abandoned their attempt to agree upon a wage scale and negotiations were broken off. The operators held that the demands were equivalent to a 27 per cent. increase, and offered a 5 per cent. increase. When this was refused the strip coal operators offered to submit the question to an arbitration board but the miners declined and negotiations were declared at an end. No date was set for further conferences.

SITUATION MOST TENSE.

Efforts to Bring Opposing Mine Factions Together at Butte.

Butte, Mont., June 16.—With the regular meeting of the miners' union scheduled for tonight the situation here was quiet but tense today. Every effort was being made to bring the opposing factions together. Committees of five men each have been appointed by the union and the secessionists for a conference arranged through the efforts of M. M Donohue, president of the state federation of labor.

Governor Stewart reiterated today that he had not asked that federal troops be sent to Butte. He said his message to Washington simply asked regarding the disposition of federal troops with a view to learning whether any were available if conditions became serious.

Lively Fight Launched as Modern Woodmen Take Up Business.

Toledo, June 16.—No compromise was the war cry of 259 pledged Modern Woodmen of America administration adherents at the opening of the order's convention today. Organization and administration followers and of the Sunbeam insurgent faction took place in a monster caucus. The administration slate provides for the re-election of Head Consul A. R. Talbot, of Lincoln, Neb.

HOME CLUB GETS FIRST REAL AID

New Ground Rule Tied Up Score in the Final Tot Tilt.

First real aid from the new ground rule that permits runners in the Central baseball league to advance at their peril on a ball overthrown to the bases came to Fort Wayne in the final tilt with Larry Quinlan's Tots at the Calhoun street stockade Monday afternoon when Oscar Graham whizzed the ball past Teddy Anderson in the second inning.

Jack Gilmore hit the ball and he just kept running until he reached third base and with two hands down Frankie Nespo cracked out a single that registered the first Billiken count and hooked the home troupe up with the invaders.

Its a good rule as long as it works in favor of local talent. To be right candid its a good rule at all times. Knowledge of the fact that a Fort Wayne player was hustling around the base lines just as fast as his legs would carry him, and that their companions were hanging onto the only tally marked up in the combat and depending upon it to win the series here, sent Ted Anderson and "Dutch" Meisner chasing the ball and prevented any delay in handling it after they got it.

It also gave Gilmore an extra base but that didn't help him any as he could easily have scored from second on the Nespo offering, which was a solid smash to left where Hank Bowman was on duty.

Remember Hank? Well, Hank was at one time a member of one of the various Shamrock combinations with which Mart Cleary made himself famous, and he played infield, outfield and any place else he was needed, and looked then like he had about reached his level.

His home is at Ossian, and he has been playing with a semi-pro team at Kokomo, and he wanted a chance and Larry Quinlan, who wants another outfielder, took Bert Fisher out of left and permitted Hank to debut as a Central league proposition. His start was not impressive but he may do better outside of Fort Wayne.

Francis M. Atkins returned to the mound after a couple of weeks of idleness in which a fractured rib has been mending, and although he asked to be taken out when he thought he was slipping in the sixth and sevent, Grover Young did not happen to be warmed up and the clever left-hander finished the game in good shape.

His work was great. He struck out nine men in the course of the matinee, and when got into serious trouble he battled his way out and hung up a neat victory to celebrate the fact that the Fort Wayne hurling staff is again intact.

Oscar "Peaches" Graham, who opened hostilities here on Friday, was the Qinlan entry for mound duty and his one bad inning put his chances on the hummer and gave Atkins a margin to work on that practically insured a victory.

Also Mr. Gilmore slammed another home run over the right field fence and did it with tw omen down and the manager of the Billikens on first base. This happened in the fourth and the pair of markers produced would have been sufficient but three were added in the fifth for good measure.

The game opened in a manner to indicate it would be a rather slushy affair. Kyle hit in front of the plate and Atkins shot the ball to Jake Holderman and it bounded out of his glove like it had hit a car spring. Sheehan bunted and Atkins threw to second too late to get the runner. Bowman forced Kyle at third and Quinlanw as passed, filling the bases. A passed ball permitted Sheehan to register the only run made by the visting band.

Fort Wayne's best work was done in the fifth after Smith had popped a fly to left field that Larry Qinlan went after and made a brilliant catch of. Marcus Aurelius McLafferty found his batting eye and hit to middle and Holderman kicked another hit of the same variety into the going.

Bratchi popped to short and Brant cut in with a single and Martin and Gilmore each hit and the whole thing gave a surplus of three tallies.

BAN JOHNSON MADE WORK OF UMPIRES EASY AND IMPROVED THE GAME

(By Hugh S. Fullerton).

What, in your opinion, is the biggest improvement in baseball in the last decade?

If you will think a moment you will reply that it is the umpiring. You will be correct. It has taken the Federal league to reveal by contrast what an improvement there has been in the major leagues, especially since the coming of the American league. The Federals are having much trouble with their umpires, and will continue to have it, unless President Gilmore adopts the tactics of B. B. Johnson and suppresses kicking and rowdyism.

The umpiring in the major leagues has improved wonderfully since Johnson declared it his fixed principle to suppress all kicking and rowdyism. It is not that the umpires are better men. Their work is better because they are no longer hampered and annoyed by the players. The worst umpiring of the old days usually resulted from umpires being "rattled" and harassed until they blundered worse and worse. Such men as Gaffney, Emslie and O'Day, all magnificent umpires, got so upset that they scarcely knew whether the play was at home or at first. Relieved of this strain and insured of support by the league, they improved immediately.

In the old National league, when one faction or the other always was protesting some umpire the work of the arbiters was poor. Ban Johnson was the pioneer in the discovery that the public does not like kicking, delays and squabbles. He drove John McGraw out of the American league by constant punishment for offenses on the field, and the National league received him and permitted him to continue his tactics.

Johnson's club owners did not agree with him entirely. He punished the Chicago club severely and, Fielder Jones thought, unjustly for their attacks on umpires. President Comiskey and Johnson quarreled bitterly over the same subject. But one by one they came around and now every club owner realizes Johnson was right.

There are towns of course that are prejudiced against certain umpires. Billy Evans was hated in St. Louis until a fan nearly killed him with a pop bottle. Now he is an idol.

Hank O'Day always hated to umpire in St. Louis, and perhaps because of that he had more trouble there than he did anywhere else. Bill Klem used to be a bad umpire in every game in which Chicago played, because the Cubs nagged at him at all times. Now he is one of the best.

Veterans of many years declare that the umpiring is better only because of the changed attitude of players and public toward the umpires. Bob Emslie, Billy Evans, Jack Sheridan, Silk O'Loughlin, all great veterans of the windpad, declare umpiring now is a downy couch compared with the old days.

A FEW OF THE OLD HEADS WHO WEAR THE MASK AND KNOW ITS EASIER TO UMPIRE IN THESE DAYS.

UP TO NATIONAL COMMISSION.

New York, June 16.—The case of Heine Schulz, pitcher of the New York Americans, now rests with the national commission. President Frank Farrell, of the New York club, will take action to enjoin Schulz from appearing with the Buffalo Federals only on the initiative of the nation commission.

"I am going to put it up to the national commission," Mr. Farrell today declared. "This body has absolute authority in questions resting on Federal matters. On my own account I wouldn't spend 5 cents over Schulz, not even for the satisfaction of tying him up through law."

NOT ALL LUCK BUT JUST KNOWING HOW TO DO IT

Herman Schaefer

There is a tradition in the Chicago White Sox team that every time Germany Schaefer gets into a game against them they are beaten. The other day Schaefer turned the trick again and the Sox yelled "luck." Here is the "luck." This is the situation: Chicago was leading, 2 to 1. Faber was pitching beautifully and Smith fluked a two-base hit. Griffith sent Schaefer to run for Smith. Schaefer, laughing and yelling, ran out to second. He glanced toward Schalk, gave a quick flash of his hand, and Milan stepped into the first ball and whanged a triple that broke up the game. They called it "luck" but Schaefer had grabbed Schalk's signal and flashed it to Milan.

MONTREAL HAS A REAL SENSATION

Ball Players Admit They Are Not Fast Enough for League.

New York, June 16.—An ominous silence pervades the office of the club owner. He is seated at his big desk glowering into space and his thoughts are far from tranquil. This much is gleaned by the furrowed brow and the vicious manner in which he "chaws" the end of his long, black seegar.

Lying on the desk before him is the league standing. The undeniable figures show his club is wallowing in the darkness of last place—a hopeless tailender although the season has scarcely more than begun to begin.

He has left orders with his important looking office boy he is not to be disturbed. He wants to be alone with his thoughts, unpleasant as they are. He fears if anyone should associate in the same room with him he might spatter him with ink, jab him with a pen and send him home on a blotter. He is dangerous ,that's what he is, dangerously desperate. But he has just enough self control left to realize how dangerous he is. He spent the last half of it in instructing his young guardian in the outer office.

He is so wrapt up in his thoughts and the wrestling bout with his seegar is so keen he does not hear the door stealthily opened, does not hear the cautious footsteps of the office boy as that dignitary eases one foot inside the threshold and then edges the rest of his body inward.

Tiptoes carry him within a soft speaking distance of the owner, but hold him poised beyond the radius of a left hook or a No. 12 boot.

"Ahem!" the o. b. (office boy) clears his throat in his most solicitious way. He tries to control a powerful desire to broad jump through the still open door—left open as a matter of precaution—as the owner swings suddenly and wrathfully around in his chair.

"Didn't I tell you I was not to be disturbed, you thick head? Everything connected with this establishment seems to be made of bone. Whadday want?"

"Mr. Turnstile there's delegashun of your ball players outside an' they want to see ya for a minute. They has sumptin' important to tell ya and won't slip it to me first. Lefty Flinger is leadin' 'em and they doesn't look dangerous.'

There was a long pause. The owner glowers at the o. b. and then at the open door. He can hear subdued whispering in the anteroom.

"How many are there?"

"Looks like the whole team."

The owner glances over his shoulder to see if his heavy cane is still in position, if the inkwell is full and the pen point and blotter handy.

"Show 'em in."

Headed by Lefty Flinger, the troupe enters one by one. Seven or eight file slowly and silently into the sanctum. Doleful and downcast they look. If they weren't wearing their street clothes you'd think they were just about to engage in a baseball game.

Lefty fidgets more than the rest. He has been elected spokesman, and what he has to stay is of vital importance. He has been scanning his condensed vocabulary for a good starter and evidently the word hasn't stole home yet.

Seeing their plight the owner unleashes his most stentorian tones:

"Whaddaya want? Be brief now. I'm busy and haven't any time to waste on a lot of dubs like you."

"That's just what we wuz thinkin'," stutteringly spouts Lefty. 'We've 'bout decided we're dubs and we've come to have a little talk on it.

"Boss, ya been payin' our salaries and payin' us purty good at that, and we've been tryin' to play ball for ya, but we caint. Aint no use tryin'. Now what we wants is fo ya to trade us to some other clubs in this league or pack us back to th' bushes. We've done our best but we're pikers. As ball players we're a bunch of yaps and hams and ya might just as well can us."

All this sounds like the workings of an overimaginative mind. It sounds like the wierdest kind of fiction. But its a fact. Several members of the Monteral International league team have established such a precedent by petitioning trade or sell them to some other club in trade or sell thec to some other club in the International league, or some other league.

At a meeting of the drum corps of the Jefferson club Monday evening, with the new president, Jerry O'Connor, presiding, it was decided to hold the annual picnic at Swinney park July 17.

MEISNER TO THE HARVESTER GANG

Terre Haute Outfielder is Sold to Springfield to Help Out.

"Dutch" Meisner, who just completed a series here as right fielder for the Terre Haute team, has been sold to the Springfield club, which is frantically trying to get some batting strength into its lineup so it can make some sort of a showing in the race.

Bob Craig, who has been finishing a course of study a one of the Pennsylvania colleges, is due to join the Terre Haute club and he will likely he played in the outfield for his hitting as the infield looks like it is as strong as it would be if he were added to it.

Craig was given permission early in the season to stay in college until he had completed his studies, and he will be ready to jump in and work as he has been keeping in condition at school.

President Louis Heilbroner left on one of his trips this morning without saying just where he expected to put in his time. Springfield is the only club on the circuit that is in any real trouble and he has not gone there so in absence of information from his office force maybe he has gone to Grand Rapids, where Terre Haute will play today.

Conditions in the league are all right except that the attendance in most of the cities is not up to normal. Mr. Heilbroner is trying to find out what local condition keeps down the attendance on the circuit, and is out to remedy such as he finds can be remedied. Naturally every town wants a winning team, which he cannot supply.

The first baby born to a member of any Central league team in Fort Wayne arrived last night when a boy arrived to make its home with Mr. and Mrs. William Cramer.

The father did not accompany the club when it left town today but will report tomorrow or the next day. Mrs. Cramer is recovering nicely.

WILL LEAVE WHITE SOX.

Hal Chase Has Notified Comiskey He Will Quit Club.

Chicago, June 16.—Charles A. Comiskey, president of the American league Chicago club, admitted today that Hal Chase had notified him he would leave the White Sox "in ten days." The first baseman in an interview with the club president declared his intention of quitting, but, according to Comiskey, he did not say he would join the Buffalo Federals, as reported. Comiskey gained the idea that Chase was going into business, he said. Chase himself refused to make any further statement. From Federal league headquarters however, came the information that he was practically sure to be with the Buffalo team within a fortnight.

Worse On Arms. Itched and Burned. Sores Would Fester. Suffered Day and Night. Cuticura Soap and Ointment Completely Cured.

R. F. D. No. 5. Sturgis, Mich.—"Last summer I picked cucumbers about a week before I noticed I was being poisoned. All at once I broke out with a terrible rash all over my entire body. It looked like pimples only was very much smaller. On my arms it seemed to be worse than any place else. It would itch and burn so I would scratch and make small sores that would fester. I suffered day and night for about two weeks but could find no relief.

"I used ——— and ——— and many others but they all failed to bring relief. At last I was advised to try Cuticura Soap and Ointment. Every two or three times a day I would wash with the Cuticura Soap and at night I would apply the Cuticura Ointment. After using them one month I was completely cured." # MUNDAY'S CAREER IS METEORIC ONE

Bank Crash Ends His Sensational Invasion of High Finance.

Chicago, June 16.—Climax of the career of C. B. Munday, one time poor messenger boy, and now high financier in the highest:

A million dollars of public funds of the city of Chicago, caught in the sensational crash of a string of "political" banks; small depositors' savings to the extent of $3,000,000 more tied up; politicians running to cover; rumors of scandal involving high Illinois officials, and exposure of very dubious dealings in a dozen other Munday concerns.

C. B. Munday's get-rich-quick career, which ended in an almost hysterical collapse when the state bank examiner entered his Lasalle street bank in Chicago and demanded a million dollars or closure of the bank, was begun as a country town telegraph messenger.

STARTS HIS BUSINESS CAREER AS A MESSENGER IN LITCHFIELD, ILL.

Munday, wizard of poltico-financial banking, was born in Litchfield, Ill. In a very few years he had begun his dramatic rise to riches. First he became a messenger boy, and hung around the railway station.

His first upward step was to the position of telegraph operator. At the key and sounder he was in close touch with the world of finance. He heard the big men talking over the wires about deals in stocks, bonds and grain.

Thus was the field of his future revealed to him. He entered the grain business, buying in a small way on the exchange and selling at a small profit. Then he entered a grain elevator concern, and soon owned it himself, as well as elevators in a dozen other towns.

AN OPERATOR ON THE GRAIN EXCHANGE

He added a bank to his possessions, and in time he had established banks in nine other small towns in Southern Illinois.

It just chanced that William Lorimer, of Chicago, was planning at the same time to break into realms of higher finance in the United States senate.

Munday, with power among the Southern Illinois democrats, whipped them into line for Lorimer, republican. And their votes elected Lorimer. A year later William Lorimer's Lasalle street bank was formed—and Munday was called up to Chicago to be its vice president.

The bank had hardly opened its doors before William Lorimer was forced out of the senate, charged with playing high finance too well, in entering it.

C. B. Munday, meanwhile, was gradually edging Lorimer out of his own bank. He bought a controlling interest in it, and began to establish outlying banks, which served as "feeders" for his main institution.

The Lorimer-Munday banks indulged in their operations unmolested. Wherever there was a corporation trying to get rich quick without a very substantial foundation, the Munday banks purchased its securities, when other institutions wouldn't.

But Munday himself was riding about in a beautiful limousine, and enjoying the wealth and distinction that comes from being the head of fully twenty firms engaged in various kinds of business.

Then the state bank examiner came one day to the Munday bank, and looked into its vaults. He found that all the cash that should have been there had been removed, to make way for about $1,200,000 "worth" of worthless paper.

ELECTRIC AUTOMOBILES FOR $500.

Dr. Steinmetz Says Prices Will Drop in Ten Years.

(Newspaperdom.)

At the convention of the National Electric Light association in Philadelphia last week, Dr. C. P. Steinmetz, a world-famous authority on electricity, made the prediction that within ten years electric automobiles will be sold for $500, and the cost of keeping each car will be brought down to $10 a month. He said that a million of such cars would go into service the country over.

Dr. Steinmetz, who is associated with the General Electric company at Schenectady, N. Y., in discussing the automobile industry referred to the cost of oil and gasoline, the concentration required to drive a high-powered car at high speed, and the necessity for keeping the engine in good trim. These things people will do now, he said, because it is considered correct and proper. Soon, however, he said, the automobile will be removed from the realm of sport and become a business proposition, a machine to carry a man to and from his office.

It will no longer be a machine that is needed for long cross-country runs, except for the very wealthy. Long distance driving, like long distance bicycle riding, will fall into disfavor when the social leaders drop the sport, for the people of moderate means follow the lead in such things of the socially elect.

Therefore, he said, the demand will be for a machine easy to run, economical to keep and with a radius of about thirty miles a day. Such a machine will be produced within ten years. It will cost about $500 and will weight about 1,000 pounds.

This will mean a great opportunity for the central electric station. To charge these new electric automobiles will require about 1,500,000,000 kilowatt hours per year, which at 5 cents per kilowatt hour will mean additional business amounting to $75,000,000 a year for the central stations. This business will not require much expenditure of capital to handle, he said, as most of the charging will be done at night, when the electric plants have least to do.

Dr. Steinmetz was perhaps the most interesting figure at the convention. He is one of the greatest electrical geniuses alive. As the master mechanic of the General Electric company he is one of the few men in this country whose salary is in six figures.

MAY START RESTAURANT HERE.

The Pallard-Johnson Company Discussing Proposition.

J. M. Johnson, a representative of the Pallard-Johnson company, of Springfield, Ill., was in the city this morning, looking into a proposition to establish a railroad restaurant in the basement of the Wabash depot. He said before he left that the proposition looked good to him and it was quite likely the company would carry it to consumation. The part of the basement that would be used for the purpose is the center, facing on Grand street, which is now open. It can be enclosed, however, Mr. Johnson said, without difficulty and will make a nice, commodious room for the purpose. The Pollard-Johnson company run restaurants at Springfield, Decatur and other cities on the Wabash system and conduct them on the plan which has made the Harvey people on the Santa Fe so popular and successful.

BANQUET AT ELKS' HOME.

Machinists Plan Big Time There in September.

The convention committee of Friendship lodge, No. 70, International Association of Machinists, reported at the meeting of the union last night that the Elks' Home had been secured for banquet and entertainment purposes for the machinists on Tuesday evening, September 16, the week of the annual meeting of the State Federation in Fort Wayne. The district meeting of the Machinists will be held here on Sunday and Monday, September 14 and 15, and the delegates at that gathering will remain and represent their respective cities in the federation hall. The banquet at the Elks' Home September 16 will be exclusively for members of the Machinists' union, both from out of the city and at home. At the meeting of No. 70 last night six applicants were initiated and fifteen applications for membership were received and turned over to the committee.

BEGINS AT BOTTOM.

G. B. Anderson Will Work His Way Up in the Ranks.

George B. Anderson, a checker in the Nickel Plate freight house, could have a better position at once were it not for his determination to work his way upwards without the "pull" relatives are only too anxious to give him. His father is an inspector for the interstate commerce commission and a brother is a division superintendent on a big railway system. Each would be pleased to use their influence in advancing George, but he won't have it that way. He does not object to advancement upon personal merit, however, and he is working steadily with that end in view. Mr. Anderson purchased a modest little house on High street some time ago and with his wife resides there. At present Mr. and Mrs. Anderson are at Elkhart to attend the funeral of his grandmother.

CIGARMAKERS HAVE ELECTION.

Last evening's meeting of the Cigarmakers' union was enlivened by the semi-annual election, the contest being spirited but friendly. The result was as follows: President, Henry C. Hoeltje; vice president, Henry Koch; recording secretary and treasurer, Charles Kreutzer; financial and corresponding secretary, L. P. Saunders; sergeant-at-arms, E. A. McGee; label custodian, Milo George; board of trustees, Fred Sarge, John Scherman and August Langhurst; finance committee, Harry C. Coover, Charles O. Brownsberger and Louis P. Allen, and executive board, Henry Koch, Charles Kreutzer, L. P. Saunders, Edward Stevens and Samuel H. Randolph. The Cigarmakers' union is one of the strongest labor organizations in the city.

This one comes from Bellefontaine: "Don't touch me or you'll get stung," warned a tramp who was stopped by Big Four Detective Kernan. And the warning was correct for the tramp was carrying, tied up in a paper in his coat pocket, a small swarm of bees. He was ordered out of town.

TRACK INSPECTION WEDNESDAY.

The division officials of the Pennsylvania will make a track inspection between Crestline and Fort Wayne tomorrow morning. Supt. W. W. Wardrop, who has been east attending the class meetings and celebrations at Princeton college, will meet the other division officials at Crestline tomorrow morning and come with them to this city on the division special train.

BACK FROM CONVENTION.

Motive Power Superintendent T. W. Demarest, Chief Car Inspector O. J. Parks and Chief Motive Power Clerk W. L. Wilt, of the Pennsylvania, appeared at their respective offices this morning, after an absence of ten days, during which they attended the Master Car Builders' association's annual convention at Atlantic City. O. C. Wright, assistant motive power engineer, remained at Atlantic City to attend the meeting of the Master Mechanics' association, which is being held this week.

GIANT WESTINGHOUSE CONCERN AT PITTSBURG SPURNS PEACE WITH 10,000 WORKERS NOW ON STRIKE.

GROUP OF GIRL STRIKERS AND PRESIDENT EDWIN M. HERR, THE MAN WHO REFUSED TO ARBITRATE WITH MEMBERS OF THE "GOOD FEELING" ORGANIZATION.

Pittsburg, Pa., June 16.—More than a week ago over 10,000 employes of the Westinghouse plant in the East Pittsburg district went out on strike, asking for improved working conditions and recognition of an organization known as the Allegheny County Congenial Industrial union.

This organization is unique in the industrial world, having been, in its inception, intended as a sort of family affair, having associated in it only employes of the Westinghouse interests. It is in no way connected with the Industrial Workers of the World or the American Federation of Labor.

Strikers contend, however, that as soon as the leaders of the organization movement approached department heads with the idea of suggesting mutually beneficial improvements they were frowned upon and discharged.

VERA CRUZ A CITY OF SORROWS, SAYS SUFFERER OF MANY SIEGES.

(By Fred L. Boalt.)

Vera Cruz, Mex., June 16.—Anastasio Morales, very old, sat in the sun, dreaming and smoking his negros cigarettes. By and by he slept, nodding, only to waken with a start to the rancous clamor of the cathedral chimes. Instinctively he felt for his cigarettes. He searched every pocket. The cigarettes were gone.

"Lorencillo lo ha tomado'—"Lorencillo has taken them," he said.

"Lorencillo? I saw no one."

"That is a good one!" he chuckled. Lorencillo, senor, was a muy malo hombre—a pirate. I did not mean that it was he who took my cigarettes. Some thieving boy, perhaps, but not Lohencillo. It is a saying we have, that is all.

"It was long ago that Lorencillo came—he and his two ships and his 800 men—slipping past the Castillo San Juan de Ulua in the harbor. They sacked and burned, robbed and killed. They drove the women and children into the parochial church in such numbers that many died of suffocation. They carried away much jewelry and ornaments—even the sacred vessels from the church—and four million silver pesos—conceive of it, senor!—and so—"

ANASTASIO MORALES, AGED MEXICAN WHOSE FAMILY HAS SEEN SEVEN SIEGES OF VERA CRUZ.

Old Morales was not chuckling now.

"And so it is the custom in Vera Cduz when anything is lost to say that Lorencillo has taken it!"

"But many Lorencillos have come to Vera Cruz!" I asked.

"Si! It is our fate. My grandfather was killed defending Vera Cruz against the Spaniards in the war for independence. When the Spanish fleet sailed away, in anger it bombarded the city so furiously that it was almost ground to powder.

"Then came the French—Lorencillos all— and attacked us, and went away. And in '47 came your General Scott, and the effects of his cannonading are still to be seen on the walls of Ulua.

"I was but a boy then, and too young to fight, but I was a man, full grown and with a wife and a child to support when, in 1857, President Benito Juarez came to Vera Cruz and was besieged by General Miramon at the head of the troops of Maximillian's empire.

"A stray bullet slew our baby as it lay on the floor in the open doorway. Wounds heal, senor, and other babies came to sleep or play on the floor in the doorway.

"Next came the 'intervention' fleet—that was what they called it—and the French and the imperial troops of Maximillian were in possession of Vera Cruz for five years.

"Most of that time I lived in the hills. We were ragged and hungry—we who would not accept Maximillian's dream for truth—and we had scarcely any arms; but we paid off many scores, senor! With my own hands I cut down four of their sentries with a machete in the dark.

"The cause of freedom triumphed. Maximillian paid for his dream with his life. Then peace of a sort. It is a pleasant city—this Vera Cruz—but deep down in its heart it suffers. The sun is warm, the rains torrential, the soil rich—and the lush grass hides many graves.

"Finally, only a little while ago, the Americans came again. I had a great-grandson—a fine boy, senor. Perhaps you saw the procession—the little street cars with the plumes, drawn by mules. I am old, and have many great grandchildren. They were taking him to the cemetery. It was the machine gun—"Lorencillo has taken him."

ROTARY CLUB TO GO SOUTH.

Nickel Plate passenger train, No. 6, will have an extra Pullman car Thursday morning, occupied by the Rotary club, of Cleveland. The members of the club are about to start upon their annual trip, which this time will be to Houston, Texas.

INDUSTRIAL NOTES.

Machinist Con Sullivan, of the Wabash round house, is sick and off duty.

E. F. Needham, superintendent of motive power of the Wabash, was in the city today on business for the company.

L. E. Rehling and W. Linnemeier, of the Pennsylvania blacksmith shop, are sick and off duty.

The Wabash took the Hoosier Amusement company to Andrews this afternoon.

F. B. Masel, line bill clerk at the Nickel Plate freight office, is out on a vacation this week.

After a week's sickness, W. F. Sprandell reported for duty at the Pennsylvania power station this morning. He is a lineman.

H. M. Quicksell, agent for the Star Union line, left for northeastern Ohio at noon today to look after some poultry and dairy product shipments.

Machinist and Mrs. T. J. Ehringer, the former of the Pennsylvania shops, are preparing for a visit with relatives at Lima the latter part of the week.

Business visitors in the city yesterday were John Crawford, traveling passenger agent of the Rock Island, and William Hoag, of the Transcontinental Freight Forwarding company, both of Chicago.

Machinist W. H. Tegeder, of the Pennsylvania, has returned from Pittsburg, accompanied by his little niece, an orphan, who will make her home with him. Mr. Tegeder reported for work this morning.

The office force and the immediate associates of Machinist W. G. Dressel in the erecting shop of the Pennsylvania, are well supplied with cigars. He returned, with his bride, last night and this morning resumed work. Mr. and Mrs. Dressel went to Washington and Niagara Falls on their wedding trip.

The officials of the Wayne Oil Tank and Pump company who were in Canada looking after affairs at the Woodstock plant returned yesterday and reported business at the Canadian plant about as good as at the home plant, which means that it is being operated to its fullest capacity.

Rome City people and Fort Wayne people who make occasional visits there for the purpose of fishing have requested the G. R. & I. company to have No. 5, which leaves Fort Wayne at 1:45 and passes through Rome City at 3 o'clock, stop at that station. As evidence of the travel such service would originate the advocates of the plan cite to the fact that many people going to Rome City for a day's outing take No. 5 and get off at Wolcottville, three miles beyond Rome City, and walk back. Last Sunday morning there were nineteen Fort Wayne fishermen who did this.

A special meeting of the Building Trades council is to be held Tuesday evening, June 23 at which time the different business agents are expected to report on the progress of the Fort Wayne locals.

George Broadhurst

When Mrs. George Broadhurst won her suit for separation from the author of "Bought and Paid For," "The Man of the Hour," and other successful plays, she was awarded $10,000 a year pending trial of her suit for divorce.

She declared that Broadhurst has made $542,516 in seven years from his plays and has but $125,000 left. She complained that he has been spending altogether too much time in the company of Diva Merolda, an actress.

BIG ALARM; NO FIRE.

Firemen From Three Houses Called to a Telephone Pole.

The fire gong sounded at 3:50 o'clock Tuesday morning and when the drowsy firemen heard the alarm, calling an early morning run, members of the department from three stations tumbled from their cots, jumped into their clothing, slid down the brass emergency rods to the wagons and rushed out into the night. The alarm came from the 1400 block on Eliza street, and with much noise and a great deal of excitement the engine house apparatus rushed to the place. What they found was a telephone pole on fire. It took just about a half minute to extinguish the flames.

THE MARKETS

FIRST OF SEASON ARRIVE.

Cherries from the South Come to the Local Markets; Retail at 13c Quart.

Red ripe cherries, the first of the season, arrived from the cherry districts of the south Tuesday morning at the local markets and are selling at the price of 13c per quart or $2 for a crate of sixteen quarts, which, according to dealers, is a moderate price for this time of the year. The cherry outlook seems to be rather bright in these districts, but farmers state that the early crop will be larger than the later one.

The price of hay took a drop of $2 on a ton this morning and farmers received from $12 to $14 a ton for their product. The drop is caused by the present good outlook of the hay for this year. Farmers state that the grass will soon be ready to cut as the timothy heads are beginning to bloom, which is a sign for the cutting.

Strawberry prices took a drop this morning as the farmers brought in large quantities of the fruit to the market. The rain of Saturday evening revived some of the berries, which seemed to be dried up. They were again retailing for 12@15c a quart.

CHICAGO GRAIN AND PROVISIONS.

Chicago, June 16.—Notwithstanding that rains extended into the harvest district southwest, threatening damage and delay to the winter crops, wheat made only a slight advance and that not of a lasting sort. The opening, which ranged from a shade off to ⅛c gain, was followed by a little hardening and the sag under last night's level.

The close was weak, ⅜@⅝c to ¾@⅞c net lower.

Corn weakened on account of better weather reports from Argentina. After varying from ⅛c lower to a like advance, the market for the most part showed a moderate setback.

The close was steady, ⅛@¼c to ¼c net decline.

Oats held relatively steady.

Lack of demand caused a decline in provisions.

THE DAY ON WALL STREET.

New York, June 16.—Stocks moved irregularly at the opening today but soon developed a downward trend. First quotations of a majority of the leaders were lower and the backward tendency of these shares weighted down the list as a whole. Trading was still on a small scale, with no concentrated pressure. A few specialties moved widely. Among the standard shares early losses did not exceed half a point, except in the case of New Haven, which reacted a point after opening a shade lower.

Speculative selling of stocks increased and at noon several of the leaders, including Reading, the Harrimans and Amalgamated, were a point or more under yesterday's close. Selling pressure was based largely on the swelling of the gold export movement, today's engagement being increased to $5,500,000. The market also was depressed by a Washington report that the freight rates decision would not be made known until the end of the month, and that it would be a disappointment to the railroads. Bonds were steady.

The market closed heavy. Prices of stocks suffered because of the unwillingness of speculators t obuy in view of the uncertaint outlook. Pressure lifted for a while in the afternoon but the downward movement was in progress again at the lose.

DAILY MARKET LETTER.

(Furnished by J. S. Phillips, North American Building, Fort Wayne, Ind.)

Chicago, June 16.—Wheat lower on liberal offerings of new wheat. Foreign crop news somewhat poor, but has no effects. Market feels the need of outside demand, and while bears are selling slowly on the decline the tone continues heavy. Primary shipments of wheat for two days are small. Wheat news from the northwest and Canada is excellent. Corn crop is making one of the best starts ever known outside the drouth regions of the central west. Eastern cash corn demand is slow, but position of July and September corn is in line with western news. Provisions declined on the June 15 report of Chicago stocks. There were liberal increases of pork and lard. The favorable news on the new corn crop is exercising a natural influence.

Prices of stocks at 2:45 p. m. as follows:

Atchison, 99¾; Copper, 70⅝; B. & O., 91; Canadian Pacific, 193¾; Erie, 28¾; Great Northern, 123¾; Northern Pacific, 111½; Reading, 164⅜; St. Paul, 100; Southern Pacific, 94¼; New Haven, 65¾; Union Pacific, 154⅞; United States Steel, 61⅝.

AN INNOVATION.

"When two men like us and a woman like that are shown in a picture like this, we are generally talking about her, aren't we?"

"Yes, invariably. What about it?"

"Well, let's do something original. Let's not."

Miss Dorothy Dickson, of Chicago, is out to break the world's tango record of 25,000 miles in a year, made by a New York girl. She has tangoed, according to her meter, almost nine thousand miles since the beginning of this year.

Man Who Trapped Sunday Barber Profits—Barber is Soaked $20.

All the luck has been running dead against Amet Barber, a Turk, who runs a combination tonsorial parlor, coffee house, lunch room, lodging kennel and, if police suspicions are accurate, other things at his place on Holman street, near Lafayette. He has been doing a nice tight little Sunday business in his barber chairs and the local union of barbers went after him Sunday, June 7. B. F. Clark dropped in and got shaved. Outside Lieutenant Ed Bevelheimer, of the police, and William Mack, of the Barbers' union, stood and watched the proceedings. An affidavit for Sabbath desecration was filed against Amet Barber next day. The case was continued until Tuesday morning and disposed of by Judge Kerr, who fined the Turk $10 and costs—a total matter of something better than $20, to which the Turk will add his attorney's fee. When Clark paid for his shave he tendered the Greek, who operated on him, a 50-cent piece and received change which he later discovered to amount to 55 cents. The Greek's countenance took on all the animated expression of a dead wall as Clark told his story, while the Turk looked as though he would like to work on his esteemed partner with a meat hack. Barber pleaded that he had been disabled by sore eyes for three weeks and had done nothing in his shop on Sunday. He said the work that went on was merely his two partners shaving each other and his lodgers from the hive upstairs shaving themselves.

Other City Court Cases.

Joseph Lumbard, a youth who was concerned with Elmer Soliday, Donald Walda and Henry Bruggemann in the robbery of the Dohrman grocery, on Winter street, two weeks ago, pleaded guilty to petit larceny and was certified to the juvenile court. He was arrested Monday by Detective Sergeant Walter Immel, who had worked up the case against the gang of young bandits.

Nelson Youse, a farmer from near Hoagland, came to the city, got gloriously piped and fell into the hands of the police. He drew $1 and costs and as soon as the banks opened drew a check for enough to pay his way out.

Charles Weber, out of jail but recently after doing a bit for getting drunk, was back on the same old charge and drew another eleven days.

Raymond Sullivan went into the Strodel delicatessen store Monday and said a nearby saloonkeeper had sent for a twenty-five cent can of fish, the same to be charged to the saloonist's account. He was served and then it was learned he was a petty and probably hungry swindler. He was fined in the city court for getting goods by false pretenses and went to jail.

Walter Wallace, who looked as though he had just escaped from General Kelley's well known army and told Officer Collins he was the advance agent of the Hagenbeck-Wallace shows, started a [illegible] Tuesday [illegible]

ing and had nothing in it but himself, his dirt, his rags and his souse. In court he pleaded guilty to being drunk and said he would jump the town in a quarter of an hour. Judge Kerr thought he would not and warped him into a slip at the county jail for eleven days.

Charles Buckley, a plain drunk, was turned loose, the case against Charles Gephart charged with selling liquor to minors was continued until next Monday and the case against Carl Kettleson, charged with desertion, was continued a month.

Hagenbeck-Wallace Shows Inaugurate 1914 Season in Fort Wayne.

STREET PAGEANT IS ELABORATE ONE

Tented City Has Risen on Old Golf Grounds in East End.

It's here, kids—the first circus of the season.

It's here, and a gay, glad, enthusiastic crowd greeted it. The Hagenbeck-Wallace show, the grandest galaxy in all the world, according to the press agent, arrived in Fort Wayne early Tuesday morning and while the usual program was carried out in much of the same, old-style detail, the circus at the old golf grounds attracted one of the largest crowds to the city that has packed the streets this year.

More than 6,000 people gathered at the Pennsylvania railroad yards early in the morning to watch that ever interesting work of unloading the paraphernalia and later as the sun came over the eastern horizon the crowds started to reach the city. Some came in automobiles, some in carriages, some in buggies and not a few walked, jumped ditches and climbed fences. The small boy playing "hookey" from school was there with his books tucked under his coat.

As early as daylight crowds began to pour into the city. The farmer with his dust covered wagon bearing his family all neatly togged was an early comer.

HOPES TO BE REWARDED; GETS ARRESTED INSTEAD.

New York, June 16.—When Barney Jeasmuszkiewisz, fireman on the steamship New York which was recently rammed by the Hamburg-American liner Pretoria, stepped forward today in the hope that he might be rewarded for his conduct at the time of the accident, he was promptly arrested.

The detective who made the arrest said he was wanted by the Chicago police on charges of assault and battery and robbery. The fireman assumed a new name when he signed the steamship's articles, but when it was rumored that the crew was to be rewarded for their courage he gave his right name.

SECRETARY BRYAN IS YET HOPEFUL

Believes Rebels Will Be Admitted to Mediation Proceedings.

Washington, June 16.—Secretary Bryan was still hopeful today of the ultimate success of mediation despite the developments at the Niagara conference. When he went to the cabinet meeting the secretary of state said he still believed the situation would so shape itself that the constitutionalists would participate in the mediation proceedings in some form.

Heads of the constitutionalists agency here said they had no new advices from Gen. Carranza but did not profess surprise at the action of the mediators insisting upon an armistice and the inclusion of the internal problems of Mexico in the scope of mediation before receiving the constitutionalist delegates.

The general opinion of official circles was that mediation was again confronted with a period of delay and uncertainty but that another step would be worked out soon.

Brig. Gen. Funston reported to the war department today that the food supply of Vera Cruz was not in great danger, although some prices were high and he recommended especially against sending food supplies from the United States, except for troops.

STILL CANVASSING NAMES.

American and Mexican Delegates Seek Successor to Huerta.

Niagara Falls, Ont., June 16.—While there was little expectation of agreement today between the Mexican and American delegates over the organization of a new provisional government in Mexico and the selection of a successor to Gen. Huerta, the delegates continued their consideration of available material in the hope that some person might eventually be suggested who would prove acceptable to all parties.

A number of names have been discussed, but the list is not entirely exhausted. The Americans, however, are being handicapped in their work by the failure of the constitutionalists to furnish the names of persons whom they would be willing to accept as provisional president.

Emilio Rabas, chairman of the Mexican delegation, received a telegram from Gen. Huerta today in which the latter denies that he is being represented in Washington by Charles A. Towne, former United States senator from Minnesota. Gen. Huerta declares that Mr. Towne is not acting as his agent in any capacity. The transfer of Louis Terrazas, wealthy Mexican land owner, from the palace at Chihuahua, where he had been under confinement for many months, to the penitentiary was responsible, it was learned today, for the request by Ambassador Da Gama of Brazil last night to Secretary Bryan through the American delegates to secure his release. The information as to the plight of Terrazas was communicated to the ambassador by Mr. Rabas, who asked that the United States use its influence in his behalf.

QUITS JAIL FREE WOMAN.

Grand Jury Refuses to Indict Slayer of Husband.

Charleston, W. Va., June 16. Mrs. Dollie McSurley, who recently walked into the sheriff's office and announced that two days before she had killed her husband and hid his body in the cellar of their home walked out of the county jail here today, a free woman. The grand jury refused to return an indictment against her. Mrs. McSurely declared she struck her husband with a hatchet after he had tried to kill her.

HOPES TO INCREASE SPEED.

Designer to Take Four Tons of Lead from Shamrock's Keel.

Gosport, Eng., June 16.—It is understood that Charles E. Nicholson, designer of Sir Thomas Lipton's Shamrock IV, proposes to remove about four tons of lead from the keel of the new challenger for the America's cup. He thinks this will materially increase the speed of the yacht.

Police Unable to Get Trace of Patmont, Missing Again

Detroit, Mich., June 16.—The police department, after working on the case nearly all night, said this forenoon they were absolutely without a clew as to the whereabouts of Rev. Louis R. Patmont, the Westville, Ill., "dry" worker who disappeared last night from his temporary home here where he had been staying since his alleged kidnaping in Illinois in March. The minister's wife and friends also said they had heard nothing from him since he attended church services last evening and started for his rooming place a couple of miles distant.

Mr. Patmont and his wife have been living in Detroit most of the time since he was found in a cellar of a house near Columbia, Ill., where he insisted he had been held in captivity by kidnapers. His disappearance at that time resulted in a nation-wide search and when he was found he gave out a sensational account of his abduction and alleged harsh treatment.

Rev. C. F. Wiley, of this city, took an active part in the search for Patmont when the latter first disappeared and when he was found Mr. Wiley had him brought here and secreted in a house at 160 West Ferry avenue. Several days ago, it is said, Mr. Patmont declared he thought several men were following him. Believing his life was in danger, he made out his will, according to his friends, and the instrument was completed and signed yesterday. They now claim they do not know what became of the will.

Mr. Patmont's expenses during the "dry" campaign previous to his disappearance were being paid by the local church presided over by Rev. Wiley. The missing man was to have left early today for St. Louis to attempt to identify a man held there on suspicion of being one of his kidnapers.

Where Conservation Lost

News Note—The t... "withdrawal" order of President ..., issued in 1909, involving more than two million acres of California oil lands, has recently been declared invalid by the federal courts, on the grounds that the president has no power to withdraw land of the public domain from entry unless he is expressly authorized by congress to do so.

DISASTER HAS OVERTAKEN MEN

Case of Crew of Missing Balloon Seems Almost Hopeless.

Portland, Ore., June 16.—That disaster in some form has overtaken the crew of the balloon Springfield, which left here Thursday with three other balloons in a race of the National Aero club seemed certain today. Yesterday and last night a search over the Sandy river district, where the balloon was reported seen at 4:30 Friday morning proved fruitless.

While the officials of the Portland rose festival, who are directing the search for Captain Roy Donaldson, of the Springfield, and Wilbur Henderson, his aide, still held to the hope that the balloon had safely descended, they believed it impossible the aeronauts could have survived the perils of the rough mountains without serious suffering. Additional searching parties left today for points to the south and west of here.

PARIS A SCENE OF DEVASTATION

Many Engulfed as Streets Collapse During Terrific Storm.

Paris, June 16.—Parts of Paris presented scenes of devastation today with gaping holes in some of the main thoroughfares as the result of yesterday's terrific storm. The population of the entire city was deprived of water, gas and electricity, cut off as a precautionary measure against floods, explosions and fires.

Several lives are known to have been lost through vehicles falling into cavities in the earth, but the exact number of dead was not known this morning as some bodies were believed to have disappeared into the sewers. Heavy rainstorms added to the difficulties of the firemen engageed in searching for the bodies of people believed to have been engulfed or buried beneath the debris.

Strict precautions were taken to prevent the public approaching spots where there was danger of further subsidence. Many streets were barred to wheeled traffic entirely while the police kept back pedestrians to a safe distance. A street collapsed early today in the northern district of Montmartre behind the great cemetery, far from the other cavein. People in the vicinity scurried away as the ground began to sink and all managed to escape.

When communication with the suburbs had been partially restored today it was learned that fruit and vegetable growers had suffered enormous damage from the storm. Rain ceased later in the day, but the weather continued very threatening.

WILSON VERY OPTIMISTIC

Confident His Trust Legislation Program Will Be Rushed.

ADJOURNMENT BY THE END OF JULY

Firm Stand by President Spurs Leaders to Speed Up Machinery.

Washington, June 16.—President Wilson was hopeful today that the administration trust legislation program will be passed so congress may adjourn by the end of July. He was optimistic as a result of a conference today with Senator James, of Kentucky, and the conference last night with other senators and the chairmen of working committees.

According to officials close to the president he believes there is no prospect of any organized opposition to the trust

DELVING INTO BANK RECORDS

Examiners Continue Investigation of Wrecked Lorimer Concern.

Chicago, June 16.—Officials of the state banking department today continued their examination of the records in the LaSalle Street Trust and Savings bank, which was closed last Friday. Particular attention was paid by D. V. Harkin, chief examiner, to a search for collateral which secured notes found in the bank.

No estimate of the value of the securities in the vault has been made by the examiners who expected to make a preliminary report to Attorney General Lucey today or tomorrow. The report it was declared would also show what securities, if any, had been transferred as collateral from the LaSalle street to the Broadway State bank, the Ashland-Twelfth Street State bank, the Illinois State bank and the State Bank of Calumet, smaller institutions of what was known as the Lorimer-Munday chain, which were taken in charge by the state officials after the LaSalle Street bank was closed.

William Lorimer, president of the LaSalle Street bank, refused to discuss the affairs of the institution today. C. B. Munday, vice president, added no details to his announcement that a large amount of money would be forthcoming to finance reorganization of the bank.

CENTER PROBE ON TWO MAIN POINTS

Inquiry Into Shipwreck and Death of 1,000 Begins at Quebec.

Quebec, June 16.—With practically all the witnesses and a host of counsel in attendance, the court of inquiry, under the presidency of Lord Mersey, the distinguished British jurist, begins today its investigation of the disaster in the St. Lawrence river, in which the Canadian Pacific's steamer Empress of Ireland sank and more than a thousand persons lost their lives.

The inquiry is expected to center about two main points, these being the question of the international rules preventing collisions and the action taken by the captain of the Storstad, the steamer which collided with the Empress of Ireland, subsequent to the disaster. It is expected that counsel for the owners and officers of the Storstad will contend that when the two vessels sighted each other, the Storstad was off the starboard bow of the Empress of Ireland and according to the rules of the sea the Canadian Pacific liner was bound to keep out of her way.

As to events following the collision

Young Girls to Hear Miss Wilson Talk at Biennial Convention

Anna Lou Wright

Chicago, June 16.—Youth has heard the call of the Federation of Womens Clubs. Almost every state delegation includes several young girls, and prominent among these is Miss Lou Wright, of Goffin, Ga., one of the youngest federated club members in the country. It is to these young girls of the federation that Miss Margaret Wilson, daughter of President Wilson, will speak Wednesday night when she addresses the federation.

OLD ESCORT CLUB FOLLOWS REMAINS

Funeral Services for Adlai E. Stevenson Held in Bloomington.

Bloomington, Ill., June 16.—With business suspended and the city draped in mourning, Bloomington today paid final honors to former Vice President Adlai E. Stevenson. The body lay in state in the rotunda of the court house for two hours while thousands filed past.

The procession to the church was headed by a band, a troop of Illinois National Guard and surviving members of the Stevenson Escort club, a famous marching organization of the campaign of 1892, which accompanied the vice president-elect to the inauguration at Washington. There followed 300 miners from the McClelland county mine, of which Mr. Stevenson was for many years president, members of the bar association, the mayor and city officials and numerous local organizations.

The Second Presbyterian church held but a fraction of those assembled. The services were conducted by Rev. J. N. Elliott and Rev. Edgar Jones, of Bloomington, and Rev. Martin D. Hardin, of Chicago, the latter a son-in-law of Mrs. Stevenson. The interment at the Bloomington cemetery was private.

The list of honorary pall bearers included many men prominent in law, politics and business, headed by James S. Ewing, formerly ambassador to Belgium and long Mr. Stevenson's law partner; former Governor Joseph W. Fifer, Congressman Fitzhenry and former Congressman Sterling. Among the notable persons present were former Vice President Fairbanks, former Governor Francis, of Missouri, and Governor and Mrs. Dunne.

STATE HOUSE IS BADLY CROWDED

Quarters Outside Will Be Rented for Several Departments.

Indianapolis, Ind., June 16.—Meeting in Governor Ralston's office today the state board of buildings and property practically decided to rent the fourth floor of a building at the southeast corner of Market street and Capitol avenue to be used as a housing place for five state departments.

The lease will be signed if terms can be arranged. Under the present plans of the state officials the food and drug laboratories and the pathological laboratories will be transferred to the building.

Besides these state departments those of the state entomologist, the state commissioner of fisheries and game, the state mine inspector and possibly other departments will be housed in the annex.

An appropriation to defray the expenses of renting rooms outside the state house for certain departments will more than take care of the expenses.

SMOKING HEAVILY FROM A NEW VENT

Mount Lassen Believed to Be Preparing for Another Eruption.

Redding, Cal., June 16.—Two identical reports received here at noon from different stations of the Northern California Power company said that Mt. Lassen is smoking heavily today from a new vent on the south slope. Earlier reports from Manzanita lake and Macomber flats said the crater was simmering, as it did yesterday.

Yesterday evening slight spurts of steam from the crater led Supervisor Rushing of the United States fore-station at Mineral to predict another eruption which he confidently reiterated today. Lance Graham, the only victim of the eruptions to date, was brought last night from Viola to the hospital here. He withstood the fifty-mile trip well and physicians say today that his remarkable vitality will pull him through providing blood-poisoning does not develop from the wound in his side which was filled with volcanic ash during the six hours he was left for dead on the mountain side a quarter of a mile from the crater.

BURGLARS LOOT POSTOFFICE.

Get Away With $400 in Stamps and $100 in Cash at Gaston.

Gaston, Ind., June 16.—The postoffice at this place was robbed by burglars early today. About $400 worth of stamps and $100 in money and money order forms were taken. Three safes, each weighing 3,000 pounds, were shattered, the doors being blown across a fifteen-foot room and badly wrecking the furniture. A steel chest supposed to be burglar proof was blown open.

80 TRAPPED BY FLAMES

Seven Armenians Perish in Lodging House Blaze at Milford, Mass.

ESCAPE CUT OFF BY SWEEP OF FIRE

Wild Excitement as Crazed Foreigners Leap from Upper Windows.

Milford, Mass., June 16.—Seven men were burned to death and twenty seriously injured when eighty persons were trapped in a burning Armenian lodging house early today.

The bodies were taken from the upper floors of the four and a half story brick and wooden building. In addition to the twenty men taken to the hospital suffering from burns or from injuries received in jumping from windows, thirty sustained minor hurts.

Interior Burned Out.

The interior of the building was burned out. The fire, the cause of which has not been determined, started in the dining hall on the ground of the structure, which was at the corner of West and Cherry streets. When the firemen arrived flames were shooting through all four floors.

Escape by two narrow stairways was cut off and the only means of getting out of the building was by jumping from the windows.

Scene of Wild Excitement.

There was a scene of wild excitement as the crazed foreigners attempted to save their lives.

The building, erected more than fifty years ago, formerly was used as a shoe factory and its timbers were impregnated with oils. The heat was so intense that the firemen were unable to enter and the only way they could aid the occupants was by spreading nets and blankets to catch them as they leaped from the windows.

The victims were laborers and moulders employed at a manufacturing plant in Hopedale. None of them had families. The financial loss is small.

MUST BELIEVE IN REFORM.

Speaker Points Only Way of Settling Liquor Question.

Clinton, Mo., June 16.—The liquor question can be settled only by the three branches of government—legislative, judicial and executive—combining for its solution, declared James H. Wortendyke, of Los Angeles, in an address at the national conference of leaders and workers of the prohibition party here today. Mr. Wortendyke declared the liquor question demanded political party action.

"A law to be effective must be administered by an administration favorable to it," he said. "In like manner prohibition awaits an administration of government by a political party that believes in that reform."

Mrs. "Bud" Fisher, Auto Victim, Former Footlight Favorite

Mrs. Bud Fisher

New York, June 16.—Mrs. Pauline Fisher, wife of the famous cartoonist, "Bud" Fisher, is now lying close to death in a New York hospital as a result of the automobile collision of which she was a victim recently. The machine in which Mrs. Fisher was riding turned turtle and pinned her beneath it.

Mrs. Fisher, before her marriage, was Pauline Welch, an actress who won many admirers by her flippant, fairy-like mannerisms.

WILSON VERY OPTIMISTIC

legislation by republicans in the senate and that a filibuster is improbable.

The president expects the railroad securities and the omnibus anti-trust bill to be reported out of committee within the next two weeks.

Has Not Committed Himself.

It was made plain today that he has not finally committed himself to the details of the bills as they passed the house.

The president's attitude against any adjournment without enacting the trust bills had an immediate effect at the capitol. The leaders began hurrying work on the appropriation bills and toning up the legislative machinery all along the line.

Most of the senators are eager for a mid-summer adjournment. Democratic Leader Kern said he thought the trust program could be disposed of and congress could adjourn before August 1 and he expected no opposition from the republicans.

President Is Firm.

The only measure on the program the enactment of which will be insisted upon are the anti-trust bills already passed by the house or similar measures. It was generally agreed at the conference that congress should be kept in session until the anti-trust program is put through despite the anxiety in congress for an early adjournment.

The president in outlining his position told the senators that while he also was anxious for an early adjournment, yet he strongly felt that the anti-trust program should be enacted during the present session. That rapid progress was being made on the anti trust bills now under consideration by senate committees was the report made to the president and it was generally conceded that these measures would pass the senate.

Old Ball Again Goes In.

Senator Newlands, chairman of the inter state commerce commission today reintroduced his bill for the federal incorporation of railroads. He first introduced it in 1912. "The recent decision of the supreme court in the Shreveport rate case and the proposed legislation for the regulation of the issuing of stocks and bonds show the trend is to place the entire jurisdiction of the railroads under the federal government," he said.

Smith Makes Charges.

Charges that the United States kept its marines in Nicaragua to influence the presidential election and that the state department has been acting in the interest of American bankers, contained in a resolution introduced today by Senator Smith, of Michigan, were referred to the senate foreign relations committee.

The resolution charges that the Nicaraguan railway was sold much below its value to the bankers and that the last election in Nicaragua was intentionally influenced by the presence of United States troops in violation of the treaty with Nicaragua. Ernest H. Wands, financial agent for Nicaragua, the resolution says, was designated by the state department in the interest of the bankers.

Jones May Be Governor.

Thomas D. Jones, of Chicago, nominated yesterday for the six year term on the federal reserve board, was said in officials circles today to be the president's choice for governor of the board. Charles S. Hamlin, of Boston, was expected to be made vice governor.

Reports continue that confirmation of some of the nominees will be opposed in the senate. Officials close to the president declared he considered the entire board so good that he will support the nominations to his utmost.

interests circus folks early in the morning. Napoleon said that an army moved on its stomach, and the same may be said of a great circus organization. And so this morning the first tent to nose its way into the air was the one in which 17 chefs preside. In the "cook house" there are 22 feet of steel cooking ranges, and half an hour after the arrival of the first wagon on the show grounds, savory fumes were issuing from a dozen little smokestacks. Jimmy Davis, who presides over the culinary department of the Hagenbeck-Wallace circus said that almost 1,099 people were on hand for breakfast. They wanted their "coffee and" as well as their griddle cakes, and more than 3,000 of the latter were served.

With breakfast over the work of erecting the tented city began in earnest. There were no halts or perplexing delays. The ponderous poles were raised into the air with a celerity that was amazing. Intricate tangles of rope and canvas appeared to fall into place. And in a remarkable short time the once barren lot was a bustling, bustling little city with a population of 1,100 souls which was increased many thousand more by spectators who thronged every available spot to watch the workingmen.

The Parade.

With bands trumpeting, horses prancing, clowns shouting and calliopes "tooting," the monster street pageant of the Hagenbeck-Wallace circus moved through the downtown street at noon without a hitch. Thousands lined the streets, curbing and crowded the windows in an effort to catch a glimpse of the circus finery.

And what they saw was not disappointing, hundreds of horses gaily caparisoned in silver trapping and brass elicited interest. And the funny clowns afforded merriment to the little tots, who clapped their hands in childish glee at the antics of the fun-makers, who made grimaces from their seats, perilously high on the top of wagons. "It was some pee-rade," said one small boy, and after all, everyone seems to be a kid when the circus comes to town.

With the parade over the show grounds became the objective point. Street cars were crowded to overflowing and many clung to the hand-guards and railing. Everything was in readiness to receive the great crowds. The side shows did a land office business. A tall, slim young man, depicted in glowing terms the merits of his attraction and the wonders to be seen on the "inside" for the price, "ten cents." The snake lady looked bored as she gazed down on the gaping crowd. The giant shuffled awkwardly in his massive chair and inquired the ball score. The side show bands played as only circus bands can play and the general verdict was to "see it all."

It was shortly before 2 o'clock when the doors to the big show were opened, and for almost an hour a constant stream of humanity poured into the "big top." Preceding the performance by thirty minutes a concert of classic and popular music was rendered by Prof. Al Massey's band of sixty-eight soloists. The big show performance began at the conclusion of the musical concert and cabaret.

The show reached the city in separate divisions fifteen minutes apart from Lima, Ohio, where it exhibited Monday. Wednesday morning, after the Fort Wayne crowds have been entertained, the tented city will be torn down, loaded on wagons and then on the train, and will leave the city for Huntington, where the same operation of erecting a miniature city will be gone through for the two performances there tomorrow.

WATCHFUL WAITING AT VERA CRUZ.

CHALLENGING AND SEARCHING SUPPOSED CONTRABANDS PASSING THROUGH AMERICAN LINES AT VERA CRUZ.

(By Fred L. Boalt.)

Vera Cruz, June 16. When there is no war, though the stage is set for it, what, please, are soldiers and war correspondents to do?

One can but watch and wait, and be ready, and look the part, and pretend.

So Shepherd, of the United Press, and I rode out to the little outpost on the beach, five miles north of Vera Cruz, found the sergeant in command pretending to be worried.

"The spiggoties have been coming in since last night," he said, "and they are bringing their clothes and pots and pans with them. They won't say why they are in such a hurry to get inside the American lines, except that there is too much pom-pom outside."

Oh, fine! The game was getting good. We continued to the box car camp of Captain Hughes, of the marines, a lean and sinewy young warrior.

"I am not sure it means anything," said Captain Hughes, "and I hope it doesn't" wherein he lied "but the peons are frightened about something and are coming in. A few shots were fired an hour ago. I have notified headquarters."

A figure stood at the salute in the door of the tent. Night had fallen, and the light from the lantern revealed a grisled and mustached veteran.

The veteran had been scouting in the bush, alone. This is great fun. He had seen a bomb-proof entrenchment, now He had found a new-worn trail. He had seen three federals in tattered uniforms skulking in the bush.

Far away fires—one, two, three—glowed against the sky. We denied vehemently that they were more charcoal fires. We argued that they were too large, too bright. Somewhere out yonder there was war.

An orderly sprang at us out of the darkness.

"The telephone, sir! Headquarters!"

So headquarters, too, was playing the game. Captain Hughes dashed away and back again.

"We are to call up headquarters every half hour through the night," he told us, and added: "And, gentlemen, I am sorry, but I am instructed by the chief of staff to send you back to the city."

Our horses stepped gingerly along the twisting trail. Night birds called. And out of the silence came with a shock:

"Halt! Who's there?"

Oh, delicious fright! Oh, exquisite trepidation!

We found our voices, though we could not, I confess, master the quaver in them, for sentries nervous in the dark have been known to shoot.

"Newspaper correspondents with passes!"

"Dismount and advance one!"

Six times we were challenged, and each time we were delightfully scared. We whistled "Swanee River" not too loudly to let the sentries know of our approach.

A turn in the track, and we saw the lights of Vera Cruz.

The game was ended.

Her Royal Shyness Discovers Plot at Buckingham Palace

Princess Maud

While the Pankhurst militants stormed Buckingham palace from the park a suffrage plot failed, discovered (says report) by no less a lady than H. H. Princess Maud, daughter of Princess Royal -dowager duchess of Fife.

London society knows relatively little of the young princess. Her father, the late duke of Fife, shrank from attending court where those responsible for assigning precedence never knew where to place him.

But her "royal shyness" possesses a will of her own and a romantic yearning to marry and reform a certain prince in exile. King George's arguments proving non-efficacious, the recalcitrant princess was bidden to visit at Buckingham that Queen Mary might employ moral suasion.

HAS $20,000,000 TOTAL IN FORCE

Lincoln Life Company Has Completed Purchase of Michigan Life.

The business of the Michigan State Life Insurance company has just been re-insured by the Lincoln National Life company, of Fort Wayne, and the whole amounting to about $7,500,000 of insurance, gives the Lincoln company, of this city, $20,000,000 insurance in force and approximately $1,750,000 in assets.

This deal has been pending for more than one year, and for the past fifteen month A. F. Hall, general manager and secretary of the Lincoln Life company, has assumed the duties of president of the Michigan State Life, while Dan P. Ninde acted as vice president and Franklin Meade as secretary and actuary.

Mr. Hall stated Tuesday morning that the deal just closed will not result in a change in the officers of the local company. Three car loads of equipment from the Michigan offices at Detroit has been shipped to Fort Wayne, and as a result of the increased equipment, it will be necessary for the Lincoln Life to take up more than one floor in its building, on East Berry street.

CENTER PROBE ON TWO MAIN POINTS

the representatives for the Storstad will offer testimony to show that the collier heard the cries of the drowning and whistled repeatedly to the Empress, but received no reply and immediately lowered boats to engage in the work of rescue.

The government has subpoenaed between sixty and seventy witnesses and the inquest is expected to be in session a week or more.

Faces Court on His Feet.

Capt. Kendall, skipper of the Empress of Ireland, was the first witness called. Although Kendall still limped from the injuries he received, he refused a seat and faced the court on his feet.

The examination of witnesses was preceded by brief summaries by counsel representing the owners of the two vessels. Counsel for the Storstad declared that when she first sighted the Empress the latter was off the Storstad's port. Two minutes later the fog shut down, the Storstad signalled by whistle that she was under way and keeping her course, heading west by south. Their statement continues:

"When the whistles of the Empress were heard again the mate in charge of the Storstad put his wheel to port while he slowed up. The wheel was put hard to port and when she did not answer it, assistance was given by steaming up sufficiently. Two long blasts were given to indicate that the vessel had lost steerage way. About the same time the enginerroom was ordered to go slow ahead so that the vessel would not become unmanageable. The captain, who had gone below, was called up by the mate. He asked, 'Can you see Father Point?' and the mate said that it had just been shut out by the fog. He made no mention of the Empress and called the captain because he had asked to be called if it got foggy.

"When the captain got on deck he saw the mastlights of the Empress three points to port. He immediately ordered full steam astern. The vessels were then about 800 feet apart. The green light of the Empress appeared. Three minutes later the vessels came together. The master of the Storstad heard a hail from the Empress telling him to keep going ahead. He had ordered this, but found he couldn't keep the collier's nose in the Empress' wound. The Storstad was swung around until she was parallel with the liner and the collier's master was afraid his ship would be struck on the port side by the starboard quarter of the Empress. He had to swing around in a complete circle and in the meantime the Empress disappeared. The Storstad blew signals to the liner, but it did not answer. About ten minutes afterward the master of the Storstad heard a chorus of cries and proceeded toward them with care, his four boats ready to launch. The Storstad's boats saved several hundred of the Empress' survivors and manned entirely an Empress boat on its trip back to the scene of the wreck and another boat partially."

TELLS STORY OF THE DEVIL BABY

Jane Addams, of Hull House, Recounts Gossip to Club Federation.

Chicago, June 16.—The story of the "devil baby" of Hull house was told by the head of the social center, Jane Addams, to the convention of the general federation of women's clubs here today. The story was told in connection with a plea that club women extend the hand of fellowship to immigrant women, especially the older women.

Miss Addams said the origin of fairy stories seems to have been with primitive women who invented them to influence to gentler ways their brutal lords and masters.

"There was of course no devil baby, but such currency did the story have that for six weeks the ordinary activities of Hull house were almost suspended while we explained to hundreds of ignorant inquirers that it was all a fairy story," said Miss Addams. "Finally we placed detectives at work and we found two versions. The Italian version was that a Christian girl married an atheist who, at the culmination of an assault on his wife, tore down a sacred picture and declared that he would rather have a devil in the house than his wife, 'and when a child was born,' ran the story, 'Lo, it was a devil with horns and hoofs and tail.'

"The Jewish version differed but little," continued Miss Addams. "It concerned a father whose wife had borne him seven daughters and upon the approach of the eighth he swore he would rather have a devil in the house than another daughter. And the story, like that of the Italians, concluded with the birth of the 'devil baby.'

"In both cases, went the gossip, the frightened parents had brought the imp to the Hull house." Miss Addams explained that detectives found that immigrant mothers were trying to persuade their daughters against unorthodoxy, or doubtful conduct by threatening them with impish progeny.

Miss Margaret Woodrow Wilson, daughter of the president, arrived here today. She is on the program to lead in singing "Brotherhood" at the convention this afternoon and speak briefly tomorrow night on "The greatest service the general federation can render the young women of America."

"Gifts of ill gotten wealth should be cast back into the teeth of the giver until he gave evidence of repentance and restitution," declared Edward A. Ross, professor of sociology in the University of Wisconsin, here today in his address to the general federation of women's clubs.

"Such gifts cost society more than they are worth," he said. "The real fight to uplift humanity centers around the conditions and the pay of labor. This is a terrible shock to the whole system of reliance on private philanthropy."

Private benevolence should be restricted to experimental work, was Prof. Ross' conclusion. The state's dependents, he said, should be cared for by the state.

Problems of immigrant women, industrial and social conditions of women and children, civic and school problems were the subjects of addresses on the program for today. The list of officers, headed by Mrs. Percy V. Pennybacker, the presidential incumbent, which was placed in nomination yesterday without opposition, was balloted for today.

Applewood is the favorite material for ordinary saw handles, and some goes into so-called briar pipes.

CONSTIPATION

Is Not Really Cured by Violent Cathartic and Purgative Drugs.

The World's Greatest Doctors Now Prescribe USOLINE, Nature's Own Marvelous Lubricator.

If you have constipation a "dose of pills" will generally relieve your bowels. You'll have colic, gripe and cramps, but then, of course, those who persist in using astringent drugs must expect to have pains, because such violent preparations always cause griping, and larger and still larger doses are necessary. After a while you'll have to change to some more powerful purgative to get any relief whatever. Every sufferer from constipation knows this to be a fact.

But purgatives and cathartics do not CURE constipation—they simply AGGRAVATE it, make it chronic, and then comfort, health and happiness are gone from your life.

Eating, digesting and assimilation of food are purely natural, easy, unnoticeable functions, and so should be the movements of the bowels, and so they will be if you will stop drug-poisoning your system, and take a little USOLINE, which is an absolutely pure mineral product, pumped from the interior of the earth, in Russia.

USOLINE is tasteless, odorless and colorless, and has a wonderfully gentle, soothing and lubricating effect on the bowels, making the movements smooth, easy and regular.

You know the discomforts and dangers of constipation: most of you know the unsatisfactory effects of drugs, and we believe you will appreciate an opportunity to try a real remedy—USOLINE. Imported only by the OIL PRODUCTS COMPANY, New York, and sold by druggists generally, 25c., 50c. a bottle, and $1 a three-pint tin. Also in capsules, 2 dozen in a box, 50c. Enquire or write for printed matter.

WOUND WILL CAUSE DEATH.

Man Who Drove Nail in Skull Takes Turn for Worse.

Portland, Ind., June 1.—Charles L. Bisset, who since Friday has been hovering between life and death in the hospital ward at the county jail as the result of an attempt to commit suicide June 8, by driving a rusty nail into his skull, was removed Monday about noon to the City hospital. The aged mother, Mrs. Frank Bisset, who had been expected here since middle of last week, arrived a few minutes before her son was taken from the jail to the hospital She resides at Merricksville, Ontario, Canada, having removed to that city from Cornwall, Canada, where the family lived when the son left home several years ago.

A letter from the father was received Sunday by Charles Alexander, master of the local Masonic lodge. The letter bore the tidings that the father of the sick man was a former master of the lodge in his home city and asked that care be given the son, saying also that the expenses would be taken care of.

Bisset is a former pharmacist and worked for a time at his chosen profession in a Cleveland, Ohio, drug store. He was addicted to the use of intoxicants and it was while under the influence of liquor that he attempted to kill himself by driving a nail into his skull.

NEW COUNTY BOARD ORGANIZED.

Van Wert, Ohio, June 16.—Acting under the provisions of the Ohio State School code, the presidents of the boards of education of Harrison, Hoaglin, Jackson, Jennings, Liberty, Pleasant, Ridge, Tully, Union, Washington Willshire and York townships and the towns of Convoy, Middle Point, Ohio City, Venedocia, Wren and Willshire, took initial step for the reorganizing of the system of this county by electing a county board of education as follows: Edward F. Carlo, of Hoaglin township, five years; T. K. Osborn, of Ridge township, four years; C. F. Gehres, of Harrison township, one year; Alexander Meutzer, of Convoy, and M. M. Agler, of Ohio City, tied for the two and three years terms. The new code provides that the members of the county board shall meet at least every two months.

FARMER SEVENTY INJURED.

Bluffton, Ind., June 16.—Reuben Miller, a well known farmer, who lives northwest of Bluffton, suffered a compound fracture of the right ankle in a runaway accident. It is thought that he sustained the hurt when he jumped or was thrown from the runaway rig and alighted with one foot twisted under him. The fracture is serious because of the fact that the broken end of one of the bones lacerated the flesh severely. Mr. Miller had been in Bluffton on business and was driving home. The accident happened at the Peter Faylor corner, when he was only a quarter of a mile from home.

COMMON LAW MARRIAGE FAILS.

Portland, Ind., June 16.—John Van Horn, on Monday forenoon, drew a fine of $100 and a jail sentence of 30 days, when he appeared before Judge Moran on a charge of specific immorality. Van Horn's co-defendant, Miss Katie Watt, of Newcastle, has not been tried on the charge pending against her and since she was victimized by Van Horn it is expected that she will be excused by the state and not prosecuted. The court held that the old common law marriage could not be effective in this case, despite the fact that Miss Watt contended that she believed she was the lawfully wedded wife of Van Horn.

WANTED TO TELL OF BABY.

Huntington, Ind., June 16.—Ray Menefee, aged 25, while trying to board an Erie freight train here fell with one foot under the wheels and half the member was cut off. A baby had just been born to the wife of Bert Jones, a brakeman on the Erie who was a brakeman on the train, and Menefee had run to climb aboard, break the news to the new father let him hurry home, intending to relieve Jones of his duties while the train pulled into the yards. Menefee was taken to the Huntington hospital, where the crushed portion of the foot was amputated.

IS BOUND TO END HIS LIFE.

C. H. Fluke, Farmer Near Markle, Is Twice Rescued.

Markle, Ind., June 16.—C. H. Fluke, a farmer residing near here, has been declared insane after having been thwarted in two attempts to commit suicide. First he jumped into a cistern half filled with water and tried to drown himself. He had escaped the vigilance of watchers who had set out to prevent his repeated threats to kill himself and got into the cistern. He was taken from the cistern little harmed by his experience and was again placed in his bed. Somehow he had obtained a piece of wire and this he fastened around his neck and then hitched the wire to his bedpost in an effort to strangle himself. Again the timely discovery of effort to die resulted in the saving of his life. Fluke has several brothers and sisters who have gone insane and it is said that constant brooding that such a fate was in store for him has finally dethroned his own reason. He was taken to Bluffton, where a lunacy commission declared him insane.

JAIL-BREAKER CAPTURED.

Albion, Ind., June 16.—Harry Lounsbury, who with three others broke jail here more than a week ago, is again behind the bars here. He was captured at Goshen, Sunday evening, when he applied at the Elkhart county jail for lodging. The turnkey at once recognized him as one of the fugitives from the Noble county bastile, placed him under arrest and notified Sheriff John C. Cleland here that he had one of his escaped prisoners. Sheriff Cleland thought the men who accomplished the jail delivery here had help from the outside, but this Lounsbury strongly denies. He says they made a saw out of a jackknife and had no trouble cutting the steel bars of the window through which they escaped. Since breaking jail Lounsbury had been to Utica, N. Y., and back. He denies any knowledge of the whereabouts of John Byron, Fred Cravens and Frank Storey, who escaped with him, saying he left them at Kendallville.

HIGH COST OF LIVING WRONG.

Wabash, Ind., June 16.—A woman named Williams received a fine of $300 and costs and a suspended jail sentence of six months at the hands of Judge S. E. Grossnickle, of North Manchester, $50 and costs each and tacked on jail sentences of six months, and then paroled them during good behavior. Frank Kintz was fined $75 and costs on a charge of frequenting a house of ill-fame. A jail sentence of forty days was added.

WILL DENY ROADS GENERAL ADVANCE

Freight Rate Decision is Forecasted by Washington Writer.

Chicago, June 16.—The Herald today prints the following from its Washington correspondent, John Callan O'Laughlin:

The Chicago Herald is in a position to announce the salient points of the decision of the interstate commerce commission on the petition of the railroads of the eastern division of the country for a 5 per cent. increase in rates.

They are:

1. The commission will deny the application for a flat increase of 5 per cent.

2. However, it will grant increases ranging from 1 to 5 per cent. and perhaps higher on commodities now transported below cost.

3. It will decline to make advances on certain other commodities.

4. The public will be emphatically warned that the increases ordered do not justify any advance in the prices of food or other necessities.

5. The railrads will be denounced for engaging in a gigantic conspiracy to create a public sentiment in favor of the 5 per cent. increase and against the commission.

The task of making equitable rates upon the thousand upon thousand commodities is a tremendous one, and is responsible for the delay of the commission in filing its decision. Frequently a a change in the rate for the transportation of one commodity affects the rates upon hundreds of others.

Report Ready in Month.

The commission has completed part of the work. But a vast amount remains to be done. It is not believed the commission will be able to report much before a month.

The questions which the commission was forced to consider in connection with the rate matter were the following:

Do the railroads need more money in order to perform the duties of common carriers?

Should it be found that they need more money, is it because of inadequate rates or inefficient management or because of discrimination in the interest of big shippers and favored localities?

The first question the commission will answer partially in the affirmative.

The second question will be answered in this fashion:

Some rates are too low. There is no doubt of inefficient and extravagant management.

The third question will be a subject of continued investigation by the commission.

The commission rejected some time ago the proposal for a general increase in rates of 5 per cent. It was considered that this would be unfair, because some of the railroads in the district affected do not need the advance.

$18,000,000 Saved to Roads.

For example, as a result of an investigation and an order issued as a result thereof by the commission, something like $18,000,000 was saved annually to the coal-carrying railroads of West Virginia. Obviously these roads do not need any advance in rates.

Then, again, if the average of 5 per cent were granted, the increase would be less than 5 per cent in many cases and more than that in others, running as high as 50 and 60 per cent.

Moreover, the commission realized that if a flat increase in rates were given to the eastern roads, the carriers of the North, West and South would demand the same concession. The effect would be to impose upon the country a heavy burden and to cause a general advance in prices on necessities of life. The commission would feel derelict in its duty if it were to authorize anything of the kind, especially in view of the fact that some of the railroads do not need an increase upon certain kinds of freight which they now transport at a big profit.

Remove Monkey Wrench.

So after careful deliberation with the interests of the whole country considered, the commission decided to make an increase upon rates for given commodities. By its action it is satisfied it will remove from the machinery of business the monkey wrench which it holds was thrown into the wheels by "big business."

The advances to be made on the commodities will be such as to remove all cause for complaint on the part of the railroads that they are being driven to the wall by the harsh attitude of the commission. They will not have as the excuse for a policy of retrenchment the claim that they are being ground down by the commission.

On the other hand, the public will not be defrauded. The commission, in its decision, will make absolutely clear the fact that the increase in rates does not justify any raise in prices. If the grocer, the butcher and the candlestickmaker seek to boost prices on the ground that they have to pay more for the transportation of the goods they sell, the public will know that their action is absolutely without justification.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only Constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

THE SENTINEL'S DAILY SCRIPTURE READING.

Acts 10:17-28.

17 Now while Peter doubted in himself what this vision which he had seen should mean, behold the men which were sent from Cornelius had made inquiry for Simon's house, and stood before the gate,

18 And called, and asked whether Simon, which was surnamed Peter, were lodged there.

19 While Peter thought on the vision, the Spirit said unto him, Behold three men seek thee.

20 Arise therefore, and get thee down, and go with them, doubting nothing; for I have sent them.

21 Then Peter went down to the men which were sent unto him from Cornelius; and said, Behold, I am he whom ye seek, what is the cause wherefore ye are come?

22 And they said, Cornelius the centurion, a just man, and one that feareth God, and of good report among all the nation of the Jews, was warned from God by an holy angel to send for thee into his house, and to hear words of thee.

23 Then called he them in, and lodged them. And on the morrow Peter went away with them, and certain brethren from Joppa accompanied him.

24 And the morrow after they entered into Caesarea. And Cornelius waited for them, and had called together his kinsmen and near friends.

25 And as Peter was coming in, Cornelius met him, and fell down at his feet, and worshipped him.

26 But Peter took him up, saying, Stand up; I myself also am a man.

27 And as he talked with him, he went in, and found many that were come together.

28 And he said unto them, Ye know how that it is an unlawful thing for a man that is a Jew to keep company, or come unto one of another nation; but God hath shewed me that I should not call any man common or unclean.

Victory for Illinois Women

Feminine voters in Illinois have just achieved a notable victory in the supreme court of that state, where the Illinois woman suffrage act of 1913, has been declared constitutional in its entirety. The court was divided in its opinion by a vote of 4 to 3, to be sure, and the fact that the dissenting judges were all democrats may or may not be either significant or important. The court's division in no wise minimizes the importance of the victory or the validity of the law.

With state and congressional elections approaching the case attracted unusual attention, and not in Illinois alone. The fact that in elections held this spring in which women were allowed to vote resulted in the ousting of saloons from many Illinois towns also lent a good deal of keen interest to the case in the supreme court.

Summarized, the decision means in effect: That Illinois women have the unquestioned right to vote for presidential electors and for all statutory officers, as specifically provided in the 1913 act. They have the undisputed right to vote at all local option elections and upon all public policy questions which are not constitutional questions. That the election officials in Chicago were within their powers in designating women judges and clerks of election. That women are now full-fledged members of political parties and as such entitled to vote for committeemen and to serve as such. That the election officials in Chicago must proceed to redistrict the voting precincts to care for the 300,000 women voters who have been added to the list of qualified voters. That women have the right to be candidates for those offices for which they have the right to vote under the 1913 act.

Such a triumph is complete enough to satisfy the most exacting advocate of the right of suffrage for women, and it may be remarked in passing that something very similar is going to happen in many other states before many years have elapsed. Mere man might just as well get ready for it and be complacent about it.

There was a time not so long ago when many of the dairymen were inclined to be resentful of the regulations imposed by the city and state health departments to insure the delivery of pure and clean milk to Fort Wayne consumers. It is gratifying to learn that all this is changed. Inspector Schott and his assistants declare that for the most part instead of rebellion and defiance on the part of the dairymen there is now a marked willingness to comply with all the requirements and pronounced improvement as a result.

---

But little less sensational than his fullisade against the lobbyists a year ago is President Wilson's new charge that the apparent sentiment for postponement of the anti-trust legislative program is purely a manufactured affair, the result of organized campaign to that end by certain special interests. Mr. Wilson does not under-estimate the potency of presidential pronunciamento as a remedial agent, and he does not hesitate to utilize it when he believes the occasion warrants.

---

Three Fort Wayne boys of tender years, taken on a burglary charge, confessed that they had also planned a more or less pretentious hold-up campaign which was nipped in the buy by their arrest. It is unfortunate that such ambitious genius did not seek an outlet along lines that would have avoided the stigma of arrest for the lads and distress most poignant for members of their families.

---

Perhaps the identity of the men who removed the ninety-seven planks from Colonel Foster's water front near the junction of the St. Mary's and the St. Joe is destined to solemnly take its place beside that other historic local mystery which has for so many years enshrouded the burning of the late Mr. Strope's more or less celebrated barn.

Boon to Country.

Philadelphia Inquirer: "The good crops will come as a boon to the country. They will help a portion of the population, but it is manifest that they can not restore business confidence."

Having Effect.

Birmingham Age-Herald: "The splendid crop situation is having a direct effect on business. The railroads are beginning to buy equipment and plan for betterments on a large scale."

Blow to Pessimists.

New York Times: "An increase of 114,000,000 bushels [of wheat] above the previous maximum is a sad blow to the pessimists. Their indignation grows as they contemplate the excellence of the foreign demand."

Democratic Turmoil.

Baltimore American: "The country has been peculiarly favored by farming conditions since the beginning of the democratic turmoil. Natural conditions, the country over, are all right; nobody has ever suggested that they were otherwise."

Congress.

Wilmington Every Evening: "Nature is splendidly doing her part to make the country prosperous. Congress seems to be doing its best to discount the good work of nature and inflict evil upon the land."

The Farmers.

Indianapolis Star: "With prices anywhere near normal the farmers will have plenty of money, and their financial condition should be reflected in all lines of business."

TAKING THE NEXT BEST.

"There are as good fish in the sea as were ever caught," runs a proverb. So, when the man she was to marry kept her waiting at the church, Bertha Sigen, of Scranton, kept faith with her assembled friends by proposing to and marrying the best man.

Will she be happy?

That, of course, depends.

Whichever man a woman marries there are probably times—more than hubby would like to realize—when she fancies she might have done better had she taken some one else.

In your own case, dear madam, honest, now, isn't that true?

Yet, having made a choice, unless it's uncommonly bad, the sensible woman proceeds to draw rein on these errant fancies and make the best of it.

Life is mostly a series of accommodations. What we get is never quite equal to what we want or what we think we ought to have. It's lucky this is so, for it keeps us striving. But strive as we may, we never reach the goal of our hopes and are fortunate if, in the inevitable compromises, we make enough headway to keep our hopes sweet.

So we shouldn't be at all surprised if Bertha's swift swap might turn out to be quite as satisfactory as the original plan.

Clearly a man who can't remember his wedding day isn't ripe for matrimony.

CONCERNING HEALTH NEWS.

A doctor, talking before a group of doctors in an eastern state, said they ought to loosen up more and let folks know what is going on in their profession.

He suggested, for example, that if each newspaper had a trained physician on its staff to pass on medical pieces before they get into print it would help a lot.

Undoubtedly, if the trained physician were also a trained newspaper man. Very few activities of life are richer in human interest than the battles of the doctors with disease; but as the usual doctor would describe them it would take a classical dictionary, an encyclopedia and a course in college to make the average layman understand.

But is it so certain that a trained doctor would be the best man to report results in medical progress? Isn't his professional knowledge liable to be offset by professional prejudices?

The best source of simplified information about real achievements in this field that we know is a properly trained public health officer, who has been seasoned in the right use of publicity.

The city which has one is to be congratulated.

PICKS BEST FOR SUMMER FESTIVAL

Committee Secured Carnival Shows That Stand the Acid Test.

In developing its plans for the Summer Festival and Children's Playgrounds benefit for the week of June 22, the local committee in charge kept uppermost in its purpose the determination to provide the people of Fort Wayne a week of clean, wholesome amusement that should prove enjoyable to all who might participate in the six days of fete pleasures and that should leave no bad taste in the mouth of anybody. To this end the committee sought for the best carnival company that could be procured and was very fortunate in being able to close a contract with the Con T. Kennedy shows, which come to Fort Wayne with the undisputed distinction of being the largest and best amusement enterprise of its kind in the world.

In the series of shows and attractions that the Kennedy institution is offering for the season of 1914 the skill and experience of years, backed by unlimited means, have been exerted to make a great amusement enterprise that presents novelty with moral cleanliness and combines the spectacular with educational usefulness. The Kennedy shows will in this city as in scores of other places stand the test of a critical public opinion and establish here as elsewhere a high route and command the unqualified approval of the amusement-loving public.

Con T. Kennedy is always in personal charge of his great amusement enterprise and he will directly superintend the exhibition in Fort Wayne from the opening day until the last front is closed on the final performance. The high route of the Kennedy shows has been built upon the expenditure of too much money and upon the pains of too much hard and devoted labor to be sacrificed even to a day of ill-considered management. While the Kennedy shows are a financial enterprise, as all amusement undertakings necessarily are if they are to succeed, Mr. Kennedy takes the same pride in having his big institution prosper on approved merit that any honorable business man takes in the manner by which his affairs prosper. It is his ambition and his pleasure to make his shows the greatest of their kind and to maintain their repute as the best and cleanest in the field where they must compete on their merits and excellencies for the appreciation of the public.

Wheat King Patten Wins 'Varsity "N" in "Athletic" Feat

James A. Patten
©PAUL THOMPSON

Evanston, Ill., June 16.—"Jim" Patten, the man who made the whole world pay more for bread by his wheat corner of a few years ago, has discovered that he is an athlete.

Patten spent a good bundle of profits of his grain speculations in building a gymnasium for Northwestern university here. When the alumni gathered all wanted to fittingly reward "Jim" and decided to give him the greatest of all college athletic honors, the right to wear the letter "N" on his sweater—if "Jim" Patten, with his $20,000,000, ever wears a sweater.

But an obstacle was encountered. The "N" is purely an athletic reward. No one seemed to remember what Patten ever did in athletics.

But—happy thought:

"He lifted a whole cotton crop without taking off his coat or mopping his forehead, suggested one alumnus.

And "Jim" got the honor.

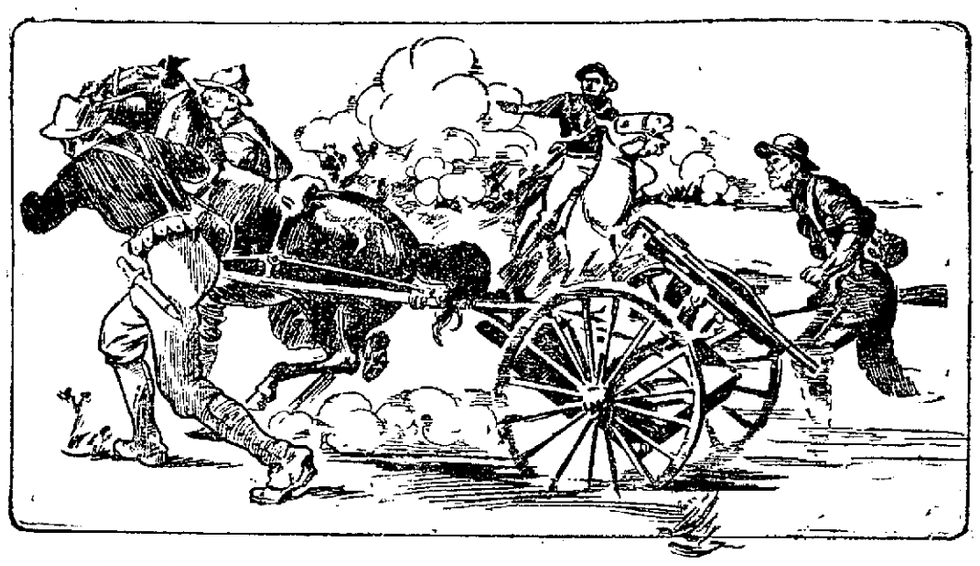
Gen. Funstons Great Story, "Memories of Two Wars"



AUTOMATIC GUN THAT FAIRLY MOWED DOWN ITS FOES, GOING INTO ACTION.

McArthur's Command in Fierce Fighting

(Editor's Note.—General Funston has related how the march to Malolos, the rebel capital, was begun, and how Major General MacArthur's division, of which Funston's regiment was a part, encountered a large force of the enemy prepared to make a stand along the line of march. MacArthur deployed his division for the conflict.)

CHAPTER XVI.

By GEN. FREDERICK FUNSTON, Brigadier General, United States Army.

According to the plans of battle, Wheaton's brigade, which was on the extreme left of the line, occupying the old Caloocan trenches, was to wait until the brigades of Otis and Hale had pierced the center of the line and then moved out straight to the front, the supposition being that Hale's brigade by making a rapid left turn would cut off the retreat of the enemy. We heard toward our left rear a crackle of rifle fire, which in a moment swelled into a most appalling amount of sound, and we knew that the fiery Wheaton was going after them hammer and tongs.

Gen. Funston

If any one thinks that more than 4,000 men using breech-loaders as rapidly as they can load and fire can not awaken the echoes, I wish he could have heard the astonishing roar that smote our ears on this occasion. There was no rattle, just a roar that drowned individual shots, and through which the crashes of the field pieces could barely be distinguished.

This brigade soon reached the south bank of the river. The country on the front of Hale's brigade was to us a veritable unknown land. It was out of the question for troops in extended order to make any rapid progress through it, and the day had turned out to be very hot. The situation made it necessary for us to remain where we were until the next morning.

During the night we were aroused by about a dozen shots from one of our outposts, and a man came in to report that a small band of the enemy trying to sneak up on it had been driven off. The officer of the day went out to investigate, and after some searching found a very old and innocent-looking carabao bull in the last stages of dissolution, with half a dozen bullet holes in him. The men of this outpost had to stand considerable chaffing. But they were at least entitled to credit for good shooting.

The next morning an adjustment of the line made it necessary for us to move half a mile up the river, and a little before noon the march was resumed along a wagon road. The Third artillery had the advance, and we followed. We could hear heavy firing toward Malinta, and knew that Wheaton's brigade was shoving the enemy out of the trenches near there. It was evident from the amount of firing that the fighting was severe.

I put my regiment to double time, moved to the right of the road, and crowded the men for all they were worth. It was rather a poor piece of business, for by the time they began to deploy they were so "winded" as to be almost useless. Finally we got a few companies in line and began firing, at the same time going forward by rushes. But the distance, nearly fifteen hundred yards, was too great for our Springfields, and I doubt if we hit a man. The men fell out by dozens, completely exhausted. I rode among them and I am afraid did not exactly bless them, but it was no use. Soon the fleeing Filipinos were out of range of even the Krags of the Third artillery, and the affair was over. The Twentieth Kansas had had only one man hit, Private Fairchild, killed.

We again formed column and resumed the march to Malinta, which place we found occupied by Wheaton's brigade after severe fighting. I saw General Wheaton and was informed by him that Colonel Egbert, of the Twenty-second infantry, had been killed a short time before.

Hale's brigade had pushed through the woods toward the town of Meycauyan, where the insurgents made a strong stand in trenches previously constructed. At a distance we watched the beautiful fight taking place in the open country, and with our field glasses could make out quite well what was going on. In this combat General Hale was slightly wounded, and Captain Krayenbuhl, of his staff, was killed. Enough high bullets from the fight dropped among us to give us something of a personal interest in the matter, and a man of the Third artillery near us was wounded by this long-range, dropping fire.

After the fight was over, and Hale's brigade had occupied the town with the fearful and wonderful name, or rather the place where it had been before the Filipinos in their retreat burned it, our brigade resumed its march for a couple of miles, and bivouacked in line in the open fields.

We arose refreshed from our beds of straw, had our bacon, hardtack and coffee, and began a rather strenuous and noisy day.

As we pushed slowly north, the advance of my regiment five hundred yards in the rear of the Third artillery, a lively popping broke out a mile up the road, and we knew that the advance guard of the brigade was again getting into touch with the enemy. For a time two or three of the companies of the Third artillery had been in column on the road in the heart of the town. We noticed that most of the men seemed to be in little groups along the side of the road. As the firing on the front increased Major Kobbe ordered all his men to reinforce the advance guard.

My regiment marched up to this point, and we at once saw the cause of the tender solicitude on the part of the artillerymen. All along the road were little fires, and over each one was broiling a chicken. The men had had less than an hour in which to catch and dress them and get them started to broiling, so that they were not yet done, and as a half-cooked chicken is a little worse than none, they were compelled to leave them to the mercies of the Jayhawkers.

One artilleryman had lingered and was carefully watching one bird. I asked him why he did not join, suggesting that his company commander might call him to account for straggling.

"No, sir; he won't. It's his chicken. I'm his striker. But I'll have to let it go. It won't be done in time."

I replied that it would be a shame to waste so fine a bird, and that I would see that it was well appreciated. So I took the chicken, after it had cooked, and the man departed in sadness. So I still owe Lieutenant (now Major) Abernethy, one fine young chicken, which I hope to pay him for some day.

It was evident that a stiff fight was on. In compliance with may orders to keep five hundred yards behind the Third artillery, we now fell into column and pushed up the road through the ruined town. We had just halted, seeing some troops the required distance ahead of us, when, much to our surprise, we were briskly fired on from our left front.

The men had raised the usual yell, and we thought that in a few seconds we would be among them, when we were brought up with a start, and the men instinctively threw themselves on the ground.

We had rushed to the very brink of a river about eighty feet wide and ten feet deep.

No wonder the Filipinos had stood their ground and had continued to salt us. It was a rather bad situation, as the enemy was sheltered in good trenches and our men had no cover other than rice dikes not more than a foot high. I determined to withdraw the two companies from their position until a way could be found to ascertain if the river could be crossed. (Copyright, Charles Scribner's Sons.)

St. Patrick's church was the scene of a pretty wedding this morning when Miss Myrtle Margaret Pappert, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William F. Pappert, and Mr. Clarence B. Pion, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Pion, were married. The bridal party entered the church at 9 o'clock and the nuptial mass was celebrated by Rev. J. F. Delaney. The many friends and relatives assembled for the wedding were seated by Messrs. Clarence and Ralph Pappert. The bride, a pretty and interesting young woman, was attended by two bridesmaids, Misses Ruth Lilly and Bertha Joly. Messrs. Edward Pion and Frank Pappert were groomsmen. The bride wore a beautiful costume of white crepe de meteor with trimming of oriental lace, without a train, but of graceful length. The bridal veil fell the length of the gown and was held to the bride's hair with a small wreath of swansonia and rose buds. A beautiful finishing touch to the gown was a belt of real roses about the waist line that ended in a graceful loop on one side. The bride carried her prayer book and also a shower bouquet of bride roses. She made a beautiful appearance and the two attendants, also gowned in white and wearing wreaths of white carnations in their hair, made as charming appearing bridal party as could be found in many a day. Both bridesmaids carried bouquets of white carnations, made in shower effect. The wedding breakfast was served at the home of the groom's parents at 2303 Spy Run avenue. There were between eighty and ninety guests present. The house was decorated with flowers and palms. The bride's table was in pink and white with festoons of ribbons from the chandelier to the corners of the table, pink roses and white carnations and a handsomely frosted cake in front of the bride. The Louis Boley orchestra furnished music for the reception and wedding. There were a number of out of town guests present, including Messrs. The bride at one time taught in the Fort Wayne schools and will be remembered by many friends of this vicinity. The Colton Times says: "Quietly appointed but with everything in artistic harmony was the pretty celebration of the nuptials of Miss Anna Glass and Lloyd Hulbert which occurred June 6 at 1 o'clock at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Cunnison on East F street. Mrs. Cunnison being a sister of the bride. Snow white carnations, Shasta daisies and greenery were employed to give a bridal bower effect to the rooms used for the wedding ceremony and the setting was charming in its atmosphere of simplicity. At the appointed hour Miss Gladys Cunnison, a niece of the bride, began the wedding march and the happy couple quietly took their places in front of Rev. R. M. Davis, of the First Presbyterian church, who used the always beautiful ring service for the plighting of the solemn vows. A dainty and girlish frock of white embroidered crepe had been chosen for the occasion by the bride and was later changed for a natty little suit of Alice blue silk with coat and other accessories in harmony for traveling and at 1:50 the bride and groom left over the Santa Fe to San Diego for a ten days' stay. Only immediate relatives of the bride and groom were witnesses to the ceremony. Mr. Hulbert is a sterling young man with a host of warm friends who will not only heartily congratulate him but will give a genuine welcome to his bonny bride."

AT THE TEMPLE

It shows the machine shop in operation, the strike, the reasons for it, the acute suffering which follows, the charity and friendship which grows out of all the misunderstandings, all are pictured in so homely, truthful a manner one begins to see that no matter what one's position in the world may be, whether rich or poor, well dressed or ragged, the same kind of a heart beats steadily along, the same feelings, the same joys, the same sorrows, the same sufferings are common to all classes of humanity, and we awake to the fact that it is only a small world after all, that we are all neighbors.

The company presented a big scenic production of "A Convict's Sweetheart" last night. The production and the cast was well received by a big house. This play will be the offering tonight, tomorrow matinee and night.

The Home Beauty Parlor
By Betty Dean

B. A.: The quickest way to remove dust and oil from hair is by shampooing occasionally with a teaspoonful of canthrox (which, like all the simple things I recommend, can be bought at any good drug store), dissolved in a cup of hot water. This makes a thick, white lather that instantly stops irritation and dissolves every particle of dust, dandruff and excess oil. Rinsing leaves scalp and hair wonderfully sweet and clean, the hair will dry quickly and evenly. I find canthrox shampoo is splendid for correcting the dull, "stringy," brittle condition of the hair and inducing a luxuriant growth, which is brilliant and fluffy.

A. P.: Your weak, languid feeling is undoubtedly caused by impure blood, or a sluggish condition of the organs of elimination. In either case, a tonic and bodybuilder will prove effective in restoring full health and energy. A rare tonic is made by dissolving 1 ounce kardene in ½ pint alcohol (not whisky), then adding ½ cupful sugar and hot water to make a full quart. Take of this 1 tablespoonful 3 times each day. The kardene tonic purifies the blood and restores health and strength. It is also splendid for ridding the skin of pimples, discolorations and sallowness.

Ada: I would remove those wrinkles and bring back the youth-tint to my complexion by using the following greaseless cream-jelly: Into ½ pint cold water put 1 ounce almozoin and 2 tablespoonfuls glycerine. Let stand over night. Apply this cream-jelly plentifully after cleansing and drying the skin. For wrinkles, put the cream thickly upon the creases. This stimulates in a way the stunted tissues of the creases and after a few treatments the furrows will have entirely vanished. For renewing the complexion a light, rotary movement should be employed, using plenty of the almozoin cream-jelly. This will banish pimples, blackheads, oiliness and other complexion upsets, and leave the skin soft, clear and velvety.

Josie: You will always have a poor complexion as long as you use face powder. Make up this formula at home and your complexion troubles will be at an end. Into ½ pint witch hazel or hot watr put 4 ounces spurmax and 2 teaspoonfuls glycerine. Apply sparingly and rub lightly until dry. This imparts a dainty tint and exquisite loveliness to the skin and is actually invisible when on and seems part of the skin. Neither wind nor perspiration will affect the spurmax lotion and one application in the morning will last throughout the day.

Worried: You need not suffer with over-fatness if this simple, harmless treatment is used: Into 1½ pints hot water put 4 ounces parnotis. When it cools strain, and take a tablespoonful before each meal. This treatment gradually dissolves fatty tissues and restores the symmetrical lines to the figure without leaving the flesh flabby or the skin wrinkled. When the weight is sufficiently reduced, the treatment can be discontinued.

Belle: I think singeing the hair is working at the wrong end because the trouble is at the roots. Make up at home and use this hair tonic. In ½ pint alcohol put 1 ounce quinzoin (get from druggist), then add ½ pint water. Use this 2 or 3 times each week, massaging well into the scalp and you will not be further troubled with brittle, falling hair. The quinzoin hair tonic is excellent for overcoming dandruff and excess oiliness and soon puts the scalp and hair-roots in a healthy condition.

Mrs. P. C.: You may not require glasses. Try this harmless eye tonic: In one pint clear water dissolve an ounce crystos, then put 2 or 3 drops in the offending eye a few times each day and keep up until soreness has entirely vanished. The crystos eye-tonic is valuable for tired, sore eyes or to relieve eye-strain and is excellent for inflame or granulated lids. It also gives to dull, listless eyes a delightful sparkle and lustre.

M. L.: Here is an inexpensive home-treatment for removing hair from chin, lip or cheek: With water and powdered delatone mix enough paste to cover the objectionable hairs. Apply and in about two minutes remove, wash the skin and it will be free from hair or blemish. Be sure you get delatone.

Do You Know How to Borrow and Lend? These School Children Are Taught How.

MISS HOOKER'S CLASS IN BORROWING.

Minneapolis, June 16.—Miss Edith Hooker, school teacher, who recently aroused interest by taking her pupils on street car rides and teaching them how to behave, has introduced a new game to her pupils.

She is teaching them how to borrow and lend in the proper and decorous manner.

"Borrowing," says Miss Hooker, "has become a national habit. It is a necessity of life to know how to borrow and lend gracefully. Yet many people forget their manners when borrowing, and still more when lending. But my pupils never will."

Two little girls are designated "neighbors." They set up housekeeping establishments on opposite sides of the classroom. One is baking a cake; the other cleaning house. There is a knock at the front door.

"May I borrow an egg, Mrs. Jones?" asks Mrs. Smith.

"Certainly, I will lend you an egg, Mrs. Smith," replies the neighbor and hands her an honest-to-goodness egg, for real articles are used in the lessons.

"Thank you very much," says Mrs. Smith.

"You are very welcome," says Mrs. Jones.

And the transition is almost complete. Later, however, Mrs. Smith, with elaborate ceremony returns the egg and is duly thanked by Mrs. Jones and asked to call again.

The boys are taught the same game with workmen's tools and the like.

Shiloh chapter, No. 141, Order of Eastern Star, will hold a past officers' meeting Saturday evening, June 27. A program has been prepared and a large crowd of members is expected.

DAM IN MAUMEE AS PREVENTION

Mayor Hosey Would Impound Water in Summer to Clear Streams.

As a partial means of flood prevention Mayor Hosey would place a movable dam in the Maumee river below the city and after the spring freshets had run off would raise the water in the local streams to a twelve-foot level and maintain it at that stage until near the advent of cold weather in the fall.

"By putting in a dam that could be raised when necessity exists and keeping it down during the warmer months we could do a great deal to prevent flood damage here," said Mayor Hosey in discussing the matter with The Sentinel. "We could readily maintain a twelve-foot stage in that way. This would prevent the tremendous vegetable growths that are becoming worse from year to year and go far to choke the streams and cause great floods in the spring when to the torrential rains of the season are added the flows from melting snow, ice and ground frost.

"These vegetable growths cause the streams to be constantly narrowed and islands to be formed in midstream. By keeping the river margins, the islands and parts of the stream beds that go dry in the summer submerged during the period of vegetable growth, as may easily be done, these growths will be prevented and ultimately the current will do much to clear the channels of accumulations of soil and silt that have been formed where these growths have flourished.

"Besides this, we will be able by raising the stage of the water for several months of the year to prevent encroachments upon the river banks such as now form a part of our flood problem in Fort Wayne and there will be created a condition that will afford the pleasure of improved scenic views in and around Fort Wayne and give the people the enjoyment of fine boating.

"The cost of such measures would not be great and the benefit would be distinct. It is not improbable that something along this line will be considered at an early date," said the mayor.

INTAKE PIPES INSTALLED.

Workman Overcome Spring Flows at Power Station.

The city employes who have been having a hard fight with spring water that poured in a flood from the gravel through which excavations have been made to install the intake pipes for the condensing system at the electric light and power station of the municipal plant have about completed the job and will be ready to make way by Wednesday for Contractor Max Irmscher, who will build the addition to the plant. The icy water that poured from veins in the gravel made it both difficult and unpleasant for a time to work in the excavations. Finally the water in the pool nearby was lowered and the water from the excavations was drained into it, which afforded the needed relief. Contractor Irmsher expects to make rapid progress with the big addition to the building that is to accommodate the new equipment purchased by the board of works to the city light and power plant.

A FREE-FOR-ALL FIGHT AT CIRCUS

Drunken and Discharged Employes Start Trouble at Show Lot.

Employes of the Wallace-Hagenbeck circus showing in Fort Wayne today, were given their weekly salaries Monday at Lima, O. Some of the hangerson and laborers celebrated the "walking of the ghost," and it is said they consumed about one car load of beer.

With that much wet goods under their hides they were in no condition to work Tuesday morning, and as a result of the spree, about a dozen of them, some colored employes, were fired. They refused to get off the grounds, and started a free-for-all fight. Mounted guards at the circus grounds started to use blacksnake lashes on the discharged employes, and one man was so badly lashed that it was necessary for Dr. Kruse to dress his wounds.

The men were finally driven from the grounds, but late this afternoon are camping along the edge of the property occupied by the circus, and it is feared they mean to start trouble after the coming of darkness. Chief of Police Lentz stated that he will detail an extra squad of men to the place in an effort to get them to leave the premises.

Ryan—Dietrich.

A pretty wedding of Tuesday morning was that of Miss Clara Dietrich, daughter of Mrs. Catherine Dietrich, and Mr. William F. Ryan, which took place at 9 o'clock in St. Mary's Catholic church. The nuptial mass was celebrated by Mgr. J. H. Oechtering with many friends of the bridal couple attending. The bridal music from "Lohengrin" announced the entrance of the bridal party, which consisted of Miss Katherine Ryan, a sister of the groom, as maid of honor; Miss Solina Dietrich, sister of the bride, as bridesmaid, and Mr. Charles Herr, who was best man. Two young men who were ushers were Messrs. Carl Bohne and John Sulzer. The sanctuary and altar were decorated beautifully, the sanctuary with ferns and palms and out door roses and garden flowers on the altar. The bride looked extremely well in a beautiful gown of crepe de meteor, with trimmings of shadow lace and pearl bands. The gown was made with a train and the long folds of the bridal veil fell to its hem. The bride carried her prayer book with flower and ribbon bookmark in shower effect. The two bridesmaids wore gowns and hats much alike except in coloring. Miss Ryan was in pale green crepe de chine and Miss Detrich in pale pink. Each of the maids carried a shower bouquet of pink roses. The general effect was exceedingly pretty. The wedding breakfast was served to immediate relatives and friends to the number of twenty-five, after the bridal party returned to the bride's home at 1106 Summit street and felicitations were exchanged. The house was decorated with flowers and ferns. Later in the day the bride and groom left for Washington, D. C., and other points. # PERJURY CHARGE BY DIVORCED WIFE

Joseph Stults Arrested on Warrant Sworn Out by Louise Stults.

Joseph Stults, an employe of the Bowser Oil Tank works, was arrested by Deputy Sheriff Herman Witte Tuesday on a warrant sworn to by his former wife, Louise Stults, who charges that Stults procured his divorce in the superior court, May 28, by fraud. The affidavit says that when Stults filed his divorce complaint March 14, last, he made oath that his wife was a non-resident of Indiana and her whereabouts unknown to him, whereas he then knew that for years she had been a resident of South Bend, living at 1021 South Franklin street, that city. She charges that he made this false and fraudulent affidavit to keep her from being notified by service that a suit was pending against her in the Allen superior court. Stults has been remarried since his divorce.

Wants Receiver Appointed.

William Bagent has filed suit in the superior court against Nelson R. Davidson asking for the appointment of a receiver for live stock and growing crops on Davidson's farm in Monroe township of which the plaintiff was recently a tenant working the place on shares. The complaint recites that last December the plaintiff entered into contract with Davidson to work the farm for one-third of the net profits of crops and increase of stock and that on June 5 Davidson illegally terminated the contract and ejected him from the farm. He says that he has an interest in some seventy-five or eighty head of horses, cattle, sheep and hogs and in the growing crops on seventy-five or eighty acres of land and that unless he be protected by a receivership he will suffer. The suit is a sequel to the prosecution of Bagent in the circuit court last week on a charge of petit larceny brought by Davidson, who accused Bagent of selling grain that did not belong to him and keeping the money. Judge Yaple appointed John W. Long receiver.

HORSE DID NOT LIKE THE PARADE

William Goette Injured in Lively Runaway That Follows.

Frightened at a van of polar bears in the circus parade, a horse attached to a Noll plumbing supply wagon in front of the Clay school staged a dashing runaway at noon today. William Goette, the driver, was hurled from the wagon and sustained painful injuries, while three children had sensational escapes from injury.

The children, whose parents are Mr. and Mrs. Tannehill, 1701 Boyer avenue, were knocked to the pavement by the frightened animal in its mad dash down Clay street, but were only slightly hurt. One of the children, an infant in a cart, was trampled by the horse, but in some manner managed to escape serious injury.

When the runaway started William Mettler, who also occupied the wagon, grabbed for the reins, but succeeded in clutching only one of them, with which he swerved the horse from the crowd and was then thrown out in the street. He fell in front of a wheel of an animal van and only the prompt action of the driver saved his life.

Goette was hurled from the wagon as it rounded the first corner and sustained injuries that will confine him to his home, Siemon and Pontiac streets, for at least a week. One of his eyes was lacerated, his side was hurt, and for a time it was feared by the attending physician, Dr. Schilling, that the man had sustained internal injuries.

When the runaway horse was finally located in a remote section of Lakeside it was in an exhausted condition with only a portion of the harness and the badly wrecked wagon still attached to it.

SLOCUM SURVIVORS MEET.

Memorial Services Held for 1,000 Who Perished in Disaster.

New York, June 16.—Survivors and relatives of those who were lost on June 15, 1904, when the General Slocum, an excursion steamer burned in East river here, met yesterday for annual memorial services at the Middle Village Reformed church. Memorial services were also held at Lutheran cemetery, Middle Village, L. I., where many of the 1,000 victims of the disaster are buried. At both services were old men and women in black who had lost those who were dear to them in the disaster and little children born since it happened. At the end of the church services, Charles Deersch, president of the General Slocum survivors, read the death roll of the past year.

BREAK IN NEGOTIATIONS.

Coal Miners and Operators Unable to Agree at Terre Haute.

Terre Haute, Ind., June 16.—After a conference lasting throughout the morning and part of the afternoon, strip miners and operators of the eleventh district shortly after 2 o'clock this afternoon abandoned their attempt to agree upon a wage scale and negotiations were broken off. The operators held that the demands were equivalent to a 27 per cent. increase, and offered a 5 per cent. increase. When this was refused the strip coal operators offered to submit the question to an arbitration board but the miners declined and negotiations were declared at an end. No date was set for further conferences.

Governor Stewart reiterated today that he had not asked that federal troops be sent to Butte. He said his message to Washington simply asked regarding the disposition of federal troops with a view to learning whether any were available if conditions became serious.

HOME CLUB GETS FIRST REAL AID

New Ground Rule Tied Up Score in the Final Tot Tilt.

First real aid from the new ground rule that permits runners in the Central baseball league to advance at their peril on a ball overthrown to the bases came to Fort Wayne in the final tilt with Larry Quinlan's Tots at the Calhoun street stockade Monday afternoon when Oscar Graham whizzed the ball past Teddy Anderson in the second inning.

Jack Gilmore let the ball and he just kept running until he reached third base and with two hands down Frankie Nespo cracked out a single that registered the first Billiken count and hooked the home troupe up with the invaders.

Its a good rule as long as it works in favor of local talent. To be right candid its a good rule at all times. Knowledge of the fact that a Fort Wayne player was hustling around the base lines just as fast as his legs would carry him, and that their companions were hanging onto the only tally marked up in the combat and depending upon it to win the series here, sent Ted Anderson and "Dutch" Meisner chasing the ball and prevented any delay in handling it after they got it.

It also gave Gilmore an extra base that didn't help him any as he could easily have scored from second on the Nespo offering, which was a solid smash to left where Hank Bowman was on duty.

Remember Hank? Well, Hank was at one time a member of one of the various Shamrock combinations with which Mart Cleary made himself famous, and he played infield, outfield and any place else he was needed, and looked then like he had about reached his level.

His home is at Ossian, and he has been playing with a semi-pro team at Kokomo, and he wanted a chance and Larry Quinlan, who wants another outfielder, took Bert Fisher out of left and permitted Hank to debut as a Central league proposition. His start was not impressive but he may do better outside of Fort Wayne.

Francis M. Atkins returned to the mound after a couple of weeks of illness in which a fractured rib has been mending, and although he asked to be taken out when he thought he was slipping in the sixth and seventh, Grover Young did not happen to be warmed up and the clever left-hander finished the game in good shape.

His work was great. He struck out nine men in the course of the matinee, and when got into serious trouble he battled his way out and hung up a neat victory to celebrate the fact that the Fort Wayne hurling staff is again intact.

Oscar "Peaches" Graham, who opened hostilities here on Friday, was the Quinlan entry for mound duty and his one bad inning put his chances on the hummer and gave Atkins a margin to work on that practically insured a victory.

Also Mr. Gilmore slammed another home run over the right field fence and did it with two omen down and the manager of the Billikens on first base. This happened in the fourth and the pair of markers produced would have been sufficient but three were added in the fifth for good measure.

The game opened in a manner to indicate it would be a rather slushy affair. Kyle hit in front of the plate and Atkins shot the ball to Jake Holderman and it bounded out of his glove like it had hit a car spring. Sheehan bunted and Atkins threw to second too late to get the runner. Bowman forced Kyle at third and Quinlan as passed, filling the bases. A passed ball permitted Sheehan to register the only run made by the visiting band.

Fort Wayne's best work was done in the fifth after Smith had popped a fly to left field that Larry Qinlan went after and made a brilliant catch of. Marcus Aurelius McLafferty found his batting eye and hit to middle and Holderman kicked another hit of the same variety into the going.

Bratchl popped to short and Brant cut in with a single and Martin and Gilmore each hit and the whole thing gave a surplus of three tallies.

BAN JOHNSON MADE WORK OF UMPIRES EASY AND IMPROVED THE GAME

(By Hugh S. Fullerton).

What, in your opinion, is the biggest improvement in baseball in the last decade?

If you will think a moment you will reply that it is the umpiring. You will be correct. It has taken the Federal league to reveal by contrast what an improvement there has been in the major leagues, especially since the coming of the American league. The Federals are having much trouble with their umpires, and will continue to have it, unless President Gilmore adopts the tactics of B. B. Johnson and suppresses kicking and rowdyism.

The umpiring in the major leagues has improved wonderfully since Johnson declared it his fixed principle to suppress all kicking and rowdyism. It is not that the umpires are better men. Their work is better because they are no longer hampered and annoyed by the players. The worst umpiring of the old days usually resulted from umpires being "rattled" and harassed until they blundered worse and worse. Such men as Caffney, Emslie and O'Day, all magnificent umpires, got so upset that they scarcely knew whether the play was at home or at first. Relieved of this strain and insured of support by the league, they improved immediately.

In the old National league, when one faction or the other always was protesting some umpire the work of the arbiters was poor. Ban Johnson was the pioneer in the discovery that the public does not like kicking, delays and squabbles. He drove John McGraw out of the American league by constant punishment for offenses on the field, and the National league received him and permitted him to continue his tactics.

Johnson's club owners did not agree with him entirely. He punished the Chicago club severely and, Fielder Jones thought, unjustly for their attacks on umpires. President Comiskey and Johnson quarreled bitterly over the same subject. But one by one they came around and now every club owner realizes Johnson was right.

There are towns of course that are prejudiced against certain umpires. Billy Evans was hated in St. Louis until a fan nearly killed him with a pop bottle. Now he is an idol.

Hank O'Day always hated to umpire in St. Louis, and perhaps because of that he had more trouble there than he did anywhere else. Bill Klem used to be a legal umpire in every game in which Chicago played, because the Cubs nagged at him at all times. Now he is one of the best.

Veterans of many years declare that the umpiring is better only because of the changed attitude of players and public toward the umpires. Bob Emslie, Billy Evans, Jack Sheridan, Silk O'Loughlin, all great veterans of the windpad, declare umpiring now is a downy couch compared with the old days.

A FEW OF THE OLD HEADS WHO WEAR THE MASK AND KNOW ITS EASIER TO UMPIRE IN THESE DAYS.

UP TO NATIONAL COMMISSION.

New York, June 16. The case of Heine Schulz, pitcher of the New York Americans, now rests with the national commission. President Frank Farrell, of the New York club, will take action to enjoin Schulz from appearing with the Buffalo Federals only on the initiative of the nation commission.

"I am going to put it up to the national commission," Mr. Farrell today declared. "This body has absolute authority in questions resting on Federal matters. On my own account I wouldn't spend 5 cents over Schulz, not even for the satisfaction of tying him up through law."

NOT ALL LUCK BUT JUST KNOWING HOW TO DO IT

Herman Schaefer

There is a tradition in the Chicago White Sox team that every time Germany Schaefer gets into a game against them they are beaten. The other day Schaefer turned the trick again and the Sox yelled "luck." Here is the "luck." This is the situation: Chicago was leading, 2 to 1. Faber was pitching beautifully and Smith fluked a two-base hit. Griffith sent Schaefer to run for Smith. Schaefer, laughing and yelling, ran out to second. He glanced toward Schalk, gave a quick flash of his hand, and Milan stepped into the first ball and whanged a triple that broke up the game. They called it "luck" but Schaefer had grabbed Schalk's signal and flashed it to Milan.

MONTREAL HAS A REAL SENSATION

Ball Players Admit They Are Not Fast Enough for League.

New York, June 16.—An ominous silence pervades the office of the club owner. He is seated at his big desk glowering into space and his thoughts are far from tranquil. This much is gleaned by the furrowed brow and the vicious manner in which he "chaws" the end of his long, black seegar.

Lying on the desk before him is the league standing. The undeniable figures show his club is wallowing in the darkness of last place a hopeless tailender although the season has scarcely more than begun to begin.

He has left orders with his important looking office boy he is not to be disturbed. He wants to be alone with his thoughts, unpleasant as they are. He fears if anyone should associate in the same room with him he might spatter him with ink, jab him with a pen and send him home on a blotter. He is dangerous (that's what he is, dangerously desperate. But he has just enough self control left to realize how dangerous he is. He spent the last half of it in instructing his young guardian in the outer office.

He is so wrapt up in his thoughts and the wrestling bout with his seegar is so keen he does not hear the door stealthily opened, does not hear the cautious footsteps of the office boy as that dignitary eases one foot inside the threshold and then edges the rest of his body inward.

Tiptoes carry him within a soft speaking distance of the owner, but hold him poised beyond the radius of a left hook or a No. 12 boot.

"Ahem!" the o. b. (office boy) clears his throat in his most solicitous way. He tries to control a powerful desire to bound jump through the still open door—left open as a matter of precaution—as the owner swings suddenly and wrathfully around in his chair.

"Didn't I tell you I was not to be disturbed, you thick head? Everything connected with this establishment seems to be made of bone. Whadday want?"

"Mr. Turnstile there's delegashun of your ball players outside an' they want to see ya for a minute. They has sumpin' important to tell ya and won't slip it to me neat. Lefty Flinger is leadin' 'em and they doesn't look dangerous."

There was a long pause. The owner glowers at the o. b. and then at the open door. He can hear subdued whispering in the anteroom.

"How many are there?"

"Looks like the whole team."

The owner glances over his shoulder to see if his heavy cane is still in position, if the inkwell is full and the pen point and blotter handy.

"Show 'em in."

Headed by Lefty Flinger, the troupe enters one by one. Seven or eight file slowly and silently into the sanctum. Doleful and downcast they look. If they weren't wearing their street clothes you'd think they were just about to engage in a baseball game.

Lefty fidgets more than the rest. He has been elected spokesman, and what he has to say is of vital importance. He has been scanning his condensed vocabulary for a good starter and evidently the word hasn't stole home yet.

Seeing their plight the owner unleashes his most stentorian tones:

"Whaddaya want? Be brief now. I'm busy and haven't any time to waste on a lot of dubs like you."

"That's just what we wuz thinkin'," stutteringly spouts Lefty. "We've 'bout decided we're dubs and we've come to have a little talk on it.

"Boss, ya been payin' our salaries and payin' us purty good at that, and we've been tryin' to play ball for ya, but we caint. Aint no use tryin's Now what we wants is fo ya to trade us to some other clubs in this league or pack us back to th' bushes. We've done our best but we're pikers. As ball players we're a bunch of yaps and hams and ya might just as well can us."

All this sounds like the workings of an overimaginative mind. It sounds like the wierdest kind of fiction. But its a fact. Several members of the Montreal International league team have established such a precedent by petitioning trade or sell them to some other club in trade or sell thec to some other club in the International league, or some other league.

At a meeting of the drum corps of the Jefferson club Monday evening, with the new president, Jerry O'Connor, presiding, it was decided to hold the annual picnic at Swinney park July 17.

MEISNER TO THE HARVESTER GANG

Terre Haute Outfielder is Sold to Springfield to Help Out.

"Dutch" Meisner, who just completed a series here as right fielder for the Terre Haute team, has been sold to the Springfield club, which is frantically trying to get some batting strength into its lineup so it can make some sort of a showing in the race.

Bob Craig, who has been finishing a course of study at one of the Pennsylvania colleges, is due to join the Terre Haute club and he will likely be played in the outfield for his hitting as the infield looks like it is as strong as it would be if he were added to it.

Craig was given permission early in the season to stay in college until he had completed his studies, and he will be ready to jump in and work as he has been keeping in condition at school.

President Louis Heilbroner left on one of his trips this morning without saying just where he expected to put in his time. Springfield is the only club on the circuit that is in any real trouble and he has not gone there so in absence of information from his office force maybe he has gone to Grand Rapids, where Terre Haute will play today.

Conditions in the league are all right except that the attendance in most of the cities is not up to normal. Mr. Heilbroner is trying to find out what local condition keeps down the attendance on the circuit, and is out to remedy such as he finds can be remedied. Naturally every town wants a winning team, which he cannot supply.

The first baby born to a member of any Central league team in Fort Wayne arrived last night when a boy arrived to make its home with Mr. and Mrs. William Cramer.

The father did not accompany the club when it left town today but will report tomorrow or the next day. Mrs. Cramer is recovering nicely.

BADGERS WILL HOLD MEETING.

The Badgers will hold a meeting Wednesday evening to make final arrangements for Sunday's game at Hartford City.

THE MOOSE BAND

Will furnish the music for the annual social given by Nick Hausbach, the blind man, at Swinney Park, Thursday, June 25.

WILL LEAVE WHITE SOX.

Hal Chase Has Notified Comiskey He Will Quit Club.

Chicago, June 16.—Charles A. Comiskey, president of the American league Chicago club, admitted today that Hal Chase had notified him he would leave the White Sox "in ten days." The first baseman in an interview with the club president declared his intention of quitting, but, according to Comiskey, he did not say he would join the Buffalo Federals, as reported. Comiskey gained the idea that Chase was going into business, he said. Chase himself refused to make any further statement. From Federal league headquarters however, came the information that he was practically sure to be with the Buffalo team within a fortnight.

Worse On Arms. Itched and Burned. Sores Would Fester. Suffered Day and Night. Cuticura Soap and Ointment Completely Cured.

R. F. D. No. 5, Sturgis, Mich.—"Last summer I picked cucumbers about a week before I noticed I was being poisoned. All at once I broke out with a terrible rash all over my entire body. It looked like pimples only was very much smaller. On my arms it seemed to be worse than any place else. It would itch and burn so I would scratch and make small sores that would fester. I suffered day and night for about two weeks but could find no relief.

"I used ——— and ——— and many others but they all failed to bring relief. At last I was advised to try Cuticura Soap and Ointment. Every two or three times a day I would wash with the Cuticura Soap and at night I would apply the Cuticura Ointment. After using them one month I was completely cured." # MUNDAY'S CAREER IS METEORIC ONE

Bank Crash Ends His Sensational Invasion of High Finance.

Chicago, June 16.—Climax of the career of C. B. Munday, one time poor messenger boy, and now high financier in the highest:

A million dollars of public funds of the city of Chicago, caught in the sensational crash of a string of "political" banks; small depositors' savings to the extent of $3,000,000 more tied up; politicians running to cover; rumors of scandal involving high Illinois officials, and exposure of very dubious dealings in a dozen other Munday concerns.

C. B. Munday's get-rich-quick career, which ended in an almost hysterical collapse when the state bank examiner entered his Lasalle street bank in Chicago and demanded a million dollars or closure of the bank, was begun as a country town telegraph messenger.

STARTS HIS BUSINESS CAREER AS A MESSENGER IN LITCHFIELD, ILL.

Munday, wizard of poltico-financial banking, was born in Litchfield, Ill. In a very few years he had begun his dramatic rise to riches. First he became a messenger boy, and hung around the railway station.

His first upward step was to the position of telegraph operator. At the key and sounder he was in close touch with the world of finance. He heard the big men talking over the wires about deals in stocks, bonds and grain.

Thus was the field of his future revealed to him. He entered the grain business, buying in a small way on the exchange and selling at a small profit. Then he entered a grain elevator concern, and soon owned it himself, as well as elevators in a dozen other towns.

AN OPERATOR ON THE GRAIN EXCHANGE

He added a bank to his possessions, and in time he had established banks in nine other small towns in Southern Illinois.

It just chanced that William Lorimer, of Chicago, was planning at the same time to break into realms of higher finance in the United States senate.

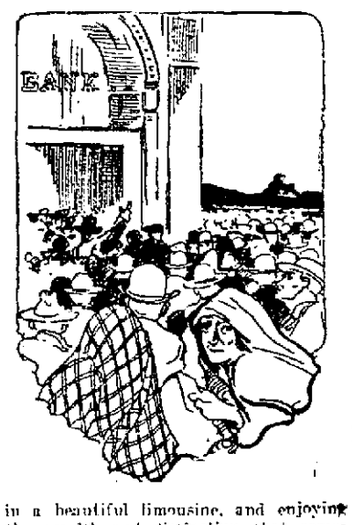
Munday, with power among the Southern Illinois democrats, whipped them into line for Lorimer, republican. And their votes elected Lorimer. A year later William Lorimer's Lasalle street bank was formed—and Munday was called up to Chicago to be its vice president.

The bank had hardly opened its doors before William Lorimer was forced out of the senate, charged with playing high finance too well, in entering it.

C. B. Munday, meanwhile, was gradually edging Lorimer out of his own bank. He bought a controlling interest in it, and began to establish outlying banks, which served as "feeders" for his main institution.

The Lorimer-Munday banks indulged in their operations unmolested. Wherever there was a corporation trying to get rich quick without a very substantial foundation, the Munday banks purchased its securities, when other institutions wouldn't.

But Munday himself was riding about



in a beautiful limousine, and enjoying the wealth and distinction that comes from being the head of fully twenty firms engaged in various kinds of business.

Then the state bank examiner came one day to the Munday bank, and looked into its vaults. He found that all the cash that should have been there had been removed, to make way for about $1,200,000 "worth" of worthless paper

A bulletin of interest to a vast portion of Fort Wayne's population was issued by Supt. B. H. Hudson, of the Grand Rapids and Indiana road, this morning. It reads as follows: "The G. R. & I. will put the Rome City cottagers' train into service this week. Southbound the train will make its first trip Saturday morning, June 20th, leaving Wolcottville at 6:40 o'clock, stopping at the Kneipp sanitarium at 6:45 on flag, leaving Rome City at 6:50, stopping on flag at South Beach, Rome City at 6:51; stopping at Kendallville at 7:02; stopping at Avilla on flag at 7:14, and also at LaOtto on flag at 7:21, arriving at Fort Wayne at 7:50.

ELECTRIC AUTOMOBILES FOR $500.

Dr. Steinmetz Says Prices Will Drop in Ten Years.

(Newspaperdom.)

At the convention of the National Electric Light association in Philadelphia last week, Dr. C. P. Steinmetz, a world-famous authority on electricity, made the prediction that within ten years electric automobiles will be sold for $500, and the cost of keeping each car will be brought down to $10 a month. He said that a million of such cars would go into service the country over.

Dr. Steinmetz, who is associated with the General Electric company at Schenectady, N. Y., in discussing the automobile industry referred to the cost of oil and gasoline, the concentration required to drive a high-powered car at high speed, and the necessity for keeping the engine in good trim. These things people will do now, he said, because it is considered correct and proper. Soon, however, he said, the automobile will be removed from the realm of sport and become a business proposition, a machine to carry a man to and from his office.

It will no longer be a machine that is needed for long cross-country runs, except for the very wealthy. Long distance driving, like long distance bicycle riding, will fall into disfavor when the social leaders drop the sport, for the people of moderate means follow the lead in such things of the socially elect.

Therefore, he said, the demand will be for a machine easy to run, economical to keep and with a radius of about thirty miles a day. Such a machine will be produced within ten years. It will cost about $500 and will weight about 1,000 pounds.

This will mean a great opportunity for the central electric station. To charge these new electric automobiles will require about 1,500,000,000 kilowatt hours per year, which at 5 cents per kilowatt hour will mean additional business amounting to $75,000,000 a year for the central stations. This business will not require much expenditure of capital to handle, he said, as most of the charging will be done at night, when the electric plants have least to do.

Dr. Steinmetz was perhaps the most interesting figure at the convention. He is one of the greatest electrical geniuses alive. As the master mechanic of the General Electric company he is one of the few men in this country whose salary is in six figures.

MAY START RESTAURANT HERE.

The Pallard-Johnson Company Discussing Proposition.

J. M. Johnson, a representative of the Pallard-Johnson company, of Springfield, Ill., was in the city this morning, looking into a proposition to establish a railroad restaurant in the basement of the Wabash depot. He said before he left that the proposition looked good to him and it was quite likely the company would carry it to consummation. The part of the basement that would be used for the purpose is the center, facing on Grand street, which is now open. It can be enclosed, however. Mr. Johnson said, without difficulty and will make a nice, commodious room for the purpose. The Pallard-Johnson company run restaurants at Springfield, Decatur and other cities on the Wabash system and conduct them on the plan which has made the Harvey people on the Santa Fe so popular and successful.

BANQUET AT ELKS' HOME.

Machinists Plan Big Time There in September.

The convention committee of Friendship lodge, No. 70, International Association of Machinists, reported at the meeting of the union last night that the Elks' Home had been secured for banquet and entertainment purposes for the machinists on Tuesday evening, September 16, the week of the annual meeting of the State Federation in Fort Wayne. The district meeting of the Machinists will be held here on Sunday and Monday, September 14 and 15, and the delegates at that gathering will remain and represent their respective cities in the federation hall. The banquet at the Elks' Home September 16 will be exclusively for members of the Machinists' union, both from out of the city and at home. At the meeting of No. 70 last night six applicants were initiated and fifteen applications for membership were received and turned over to the committee.

BEGINS AT BOTTOM.

G. B. Anderson Will Work His Way Up in the Ranks.

George B. Anderson, a checker in the Nickel Plate freight house, could have a better position at once were it not for his determination to work his way upwards without the "pull" relatives are only too anxious to give him. His father is an inspector for the interstate commerce commission and a brother is a division superintendent on a big railway system. Each would be pleased to use their influence in advancing George, but he won't have it that way. He does not object to advancement upon personal merit, however, and he is working steadily with that end in view. Mr. Anderson purchased a modest little house on High street some time ago and with his wife resides there. At present Mr. and Mrs. Anderson are at Elkhart to attend the funeral of his grandmother.

CIGARMAKERS HAVE ELECTION.

Last evening's meeting of the Cigarmakers' union was enlivened by the semi-annual election, the contest being spirited but friendly. The result was as follows: President, Henry C. Hoeltje; vice president, Henry Koch; recording secretary and treasurer, Charles Kreutzer; financial and corresponding secretary, L. P. Saunders; sergeant-at-arms, E. A. McGee; label custodian, Milo George; board of trustees, Fred Sarge, John Scherman and August Langhurst; finance committee, Harry C. Coover, Charles O. Brownsberger and Louis P. Allen, and executive board, Henry Koch, Charles Kreutzer, L. P. Saunders, Edward Stevens and Samuel H. Randolph. The Cigarmakers' union is one of the strongest labor organizations in the city.

This one comes from Bellefontaine: "Don't touch me or you'll get stung," warned a tramp who was stopped by Big Four Detective Kernan. And the warning was correct for the tramp was carrying, tied up in a paper in his coat pocket, a small swarm of bees. He was ordered out of town.

TRACK INSPECTION WEDNESDAY.

GIANT WESTINGHOUSE CONCERN AT PITTSBURG SPURNS PEACE WITH 10,000 WORKERS NOW ON STRIKE.

GROUP OF GIRL STRIKERS AND PRESIDENT EDWIN M. HERR, THE MAN WHO REFUSED TO ARBITRATE WITH MEMBERS OF THE "GOOD FEELING" ORGANIZATION.

Pittsburg, Pa., June 16.—More than a week ago over 10,000 employes of the Westinghouse plant in the East Pittsburg district went out on strike, asking for improved working conditions and recognition of an organization known as the Allegheny County Congenial Industrial union.

This organization is unique in the industrial world, having been, in its inception, intended as a sort of family affair, having associated in it only employes of the Westinghouse interests. It is in no way connected with the Industrial Workers of the World or the American Federation of Labor.

Strikers contend, however, that as soon as the leaders of the organization movement approached department heads with the idea of suggesting mutually beneficial improvements they were frowned upon and discharged.

VERA CRUZ A CITY OF SORROWS, SAYS SUFFERER OF MANY SIEGES.

(By Fred L. Boalt.)

Vera Cruz, Mex., June 16.—Anastasio Morales, very old, sat in the sun, dreaming and smoking his negros cigarettes. By and by he slept, nodding, only to waken with a start to the raucous clamor of the cathedral chimes. Instinctively he felt for his cigarettes. He searched every pocket. The cigarettes were gone.

"Lorencillo lo ha tomado"—"Lorencillo has taken them," he said.

"Lorencillo? I saw no one."

"That is a good one!" he chuckled. Lorencillo, senor, was a muy malo hombre—a pirate. I did not mean that it was he who took my cigarettes. Some thieving boy, perhaps, but not Lohencillo. It is a saying we have, that is all.

"It was long ago that Lorencillo came—he and his two ships and his 800 men—slipping past the Castillo San Juan de Ulua in the harbor. They sacked and burned, robbed and killed. They drove the women and children into the parochial church in such numbers that many died of suffocation. They carried away much jewelry and ornaments—even the sacred vessels from the church—and four million silver pesos—conceive of it, senor!—and so—"

Old Morales was not chuckling now.

"And so it is the custom in Vera Cruz when anything is lost to say that Lorencillo has taken it!"

"But many Lorencillos have come to Vera Cruz?" I asked.

"Si! It is our fate. My grandfather was killed defending Vera Cruz against the Spaniards in the war for independence. When the Spanish fleet sailed away, in anger it bombarded the city so furiously that it was almost ground to powder.

"Then came the French—Lorencillos all—and attacked us, and went away. And in '47 came your General Scott, and the effects of his cannonading are still to be seen on the walls of Ulua.

"I was but a boy then, and too young to fight, but I was a man, full grown and with a wife and a child to support, when, in 1857, President Benito Juarez came to Vera Cruz and was besieged by General Miramon at the head of the troops of Maximillian's empire.

ANASTASIO MORALES, AGED MEXICAN WHOSE FAMILY HAS SEEN SEVEN SIEGES OF VERA CRUZ.

"A stray bullet slew our baby as it lay on the floor in the open doorway. Wounds heal, senor, and other babies came to sleep or play on the floor in the doorway.

"Next came the 'intervention' fleet—that was what they called it—and the French and the imperial troops of Maximillian were in possession of Vera Cruz for five years.

"Most of that time I lived in the hills. We were ragged and hungry—we who would not accept Maximillian's dream for truth—and we had scarcely any arms; but we paid off many scores, senor! With my own hands I cut down four of their sentries with a machete in the dark.

"The cause of freedom triumphed. Maximillian paid for his dream with his life. Then peace of a sort. It is a pleasant city this Vera Cruz—but deep down in its heart it suffers. The sun is warm, the rains torrential, the soil rich—and the lush grass hides many graves.

"Finally, only a little while ago, the Americans came again. I had a great-grandson a fine boy, senor. Perhaps you saw the procession—the little street cars with the plumes, drawn by mules. I am old, and have many great grandchildren. They were taking him to the cemetery. It was the machine gun—

"Lorencillo has taken him."

INDUSTRIAL NOTES.

Machinist Con Sullivan, of the Wabash round house, is sick and off duty.

E. F. Needham, superintendent of motive power of the Wabash, was in the city today on business for the company.

L. E. Reuling and W. Linnemeier, of the Pennsylvania blacksmith shop, are sick and off duty.

The Wabash took the Hoosier Amusement company to Andrews this afternoon.

F. B. Masel, line bill clerk at the Nickel Plate freight office, is out on a vacation this week.

After a week's sickness, W. F. Sprandell reported for duty at the Pennsylvania power station this morning. He is a lineman.

H. M. Quicksell, agent for the Star Union line, left for northeastern Ohio at noon today to look after some poultry and dairy product shipments.

Machinist and Mrs. T. J. Ehringer, the former of the Pennsylvania shops, are preparing for a visit with relatives at Lima the latter part of the week.

Business visitors in the city yesterday were John Crawford, traveling passenger agent of the Rock Island, and William Hoag, of the Transcontinental Freight Forwarding company, both of Chicago.

Machinist W. H. Tegeder, of the Pennsylvania, has returned from Pittsburg, accompanied by his little niece, an orphan, who will make her home with him. Mr. Tegeder reported for work this morning.

The office force and the immediate associates of Machinist W. G. Dressel in the erecting shop of the Pennsylvania, are well supplied with cigars. He returned, with his bride, last night and this morning resumed work. Mr. and Mrs. Dressel went to Washington and Niagara Falls on their wedding trip.

The officials of the Wayne Oil Tank and Pump company who were in Canada looking after affairs at the Woodstock plant returned yesterday and reported business at the Canadian plant about as good as at the home plant, which means that it is being operated to its fullest capacity.

Rome City people and Fort Wayne people who make occasional visits there for the purpose of fishing have requested the G. R. & I. company to have No. 5, which leaves Fort Wayne at 1:45 and passes through Rome City at 3 o'clock, stop at that station. As evidence of the travel such service would originate the advocates of the plan cite to the fact that many people going to Rome City for a day's outing take No. 5 and get off at Wolcottville, three miles beyond Rome City, and walk back. Last Sunday morning there were nineteen Fort Wayne fishermen who did this.

A special meeting of the Building Trades council is to be held Tuesday evening, June 23 at which time the different business agents are expected to report on the progress of the Fort Wayne locals.

BIG ALARM; NO FIRE.

Firemen From Three Houses Called to a Telephone Pole.

The fire gong sounded at 3:50 o'clock Tuesday morning and when the drowsy firemen heard the alarm, calling an early morning run, members of the department from three stations tumbled from their cots, jumped into their clothing, slid down the brass emergency rods to the wagons and rushed out into the night. The alarm came from the 1400 block on Eliza street, and with much noise and a great deal of excitement the engine house apparatus rushed to the place. What they found was a telephone pole on fire. It took just about a half minute to extinguish the flames.

THE MARKETS

FIRST OF SEASON ARRIVE.

Cherries from the South Come to the Local Markets; Retail at 13c Quart.

Red ripe cherries, the first of the season, arrived from the cherry districts of the south Tuesday morning at the local markets and are selling at the price of 13c per quart or $2 for a crate of sixteen quarts, which, according to dealers, is a moderate price for this time of the year. The cherry outlook seems to be rather bright in these districts, but farmers state that the early crop will be larger than the later one.

The price of hay took a drop of $2 on a ton this morning and farmers received from $12 to $11 a ton for their product. The drop is caused by the present good outlook of the hay for this year. Farmers state that the grass will soon be ready to cut as the timothy heads are beginning to bloom, which is a sign for the cutting.

Strawberry prices took a drop this morning as the farmers brought in large quantities of the fruit to the market. The rain of Saturday evening revived some of the berries, which seemed to be dried up. They were again retailing for 12@15c a quart.

CHICAGO GRAIN AND PROVISIONS.

Chicago, June 16. Notwithstanding that rains extended into the harvest district southwest, threatening damage and delay to the winter crops, wheat made only a slight advance and that not of a lasting sort. The opening, which ranged from a shade off to ⅛c gain, was followed by a little hardening and the sag under last night's level.

The close was weak, ⅜@⅝c to ¾@⅞c net lower.

Corn weakened on account of better weather reports from Argentina. After varying from ⅛c lower to a like advance, the market for the most part showed a moderate setback.

The close was steady, ⅛@¼c to ⅜c net decline.

Oats held relatively steady.

Lack of demand caused a decline in provisions.

THE DAY ON WALL STREET.

New York, June 16.—Stocks moved irregularly at the opening today but soon developed a downward trend. First quotations of a majority of the leaders were lower and the backward tendency of these shares weighted down the list as a whole. Trading was still on a small scale, with no concentrated pressure. A few specialties moved widely. Among the standard shares early losses did not exceed half a point, except in the case of New Haven, which reacted a point after opening a shade lower.

Speculative selling of stocks increased and at noon several of the leaders, including Reading, the Harrimans and Amalgamated, were a point or more under yesterday's close. Selling pressure was based largely on the swelling of the gold export movement, today's engagement being increased to $5,500,000. The market also was depressed by a Washington report that the freight rates decision would not be made known until the end of the month, and that it would be a disappointment to the railroads. Bonds were steady.

The market closed heavy. Prices of stocks suffered because of the unwillingness of speculators to buy in view of the uncertaint outlook. Pressure lifted for a while in the afternoon but the downward movement was in progress again at the lose.

DAILY MARKET LETTER.

(Furnished by J. S. Phillips, North American Building, Fort Wayne, Ind.)

Chicago, June 16.—Wheat lower on liberal offerings of new wheat. Foreign crop news somewhat poor, but has no effects. Market feels the need of outside demand, and while bears are selling slowly on the decline the tone continues heavy. Primary shipments of wheat for two days are small. Wheat news from the northwest and Canada is excellent. Corn crop is making one of the best starts ever known outside the drouth regions of the central west. Eastern cash corn demand is slow, but position of July and September corn is in line with western news. Provisions declined on the June 15 report of Chicago stocks. There were liberal increases of pork and lard. The favorable news on the new corn crop is exercising a natural influence.

Prices of stocks at 2:45 p. m. as follows:

Atchison, 99¾; Copper, 70⅝; B. & O., 91; Canadian Pacific, 192¾; Erie, 28¾; Great Northern, 123¾; Northern Pacific, 111½; Reading, 164⅝; St. Paul, 100; Southern Pacific, 94¼; New Haven, 65¾; Union Pacific, 154⅝; United States Steel, 61⅝.

AN INNOVATION.

"When two men like us and a woman like that are shown in a picture like this, we are generally talking about her, aren't we?"

"Yes, invariably. What about it?"

"Well, let's do something original. Let's not."

Miss Dorothy Dickson, of Chicago, is out to break the world's tango record of 25,000 miles in a year, made by a New York girl. She has tangoed, according to her meter, almost nine thousand miles since the beginning of this year.

Man Who Trapped Sunday Barber Profits—Barber is Soaked $20.

All the luck has been running dead against Amet Barber, a Turk, who runs a combination tonsorial parlor, coffee house, lunch room, lodging kennel and, if police suspicions are accurate, other things at his place on Holman street, near Lafayette. He has been doing a nice tight little Sunday business in his barber chairs and the local union of barbers went after him Sunday, June 7. B. F. Clark dropped in and got shaved. Outside Lieutenant Ed Bevetheimer, of the police, and William Mack, of the Barbers' union, stood and watched the proceedings. An affidavit for Sabbath desecration was filed against Amet Barber next day. The case was continued until Tuesday morning and disposed of by Judge Kerr, who fined the Turk $10 and costs—a total matter of something better than $20, to which the Turk will add his attorney's fee. When Clark paid for his shave he tendered the Greek, who operated on him, a 50-cent piece and received change which he later discovered to amount to 65 cents. The Greek's countenance took on all the animated expression of a dead wall as Clark told his story, while the Turk looked as though he would like to work on his esteemed partner with a meat hack. Barber pleaded that he had been disabled by sore eyes for three weeks and had done nothing in his shop on Sunday. He said the work that went on was merely his two partners shaving each other and his lodgers from the hive upstairs shaving themselves.

Other City Court Cases.

Joseph Lumbard, a youth who was concerned with Elmer Soliday, Donald Walda and Henry Bruggemann in the robbery of the Dohrman grocery, on Winter street, two weeks ago, pleaded guilty to petit larceny and was certified to the juvenile court. He was arrested Monday by Detective Sergeant Walter Immel, who had worked up the case against the gang of young bandits.

Nelson Youse, a farmer from near Hoagland, came to the city, got gloriously piped and fell into the hands of the police. He drew $1 and costs and as soon as the banks opened drew a check for enough to pay his way out.

Charles Weber, out of jail but recently after doing a bit for getting drunk, was back on the same old charge and drew another eleven days.

Raymond Sullivan went into the Strodel delicatessen store Monday and said a nearby saloonkeeper had sent for a twenty-five cent can of fish, the same to be charged to the saloonist's account. He was served and then it was learned he was a petty and probably hungry swindler. He was fined in the city court for getting goods by false pretenses and went to jail.

Walter Wallace, who looked as though he had just escaped from General Kelley's well known army and told Officer Collins he was the advance agent of the Hagenback-Wallace shows, started a premature parade early Tuesday morning and had nothing in it but himself, his dirt, his rags and his souse. In court he pleaded guilty to being drunk and said he would jump the town in a quarter of an hour. Judge Kerr thought he would not and warped him into a slip at the county jail for eleven days.

Charles Buckley, a plain drunk, was turned loose, the case against Charles Gephart charged with selling liquor to minors was continued until next Monday and the case against Carl Kettleson, charged with desertion, was continued a month.
